All-Volunteer Army Postponed

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has turned thumbs down on an all-volunteer army but approved President Nixon's proposal to keep the draft for use only in emergencies.

"We killed the volunteer army, extended the draft for two years and did away with student deferments," said Chairman F. Edward Heber, D-La., after a closed committee session Tuesday.

"In other words, we gave the administration everything they asked for."

Abolish Draft

Legislation sponsored by 87 House members would have abolished the draft, replacing it with an all-volunteer military by boosting pay and other attractions $3.1 billion next year. This was rejected by the committee 28 to 7.

Nixon's proposal is to keep the draft intact but try to attract so many volunteers, starting with a $1.5-billion pay-benefit boost next year, that no drafting will be necessary by June 30, 1973.

The Armed Services Committee is expected to fatten Nixon's proposal, possibly close to the $3 1 billion in the rejected bill, at its next meeting Thursday.

Hebert's proposal to grant conscientious-objector status to young men in return for three years of national nonmilitary service also is to be considered then

Student Deferments

Nixon's request for the same authority to abolish student draft deferments without going to Congress that he already has used to halt work and fatherhood deferments was approved by the committee 31 to 1.

Such action would leave virtually no deferments except in hardship cases.

It approved 32 to 4 Nixon's proposal to extend the draft two years beyond its June 30 expiration and rejected 29 to 4 a four-year extension

All votes are tentative pending final approval of a 1971 draft bill, expected Thursday, but appear too one-sided to be reversed

Whole Package

The President accepted only part of his Gates Commission recommendations last year for replacing the draft with a volunteer Army while the 87 House members wanted the whole package

The Nixon proposal includes a 50-per-cent starting pay boost—to $201 90 a month from the present $134 40 for recruits—and a $3,000 bonus for men enlisting for combat

The Gates Commission, named for former Secretary of the Army Thomas S. Gates, recommended a starting pay boost of more than 100 per cent—$301.50 for recruits—and an average 50-per-cent boost over a two-year enlistment.

Other attractions—such as greater use of civilians for KP and other nonmilitary duties, improved housing, educational opportunities—are similar in both volunteer Army proposals.

Raising Social Security May Be Powerful Economy Spur

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has handed the Nixon administration a powerful catalyst to ignite the nation's economy, boosting Social Security benefits for 26 million Americans who usually spend instead of save.

The 10-per-cent across-the-board increase in benefits, retroactive to Jan. 1, will pump $3.6 billion into the pocketbooks of persons on limited incomes, a group that traditionally parts with its money in a hurry.

The increases were tied to a bill raising the national debt limit a record $35 billion to $430 billion.

As President Nixon prepared to sign the measure today, the nation's economy was in a sluggish state, failing to respond to the stimulative fiscal and monetary policies he has put into effect

Will be Felt

The economic thrust of the Social Security bill will be far-reaching. The extra money, as one economic expert put it, "will go to a lot of people who have been forced to scrimp."

It will be June before the Social Security administration includes the new benefits in paychecks. At that time, Nixon's economic advisers will be able to determine if the economy is going in the direction it has laid out.

Nixon had asked Congress to increase Social Security benefits by 6 per cent, a proposal that would have put $2.1 billion into the hands of retired persons this year, the lawmakers opted for the 10-per-cent hike.

The President proposed raising the income base on which taxes are paid from $7,800 to $9,000, an effective tax increase of $2.5 billion.

Burns Advice

Congress, following advice of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns and private economists, postponed the tax increase until next Jan. 1.

The result is an effective $4-billion stimulus to the economy beyond what Nixon proposed in his budget. The stimulus will come principally from higher consumer spending which is down this year.

In 1970, consumer savings exceeded 7 per cent of disposable personal income, extremely high by historical standards. The administration has predicted the savings rate will come down as the economy expands. The Social Security rise could help lead the way.

The administration's economic target of a 9-per-cent increase in output of goods and services this year relies heavily on a sharp expansion in the money supply by the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Money Supply

The board has expressed reluctance to expand the money supply as fast as Nixon wants and has talked instead of new fiscal measures, such as the Social Security rise, to give the economy an additional thrust.

The benefit increase is viewed also as noninflationary because it comes at a time when the economy is not yet operating at its full potential. Unemployment is high and business is poor.

Under the bill, average payments for an individual were increased from $114 a month to $126. For a couple, the increase is from $199 to $219.

The maximum payment for a retiring worker was raised from $193.70 to $213.10. The minimum payment of $64 a month was increased to $70.40.

The boost, added to a 15-per cent increase made in January, goes to those receiving retirement, disability and family-survivor checks.

The bill removes the 4¼-per-cent interest ceiling on long-term government bonds for $10 billion of Treasury securities, a limitation the government has long sought to remove

Increases in Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — These aer examples of increase in monthly Social Security payments that would result from the bill Congress sent to the White House Tuesday:

Person	Couple	Person	Couple
$ 64	$ 96	$ 70.40	$105.60
$ 80	$120	$ 88	$132
$100	$150	$110	$165
$125	$187.50	$137 50	$206.25
$150	$225	165	$247,50
$190	$285	$209	$313.50

The increase is 10 per cent across the board anyone now receiving benefits can expect that much more starting with checks due to be received early in June.

The Senate had voted originally for larger increases in the minimum payments but these were dropped in the final Senate-House compromise.

The increased benefits are retroactive to Jan. 1 and the amounts due under this provision will be paid separately by checks which the government hopes to mail out in June.

Taxes would increase a maximum of $62.40 each for the employe and employer under provisions effective in 1972.

Under present law, taxes are paid on up to $7,800 of annual earnings. This base would be raised to $9,000 next year. The current tax rate, 5.2 per cent, would stay the same in 1972

In addition, starting in 1976, the presently scheduled rates would be raised, moving in steps to 6.05 per cent each for employe and employer in 1987. The presently scheduled top rate in 1987 is 5 9 per cent

Thomas Dewey, Two-Time Presidential Hopeful, Dies

MIAMI BEACH, Fla (AP) — Some gentle advice from his singing teacher turned Thomas E. Dewey from pursuit of a career on the concert stage to a life of law and Republican politics that included two bids for the presidency.

Dewey, who served three terms as governor of New York, died of a heart attack in his hotel room Tuesday as he was preparing to fly to Washington for a White House party. He was 68.

President Nixon praised Dewey as "a great patriot, a distinguished statesman and a fine human being" and said of the party, "The occasion is diminished beyond words for both Mrs Nixon and me by his death."

Arrangements Pending

Funeral arrangements were scheduled to be held Friday in New York City at St James Episcopal church The body was to be flown to New York late today, with public viewing scheduled for Thursday Details of burial plans were incomplete

A spokesman for the late governor's relatives said the family has requested no flowers be sent, but that contributions might be made to either the New York Heart Association or Roosevelt Hospital.

Dewey was an aspiring young baritone just out of college in 1923 when he went to New York to study with the famous singing coach, Percy Rector Stephens.

Stephens eventually advised Dewey that he sang "too intelligently" to expect outstanding success Music critic Deems Taylor put it a bit more critically when he observed Dewey's singing lacked feeling.

The lack of flair or flamboyance they found in his singing was seen by some of Dewey's Republican critics in later years as the reason for his failure to win the White House.

Lost to Truman

"We should have known he couldn't win—a souffle never rises twice," commented the tart-tongued Alice Roosevelt Longworth after Dewey's upset defeat by President Harry S Truman in 1948.

But Dewey began his public career as one of the toughest racket-busting prosecutors of his time. His rise started with his appointment as a special prosecutor in 1935 to conduct the Rackets Investigation in New York County.

He was elected district attorney of the county two years later. He obtained convictions against 72 of 73 defendants, shattering a powerful web of racketeers.

Best known among them was

U.S. Expected in U.N. Force for Middle East

By JOHN M HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is counting on Congress to support U.S troop participation in a U.N police force to secure a hoped-for Egyptian-Israeli peace settlement

Secretary of State William P Rogers told a news conference Tuesday he was satisfied that if an agreement acceptable to Israel and Egypt can be worked out "our Senate and our House of Representatives would support it."

Rogers also said hopeful conditions now exist for peace even though negotiations are at an impasse at the moment. He warned of danger to the world should the peace efforts fail

Peaceful Settlement

"We think," he said "that if a peaceful settlement is not worked out in the foreseeable future that there is a very dangerous situation that will develop and possibly lead to world war III"

He argued, therefore, the use of big power troops, including Americans, to guarantee any agreement would be a substantial contribution to world peace.

Officials say a peace-keeping force offering new security for Israel and protecting against the possibility of a major war would have strong appeal in Congress.

That any such proposal would face serious challenge in the Senate, however, was indicated by the initial reactions of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and George D Aiken, R-Vt., all members of the Foreign Relations Committee

Less Involvement

Symington said "the less we are involved there the better." And Aiken said a peace-keeping force would be better left to the smaller nations with the United States and the Soviet Union left out"

Mansfield made much the same point

Rogers said the impasse in the negotiations under U N mediator Gunnar Jarring results from Egypt's insistence on the complete Israeli withdrawal from territory captured in 1967 and Israel's demand for holding positions it considers vital to its security

Holding strategic territory has proved more important to its safety than past guarantees, Israel insist. Foreign Minister Abba Eban explained this position in New York Tuesday night when he said the 1967 war "offered a case history in the collapse" of such guaranties.

Israel, he said, will not trust its future to "vague or fragile solutions."

Nevertheless, Rogers is expected to tell Eban in talks here Friday U.S. participation in an international guarantee of a peace settlement will provide the security Israel needs.

International Force

One part this guarantee would be the stationing of an international force, including U.S. troops, at Sharm el-Sheikh, a strategic point dominating Israel's oil supply route to the port of Elat.

Rogers also stressed that a part of the peace agreement should provide for demilitarization of the Sinai Peninsula.

In addition, Rogers said, "We would continue to give support to Israel in terms of economic assistance and other assistance . . . that, of course, would be a very important factor in Israel's attitude toward its security. And we would be prepared to continue to play a supportive role to Israel"

Rogers virtually ruled out any kind of new security treaty for the Middle East.

'It Looks Like a Rout'

Laos Forces in Retreat Pilots Report

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

HAM NGHI, Vietnam (AP) — Repeated North Vietnamese onslaughts are driving the South Vietnamese out of their bases in Laos and back toward their border with heavy losses, American helicopter pilots reported today.

"They can talk about helicopter mobility all they want, but from where I'm flying there's only one way to describe it—retreat and a bad one" said WO Fred Few of Chattanooga Tenn

Another called it a rout

In the past five days the South Vietnamese have abandoned two of their four firebases south of east-west Highway 9, retreated 15 miles and now are about 14 miles from the Vietnamese border, the pilots said

A third base, Landing Zone Brown, appears doomed

"Sure, they've knocked out quite a few enemy supplies and maybe even cut the Ho Chi Minh trail in one or two places," said one pilot, but they haven't stopped the enemy from moving men or supplies, and they're taking a hell of a lot of casualties."

Pursuit Ordered

Radio Hanoi said the Communist command in Laos has ordered all its troops to "pursue, trap and annihilate the U S and Saigon puppet troops

"The enemy is defeated the Pathet Lao order said "Now he is trying to retreat Destroy him"

One ragged column of survivors reached landing zone Brown, the westernmost position still in South Vietnamese hands, only to find it under constant bombardment by enemy mortars, rockets and artillery. The column had retreated from Fire Base Lolo, five miles to the west, which a large North Vietnamese force took Monday night.

Returned to Base

South Vietnamese officers in the field said the Saigon troops pulled out of Brown Tuesday night and between 100 and 150 North Vietnamese troops moved in on the hill after the South Vietnamese left. They returned to the base this morning and found the bodies of 80 North Vietnamese soldiers, the officers said. Some of the South Vietnameses' own ammunition was blown up by the air strikes, American pilots said Brown.

Doctors Optimistic About Surviving Quints

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors say they are optimistic about the survival chances of four baby girls, born 10 weeks premature to Pearl Kaplan, 25, and her 28-year-old husband

The infants, weighing 1½ to 2 pounds, were listed in "guarded" condition after their birth early Tuesday. A fifth child, a boy, was stillborn.

Paul Kaplan, the father and an insurance salesman, said his wife "is just ecstatic This is the greatest thing that could possibly happen."

Doctors at Valley Presbyterian Hospital in suburban Van Nuys where the babies were born, said one of the infants had breathing problems but all were "in excellent condition" for their size

Mrs Kaplan had been taking a fertility drug called Humegon manufactured in Holland, her obstetrician, Dr Hubert Rubenstein told newsmen He said the drug often resulted in multiple births and the Kaplans had been told this

"We felt it was a matter of having no children or going this way," Kaplan said

Dr Rubenstein said Mrs Kaplan had been admitted to the hospital about a month ago

Doctors said the infants were placed in isolettes—sterilized units with carefully regulated temperature—under constant observation and were being fed a glucose solution intravenously

Kaplan said the babies, who must remain in the hospital until they weigh five pounds, have been named Danielle, Kevyn Dawn and Marci

Noiseless Bomblets Help Snoop on Enemy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A recording device called a noiseless button bomblet is what's needed when you want to do some first-class snooping right in the midst of the enemy an Army official says

An array of bomblets were displayed for military and civilian intelligence operatives sunday at the 6th Army Presidio

The gadgets weigh about an ounce and look like pieces of garbage

Lt Col Gilbert Hickenbottom explaining some of the electronic devices said American intelligence has been deployed against the North Vietnamese for more than three years

One of the bomblets he explained starts transmitting a beeps if it is moved as little as 1 32 of an inch

It filtrating the enemy by air drop, the bomblets transmit on FM radio frequencies which are picked up and relayed to headquarters Artillery then can be ordered in "within 15 minutes," he said

Another item, Hickenbottom said, is the "passive infrared device" Its signal sending can be triggered only by the heat emanating from human beings' 98 6 degree body temperature

The bomblet will start beeping when a human comes within 100 feet of it, he said

No indication was given on how extensive the bomblet program is

Demand Probe Of Polluted Fox

'Scandalous Deterioration' Cited

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A petition to the State Legislature signed by more than 600 residents of the Fox River Valley and transmitted by Gordon Bubolz of Appleton today attacked "the continued, scandalous deterioration in the Fox River Valley environment" and demanded a "complete and thorough investigation" by the legislature.

Introduced in the Assembly today by State Rep. William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, addressed as the chairman of the Democratic majority legislative caucus in the Legislature's lower house, the petition said that "public justice demands" an official state inquiry into "the combination of interests which have destroyed the Fox River".

Assembly Minority Leader Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, and State Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, who represent Bubolz and many of the signatories, did not receive copies of the demand, their offices reported.

Rogers said that State Rep. Gervaze Hephner, D-Chilton had agreed to cosponsor the petition for inclusion in the legislative record today

Bubolz once represented Outagamie and Waupaca counties as a Republican in the Senate. The petition he transmitted to Rogers today struck themes similar to the charges he published during the gubernatorial campaign last fall, refuted by then Gov. Warren P. Knowles. Most observers then reckoned, however, that the incident contributed to the victory of Patrick J. Lucey, the Democratic nominee for the governorship, against Republican Lt Gov Jack Olson.

"Conflict of Interest"

The charge included the complaint that "the slow acceleration of pollution in the Fox River in the hands of public officials who have a conflict of interest has resulted in a pollution problem of national concern"

The petition said that among the circumstances tending to show conflicts of interest is the situation whereby Roger Baird, an officer of Kimberly-Clark Corp., is chairman of the area waste treatment of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), and that he has named a technical committee which includes other persons employed in the paper industry including a Kimberly-Clark engineer.

Baird said today that there wasn't a conflict of interests and that the group the petition named had come out with a preliminary endorsing the regional sewerage treatment plan adopted last year by COG delegates — elected officials and citizens of Fox Cities communities and Oshkosh The final report will indicate the same, he said.

He also noted that he is chairman of the citizens advisory committee set up by COG delegates about two years ago. The technical subcommittee of that committee is the one attacked by the petitioners.

The subcommittee reports to the committee. "The citizens advisory committee only provides advice upon request by COG delegates for specific assistance on specific problems which are concerning them," Baird said

Community Medical Plan OK'd by Senate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The communities of Bear Creek, Shiocton and Black Creek may be able to attract a doctor to serve all three areas on a part-time basis if a bill passed by the Senate Tuesday clears the Assembly.

The bill introduced by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek would permit cities, villages and towns to borrow either $50,000 from the state school trust fund or an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of the community's equalized evaluation to construct a doctor's office, clinic or hospital in order to attract doctors to practice there. The motion was approved by a vote of 23 to 7.

Lorge said that a doctor — whom he would not name — who lives in the area of the three Outagamie County communities has offered to serve the communities if facilities were provided. His service would be on a part-time basis, Lorge said.

The senator said that neither Bear Creek nor Shiocton has medical facilities, but that Black Creek has space that has been used in the past and would not need the bill's authority. But, apparently the doctor's offer hinges on all three communities' participation.

Measure Opposed

It appeared that the proposal might be sidelined when Sen. Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee, moved for indefinite postponement. He and Sen. Walter John Chilsen, R-Wausau, opposed the measure on the ground that it would hold out "false hope to small communities," in Chilsen's words, that they can attract and retain medical services.

The two senators have served on a medical education study committee and claim that many communities that have built medical centers to attract doctors have found them empty in a few years.

"There are other methods and more viable solutions," Chilsen said. Parys said they would have a bill that would propose an alternative solution later in the session.

But Lorge charged that their bill probably would require expenditures of state funds and the late arrival of the bill will doom it to failure because Gov Patrick Lucey has warned legislators that he will not sign a bill without a funding proposal attached.

Parys said it would be a mistake to permit the taxpayers to go into debt to build medical facilities that will join others in Wittenburg and Rib Lake that are now empty.

Sen. Reuben La Fave, R-Oconto, cited a community-built medical facility in the city of Florence that is operating and providing service, particularly to tourists and summer residents.

"It may be your child, when you come up north on vacation, who needs a doctor," La Fave warned the urban senators. If it were not for the Florence office, he said, area persons would have to travel 160 miles for immediate help. He said the doctor there has been credited with saving some lives and the sight of a child that would have been lost if help were not available there

Lorge said that one-third of the state is without service of a doctor These persons are, he said, primarily old and living in communities where there is no

Search for New Quarters For Welfare Delayed Again

Ignoring charges of heel-dragging by a special committee appointed to look for larger quarters for the Welfare Department, the Board of Public Works decided Tuesday to wait for the committee's report rather than act immediately

Ald Edward Maloney (9th), City Council welfare and ordinance chairman, moved to relocate the welfare offices in the former Congregational Church, but failed to receive a supporting second.

His motion followed Police Chief Earl Wolff's report that the police station could make room for the parking meter department now housed in City Hall, but only by vacating garage space now used for meter maid's vehicles or else by installing ventilation in the basement.

It has been proposed that the meter department could shift across the street to the police station, opening City Hall basement space to the Welfare Department

Special Committee

A special committee of department heads was appointed last month to study the proposal but Maloney complained members "haven't been able to get anybody together."

Finance Director David Champion, appointed chairman of the committee by Mayor George Buckley, recited the list of meeting dates that have been proposed and said that he may be unable to attend a meeting set for this Friday morning to examine the police station

Champion indicated he may be out of town Friday, and when Maloney pressed the matter, Champion added, "Only if Neenah wins Thursday night." The reference apparently was to the Neenah High School basketball team, playing in the state tournament in Madison Champion lives in Neenah and has children in Neenah schools

Following Maloney's failure to win support for his motion the board voted to move on to other business and await the report of the special committee. Besides Champion, members include Meter Superintendent Donald Heinritz, Inspection Director Charles Magnette and Public Works Director Robert Miller.

In other action, the board:

Recommend Rejection

—Recommended City Council rejection of an annexation petition for a single vacant lot on Richard Street in the Town of Grand Chute, after being advised that utility service to the lone lot would be costly, and justifiable only if an entire block were annexed

—Filed an offer by Joseph Engel, local real estate broker, to sell the city a business building on S Foster Street in the Town of Menasha as a future fire station, apparently on the assumption the area someday will be annexed to the city

—Endorsed a water commission proposal to apply for state and federal aid for building lagoons and pumping facilities for disposing of water treatment sludge.

Ball Diamonds

—Reaffirmed a previous recommendation to have the Street Department do fine grading of Langedyke Park baseball diamonds after a private contractor for the Park Department has done the major work, roughing out the four-diamond complex

Ald William Errington (15th), who had objected to the street department doing the work to the possible neglect of other projects, failed to appear in defense of his position

Champion explained Errington's arguments and indicated agreement, but Park and Recreation Commissioner Ralph Gertsch accused Champion of mixing unrelated issues.

The board agreed with Gertsch that if the two departments believe they can get should go ahead

New School Spending Plan To Go to Council Tonight

A revised plan for shifting school spending from salaries to improvements and materials will be placed before the Appleton City Council tonight by its School Advisory Committee

More generous with recommended salary increases than an earlier proposal, the new guidelines still urge emphasizing funds for school materials, supplies, maintenance and capital improvements.

The aim of the proposal is the same: To give the municipal officials who levy local school taxes a voice in next year's school spending policies before a major portion of the school budget has been fixed by contracts with employe groups and unions.

Approved on a 3-1 voice vote by the advisory committee, the measure goes first to the council and if approved then it goes to the Fiscal Control Board, made up of the council and the chairmen of four towns served by the Appleton Joint School District.

Plan Modification

The recommendations, offered by Ald. Delmar Schwaller (16th) as a modification of a plan by Grand Chute Town Chairman Ira Livingston, propose the following guidelines to the School Board:

—Base salary increases should be held to a maximum of 3 per cent, which would mean a 7 per cent increase for experienced personnel already eligible for an automatic 4 per cent annual hike

— All other wage increases would be kept to a minimum

— Fringe benefits would "be kept competitive with other communities."

—Instructional materials, supplies, maintenance and capital improvements would be emphasized.

The Livingston proposal had called for holding pay for administrators, teachers and maintenance workers to this year's $8.7 million total, while increasing the supplies, materials and improvements budgets by 10 per cent.

Same Reality

Both proposals were prompted by the same reality By the time the fiscal board acts on the school budget at the end of each year, more than 80 per cent of the spending proposal already is "locked in" through contracts with professional groups and unions, and more is fixed by necessity, for items such as utilities, insurance and similar costs

The result is that the fiscal board, although legally charged with determining how much to approve in school spending and taxes, feels hamstrung by commitments already made by the school board.

The fiscal board feels free to delete spending in only the slim portion of the budget that isn't fixed — primarily maintenance, materials, equipment and improvements

Those items have been cut regularly for the past several years.

The advisory committee reasons that it is time to start catching up on those areas of spending and holding back on salary increases.

Ald. Bruce Stutzman (1st), a teacher in the Hortonville school system, voted against the proposal. He said he could accept the salary limitations contained in the recommendation, but said he objects to "the concept of the whole thing"

"I think this is putting a monkey on the back of the school board," he said, objecting to intervening the bargaining process between school officials and personnel groups

The severity of budget cuts ordered by the fiscal board the past few years "is enough of a mandate to the school board" to hold down spending, Stutzman argued

But Schwaller and Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) defended the move, Schwaller saying the public and the fiscal board deserve a voice on school spending before commitments are made by the school board, and Kalata saying the advisory group would "be a little remiss" if it failed to express itself Schwaller added that he views the guidelines as "helping the school board" during negotiations

Mayor Can Expect Resistance to COG School Study Plan

An attempt by Mayor George Buckley to transfer a study of local school facilities from the city planning department to the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) is expected to meet resistance at tonight's City Council meeting

Ald Judith Winzenz (12th) disclosed to the council's school advisory committee Tuesday that Buckley nearly succeeded in having a plans Commission recommendation held up so he could go ahead with transferring the study to COG

The advisory committee which Mrs Winzenz chairs recently recommended a study by Planning Director Jack Hetu to determine whether the Columbus Jackson and Washington schools should be renovated or replaced with a single elementary school to serve the central city

The committee proposed a similar study involving the Badger, Twin Willows and Woodlawn schools in the Town of Grand Chute

Endorsed Study

The plans commission endorsed the study but Buckley later framed a formal request to COG to make the report Since this study would involve schools located in the Town of Grand Chute it is clear that this is a regional planning effort as opposed to a local study," Buckley wrote in a letter to COG executive director Eugene Franchett

The mayor also asked Hetu to leave the plans commission recommendation out of the commission's report to the City Council a move that would have put off council action on it

Hetu originally complied but this morning issued an addendum to the report he filed earlier with the council The addendum reports the commission's endorsement of the central school study but as a footnote reports the mayor's request for the COG study

The addendum came out after members of the commission and advisory committee got wind of Buckley's move and asked City Atty David Geenen whether the mayor had authority to remove an item from a report already adopted by an official policy making body

No Authority

Geenen confirmed today that he ruled, "The mayor has absolutely no authority"

But he added that Buckley's request apparently was only to delay rather than delete the item so it wasn't a serious matter It was up to the planning director to choose between the mayor's request and

Supervisors Want Secretary

Hiring of a legislative secretary for the Outagamie County Board was recommended this morning by the board's executive committee but recommended pay grade and specific duties will be left to the personnel committee

The position had been included in rule change proposals submitted to the board earlier this month and had been referred back to committee for recommendation and definition

Most members of the executive committee agreed that the legislative secretary position should be more than just traditional secretarial duties Precise duties were to be left for the personnel committee to recommend

However among qualifications suggested by various committee members were ability to type, possible by capable of taking shorthand, and some accounting knowledge

Possible Duties

The same committee members felt the legislative secretary probably should take the minutes at all of the committee meetings, write letters for supervisors, draw up resolutions, maintain county board files, do research for the board and individual supervisors and foresee the political needs of the supervisors

The pay grade range most agreed should probably be from grades 12 to 11 $550 to $725 per month maximum)

Supv Marvin Babbitt Seymour chairman of the personnel committee noting lack of agreement within the executive committee wanted to know if his committee would be supported by the executive committee when a recommendation is brought in

"You're willing to put it to the personnel committee because you can't make the decision yourselves" Babbitt told executive committee members

Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton said he would object only if the job was rated too low "I want the office to be of assistance to the inquisitive supervisors" Kloes said "Research is the big issue and we're not going to get it out of a grade 6"

One was thrown from the boat in attempting to shoot the rapids and the craft capsized when the other young man attempted to rescue his companion Both youths are seniors at Kaukauna High School

Neenah Is Closing in on its Old Clear Water Culprit

NEENAH — Armed with some interesting facts about clear water infiltration into the sanitary sewer system, Wayne Bryan, public works director, plans to renew his efforts to get city legislation barring the hookup of foundation drain hookups which he considers one of the major sources of clear water infiltration.

Sunday night's storm and resulting flood conditions gave Bryan and his crews a chance to take a first hand look to see where the clear water was coming from.

Last summer, the city retained American Pipe Services to seal all the sanitary sewers in two areas of the city to make sure that storm water could not get into the sanitary mains.

The two areas, one served by the Adams Street lift station and the other by the Meadowbrook lift station, experienced as much flooding as any area of the city.

Calling the flood "The worst that I can ever remember," Bryan pointed out that he had no indication that the city sewers in the two test areas were leaking.

According to Bryan, the sealed sanitary sewers leave two other possible sources of infiltration. One is manhole covers and the second is foundation drains hooked directly to the sanitary sewers.

"We know that there's a lot of water getting in through the manholes," he admitted.

But, over the past three years, he's had a sump metered to determine just how much water a sump would pump from the well which is fed exclusively by the foundation drains.

"Up to Sunday night, the most that had been pumped was 1,000 gallons in a 24-hour period. But Sunday night, it pumped 3,000 gallons in 10 hours," he explained.

Continued Flooding

Although the immediate crisis of the rain and melting snow is past, Bryan pointed out that the sewers are "still being fed faster than they can handle it," resulting in continued flooding.

He cited one area which is served by an eight-inch sewer which is still flooding. The capacity of the sewer is about 450 gallons a minute. "If there are five homes on that line which are feeding a four-inch line of clear water, it would be enough to flood the sewer," he said.

Reluctant to pinpoint the foundation drains as the sole source of clear water, Bryan said, "All we know for sure is that we're getting a hellava lot of water."

Foundation Drains

"Foundation drains are an obvious source of clear water," he said adding that with the water table being high, and the ground frozen "there's no place else for the water to go."

Since 1958, the city has required that all new homes be equiped with a sump pump and that the foundation drains feed into the sump well instead of the sanitary sewer. However, there were many homes in existance before 1958 and Bryan has argued that legislation is needed to require those homes to block up the sanitary sewer hookup and reroute the foundation water to a sump well.

$200 Cost

However, aldermen have been reluctant to pass an ordinance for several reasons. One is the estimated $200 per home cost, and another is difficulty expected in trying to enforce the ordinance.

Menasha OKs Sewer Use Fee

MENASHA — Menasha has a sewer user fee ordinance.

"It's one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation to be passed in the city of Menasha in the past 30 years," said Mayor James Adams, chief architect of the controversial ordinance that received unanimous council approval Tuesday night.

The battle for a user fee is not over yet, however. Adams will now ask Neenah officials for a joint meeting of the two common councils in about two weeks to discuss the Menasha package and see if they can get Neenah to pass the same thing.

Third Ward Ald. Sumner Parker got unanimous council support (Adams didn't complain, but he wasn't happy) for a clause to the ordinance that would make it go into effect when on May 1, or when Neenah passes an ordinance "substantially similar" to Menasha's.

Neenah Ald. Michael G. Ellis said today that he planned to approach the city council tonight to get an indication "one way or another" on the aldermen's feeling toward a sewer user fee. "I want us to determine how we are going to pay for this plant," he said, pointing out that he has been researching state financing statutes and has found five separate ways in which the city could provide the money for the sewage plant operation and expansion.

Adams said today that he will send copies of the Menasha ordinance to Neenah officials today, so they can consider it at tonight's council meeting.

The Menasha ordinance addition, more significantly, says that a user fee cannot be implemented for the last six months of 1971, until the two cities approve a "supplemental budget" for expenditures raised by the 1971 revenues.

Two major changes were made in the ordinance before it was passed Tuesday night. Both were made by Adams.

Industry Fee

One set the 1971 user fee for industry at six cents per 1,000 gallons of water measured, while the residential and commercial fee was set at 15 cents per 1,000 gallons. The fees had been 16 and 18 cents.

The other set specific limits for BOD (biochemical oxygen demand) and suspended solids content of waste that would determine whether a firm comes under the industrial, or residential-commercial, fee.

Adams said the new fees would mean about $50,000 in additional revenues from Menasha, per quarter, if they are implemented. That depends on whether or not Neenah agrees to the same fee, however, and both cities adopt a budget for expenditures of the money in the last six months of 1971.

Otherwise, the user fee would not go into effect until January, 1972, when the sewerage plant operation will be (again, if Neenah goes along) entirely funded through user fee revenues.

Adams said the new fees "give a more equitable distribution." He said industry, under the new fee, would pay about 74 per cent of the total fees collected.

While aldermen discussed and approved the ordinance Tuesday night, a representative from the Madison office of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) listened and took notes from her seat in the audience. Barbara Howard would not say why she was there observing, however.

There was more talk about whether or not user fee revenues could be used this year to pay possible fines if the DNR levies them against the two cities and sewerage commission for non-compliance with pollution abatement orders.

Industrial representatives claimed Monday, at a public hearing, that statutes don't allow it. City Atty. Richard Steffens said Tuesday, however, that a court has never decided that.

He said, "Somewhere along the line, they'll pay 80 per cent of the fines, anyway," because they do account for 80 per cent of the plant load and will pay nearly 80 per cent of the user fees.

Adams also answered another industrial concern Tuesday by bringing in the BOD and suspended solid limits to distinguish between "industrial" and "commercial and residential" users. Formerly, a firm could pay the industrial fee if it sent 3 million gallons to the plant in one year or if the commission ordered it.

Rural Trailer Home Damaged by Fire

STEPHENSVILLE — Fire of unknown cause swept through a trailer home a mile south of here early today, gutting half the unit and doing an estimated $7,000 damage.

There were no injuries. The occupants and owners of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tate, route 1, Hortonville, were working when the blaze broke out shortly before 1:30 a.m.

Tate, 21, saw flames leaping out a window when he got home from Neenah Foundry at 1:30 a.m. He summoned the Hortonville Fire Department. Tate's wife, Florence, 20, a nurse at Appleton Memorial Hospital, was on duty at the time.

Hortonville Fire Chief Robert Rindt said his men concentrated efforts on saving the other half of the 10 by 55 foot unit. He said one-half the unit was completely burned out. Heat and smoke damage to the remainder of the unit was severe, he said.

Rindt said the blaze apparently started in the combined living-dining room area of the home. A definite cause was not established. Fire fighters remained at the scene, a mile south of here on State 76, until 3:45 a.m.

Rindt said the couple has lived in the home for the past two years. The home, purchased used, stands on the property of Tate's father, Donald, whose barn and garage were flattened last Dec. 1 by a tornado that whipped without warning through Outagamie County.

Winnebago County Board Ready to Do Own Planning

OSHKOSH — There was no opposition from the county board Tuesday to dropping out of Northeastern Regional Planning Commission and going into planning with Outagamie, Calumet and possibly other area counties.

Supervisors expressed frustration because Northeastern and the Fox Valley Council of Governments were not merging and said their first steps toward going it alone were no reflection on the quality of service received from Northeastern. It was praised.

But, in order for Winnebago County to drop out of Northeastern it must give notice by July 1. To receive federal aid it must have planning for at least the SMSA standard metropolitan statistical area of Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet counties by Jan. 1 1972.

Now, neither Northeastern nor COG meet federal criteria for regional planning agencies. There can only be one so far they are hung up on that.

Supt. Alfred Becher, Menasha, voiced the strongest defense of Northeastern's service to the county, but admitted that COG and Northeastern wouldn't even meet about merging anymore.

Kenneth Seefeld, chairman of the coordinating committee where the go-it-alone idea originated, said, "Our decision is no reflection on Northeastern or COG. We are just trying to do the best we can for the county."

Supv. Ted Neely, Menasha, cautioned the board to remember that the eight-county Lake Winnebago administrative district had to be thought of in planning. He also wanted to see a run down of Northeastern's projects, costs and personnel and what effect dropping out would have.

Study Projects

Charles Hervey, executive director of Northeastern, said this morning they were working on a solid waste report, housing for the county's elderly, a $100,000 grant from the Federal Water Quality Administration for Oshkosh State University and six area-wide projects which affect the county.

He wondered if a two-man county planning department could match Northeastern's 15-discipline breadth for about the same money. The county's share of Northeastern's budget is $25,300; two planners, a secretary and office expenses would be about the same.

Hervey also pointed out that Northeastern's total budget amounted to 68 cents per capita, 18 cents of that comes from levies on member counties and 50 cents of it comes from federal and state grants. He questioned the county's ability to get planning grants for one county alone.

No one was directed to bring in comparative information to the board, though the coordinating committee is going to meet with county planners from Fond du Lac and Calumet counties to see how they have set up their programs.

Kampo Against

Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha, cast the lone "no" vote on the coordinating committee to dropping out of Northeastern. He favored setting up a county planning department, however.

He explained his "no" by saying he didn't want to see a huge planning commission on the administrative district, I'd sooner stay where we are. If not, let's go with the SMSA."

Time of Opening for New School is Debated

NEENAH — When should Armstrong High School open? When it is ready or when the opening would cause the least problems?

These were the questions the board tackled during its committee-of-the-whole meeting Tuesday night, after Armstrong principal Oscar Mussman handed out a timetable on program and staffing development, based on a September, 1972, opening.

The opening date of the building will determine how much of this planning and work can be done. It will determine the "tone" of the school, Mussman said.

'Very Clumsy'

"It would be very clumsy to move in mid-year," he said.

Board president Mrs. Marjorie Buchanan said she didn't remember the board deciding that it wouldn't open Armstrong if it was finished. And during an earlier discussion with the architect Tuesday night, the board was told that the school would possibly be finished for a February, 1972 opening.

"This is a real puzzle. Seems to me, we will have to make a decision," Donald Shepard said.

James Dickson, who later threw a hooker in the discussion by suggesting the Shattuck High School go to a bimester system this fall, said he would like a thorough investigation to explore the possibility of a February opening.

Supt. Donald Scott said the administration has thoroughly explored the pros and cons. He also pointed out that the architect and general contractor can't predict bad weather or even strikes, which could slow up construction progress.

"I tend to be a bit pessimistic on deadlines," he said. But he added that he didn't want to be in a position of giving the contractor an open end on the completion date.

Donald Buchta, board member, said he felt the board had an obligation to push for a February deadline, but later admitted that there may be more problems than it is worth to move in the middle of the year.

Assistant Supt. James Fricke pointed out that when the building is finished enough for moving, there would have to be time allotted for moving. And Scott said that the moving process would upset the work going on at Shattuck.

He said that it would be feasible to move during Christmas vacation, but currently there aren't projections that the school would be ready that early.

Upset 1,800 Kids

"Which is worse," Fricke said, "to put up with overcrowding for another three months (at Shattuck), or is it worse to completely upset 1,800 kids?"

Dickson said he was surprised that the board was talking about it at all, that he thought it was decided to go ahead when the building was completed.

Student Registrations

SHERWOOD — Registration for St. John-Sacred Heart Catholic School children will be conducted after all masses this weekend at both schools.

It is for children who will enter school for the first time in September.

Schools to Try Law Enforcement Class

Pilot programs to familiarize youngsters with law enforcement and hopefully decrease their chances of getting on the wrong side of the law will be instituted next month in three Fox Cities schools

The federally-funded program is being developed for the region's schools through the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), and may be incorporated in numerous schools next school year

Grafton Ray, in charge of the program, said Tuesday Edison and Jefferson elementary schools in Appleton and Butte Des Morts Junior High at Menasha would incorporate programs after Easter vacation

Ray told the COG technical advisory committee on law enforcement that he would work closely with the instructors in the schools to coordinate curriculums and teaching materials He said that police officers will do most of the teaching

The evaluation after this spring trial will be used to determine the effectiveness of the program and its future use The juvenile education project offers four separate program areas — law and the youth, which is being evaluated, history of law enforcement, courts and corrections, and delinquency causes and cures

Schools will have the option to incorporate part or all of the program Ideally, the program would run from sixth through the ninth grades in the mentioned order, Ray said

The juvenile education project which is funded for three years, now begins its second year, and COG committeemen today approved seeking the second year grant of $13,972 The local share is $4,672

Ray said that judges, attorneys and others would be used in the full program

In other action, the committee approved Oshkosh and Neenah police departments requests for riot control equipment Oshkosh is seeking $1 722 in federal funds for bull horns, generator, pepper fog and other equipment, while Neenah is seeking $3,187 for tear gas, masks, shields, helmets and other items

The funding ratio is 75 per cent federal, 25 per cent local

Dan Van De Hey, director of the East Central criminal justice planning agency, said that if passed, President Nixon's revenue sharing plan would mean no local contribution in future grants but total state control on where and how the funds would be spent locally It's questionable whether the proposal will pass congress

Nashotah Man Faces Count Of Burglary

Police Charge Involvement in Kimberly Break-in

A rural Nashotah man today was charged with one of several burglaries for which a Menasha man, a member of a statewide theft ring, was sentenced to prison late last year

Howard Duke, 50, route 1 was charged in a complaint signed by Kimberly Police Chief Donald Schmeck.

County Judge Nick F Schaefer set an April 1 preliminary hearing for Duke, who turned himself into Outagamie County authorities this morning when he learned there was a warrant for his arrest. He posted 10 per cent and was allowed to sign for the balance of a $1,500 bond.

Outagamie County investigators suspect Duke participated in the ring's operations with Jerome Baer, 35, 1350 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, who was sentenced to seven years in the State Prison last Nov. 19

Baer had been convicted on 21 separate felonies, brought in 11 Wisconsin counties. Of the five counts lodged here, one also named Duke. The charges were burglaries, thefts and one count of conspiring to commit theft

Duke is charged with the burglary of the George Langenhuizen home, 388 Schindler Drive, Kimberly, on Sept. 14, 1969. A complaint charges that he and Baer broke into the residence and that Duke intended to steal an air conditioner.

Authorities said this morning that other charges, from Winnebago and Calumet Counties, were being prepared and may be brought against Duke.

Duke awaits a preliminary hearing in his home county of Waukesha April 26 for a burglary in Waukesha. A misdemeanor case of concealing stolen property is pending action on the felony case, authorities in that county said this morning.

Two Appleton men previously were placed on probation for their parts in the ring following Baer's sentencing. A Neenah man, who police suspect also was a member of the same ring, awaits a jury trial May 10 on a theft charge.

Car Hits Traffic Light, 2 Injured

Two persons were injured slightly this morning when the auto they were riding in knocked down an automatic signal at Memorial Drive and Prospect Avenue.

Lyle J. Meltz, 20, 1716 N Oneida St., sustained a back injury and Judy M. Kapitzke, 18, 820 W. Prospect Ave., bumps and bruises. The driver of the car, Roger L. Kohli, 24, 1503 W. Rogers St., escaped injury, police said.

Police said Kohli was southbound on Memorial at high speed shortly before 2:30 a.m. He attempted a right turn onto Prospect when the auto slid 53 feet, jumped the curb and smashed into the automatic signal, coming to rest in the intersection.

John is a 1959 graduate of Appleton High School-West and received a bachelor of arts degree from Lawrence University in 1963. Slaughterhouse Request Heard By Health Board

KAUKAUNA — Members of the board of health took no action Monday night on a request of Henry Vander Heyden, proprietor of Van's Meats, 312 W De Langlade St., for permission to operate a slaughterhouse at the same location.

The owner indicated that all animals would be butchered on the date of their arrival, no outside pens would be involved and all animals would be inspected by the State Department of Agriculture.

The place of business under consideration is in an area zoned heavy industrial, but city ordinance prohibits operation of a stockyard or slaughter of animals in an area thus zoned without approval of the board of appeals City ordinance also prohibits slaughtering animals wihtin the city without having a written permit from the board of health doctor, no public transportation to the nearest doctor and no means of personal travel. They need, he said, a weekly shot or periodic check-up, and in some instances the elderly are being compelled to move to the cities, away from their friends, simply because of the lack of medical services.

In a related bill which Lorge introduced into the Senate March 5, a new medical school would be created in Wisconsin, possibly at Green Bay, and the Medical College of Wisconsin, formerly the Marquette Medical School, would be expanded.

The bill provides for a 5-cent cigarette tax to finance the proposals, which include numerous other provisions to expand medical education in Wisconsin, including the student loan fund.

Lorge has said that he considers the shortage of medical doctors in Wisconsin as one of the most critical problems.

"With the exception of our large cities, our smaller cities of 10,000 population or under are the areas where the greatest shortage of doctors exists," he said.

The bills' provisions include developing pilot programs to improve and extend health services; developing programs of continued education for physicians and allied health professionals; and creating a medical services council to assess the state's medical needs and to recommend programs to utilize fully the skills and services of nurses and paramedical personnel in areas suffering from a shortage of physicians.

Passenger Gain Recorded Again By North Central

North Central Airlines, which stops at Oshkosh and Green Bay and has experienced passenger total increases every year since its inception in 1948, recorded a 16 per cent gain during 1970, the annual report has revealed

The airline carried 3,753,020 passengers last year, 510,201 over the previous year. Compared with 1966 boardings of 2,056,209, the passenger increase for the five-year period was 83 per cent.

Revenue passenger miles rose to 806,164,805 in 1970 — 32 per cent over 1969, and 127 per cent ahead of 1966.

Air cargo gains, including air freight, express and mail, also were achieved in 1970 The airline flew a record 92,399,219 pounds of cargo, 12 per cent more than in 1969 and 77 per cent over 1966 said Hal N Carr, chairman

North Central provided 1,810,327,199 available seat miles on its route system in 1970, a 17 per cent increase Since 1966, seat miles have risen 146 per cent as a result of new route awards and the addition of larger, jet aircraft

As previously reported, 1970 was North Central's greatest year of traffic growth, and the company earned the largest profit in its history — $2,178,000 after an out-of period charge of $617,000

The airline achieved record revenues of $91,952,000 in 1970, 34 per cent over the previous year This revenue gain of $23,524,000 for 1970 is the firm's highest

Dewey's Campaign Stop in Appleton

More than 3,000 persons crowded in and around Lawrence Memorial Chapel April 2, 1948, to hear presidential hopeful Thomas E. Dewey slash at the Truman administration for failing to halt runaway inflation and loosen the grip of the "Red revolutionaries."

H. V. Higley of Marinette, chairman of the state GOP Voluntary Committee, introduced the New York governor to the overflow audience saying, "It's time to take the Missouri Waltz off the hit parade."

The presidential hopeful died Tuesday afternoon in Miami, almost a quarter century after this excited reception.

Dewey's appearance in Appleton ended a two-day state tour four days before the Wisconsin primary election. Hundreds of Dewey supporters stood outside the chapel listening over loudspeakers.

They heard him characterize the Truman administration's foreign policy as one of "fantastic stupidity." They heard him call for a cut in government costs, a reduction in taxes and the national debt and a halt to the spread of communism and inflation."

And they heard him proclaim that "America's No. 1 domestic issue is peace."

"The danger to the peace of the world," he contended, "lies in the fact that the peace-loving nations, weakened by their long struggle in the war, are being actively menaced by the slick and ruthless Red revolutionaries."

He accused the administration of blundering by not obtaining reasonable agreements for future peace in the post-war dealings with Russia, and he cautioned that ". . . we must allow a weak, incompetent and wavering administration to bungle us into a war."

It was no secret, Dewey emphasized, that the Reds "intend to take over the world."

He added, "for more than two years, while the Chinese courageously fought a bloody battle with the Communists, your government stood before the world as one which believes that you can do business with the Communists."

He saw the causes of inflation rooted in the heavy government spending of the 1930s and World War II, the overabundance of federal jobs, "too much loose and sloppy budgetry, too little business management and too much plain waste."

On the other hand, Dewey warned that if taxation continued at current levels, it would slow the economy and bring on "chronic depression."

Dewey, who drew a tremendous ovation, told his supporters "the nation needs a new birth of confidence in the integrity of the national government to be sure it is run by qualified men who are honest and competent."

That, he said, would be "a great change, indeed" strict compliance with the commission's action. Geenen said Hetu is commission secretary and as such writes up the reports.

Geenen pointed out similar requests have been honored in the past to withhold items from reports under certain circumstances, and there usually isn't any objection.

The advisory committee disagreed with Buckley's view that the study is a regional matter Ald Walter Kalata (2nd) pointed out that the portion of the study involving schools within the city was prompted by complaints from city residents living near the schools.

Ald. Bruce Stutzman (1st) called it "an obstructive tactic"

Mrs Winzenz said she expects at tonight's council meeting that "somebody will make a motion to refer it to COG," and suggested that the committee will have to defend its recommendation to have the study done by Hetu

Kalata agreed that study should be begun promptly, not delayed by being transferred Committeemen questioned whether such a study lies within the realm of matters of concern to the regional planning agency

In other business the committee recommended council referral to its legislative committee of several state legislative bills affecting school and labor relations.

Probe Demanded Of River Pollution

seph Foley, retired Kimberly-Clark engineer; Robert Driessen, engineer of Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna; Paul Klein, a Kimberly-Clark engineer, Dr. Robert Holm, research associate of The Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton, and Robert Natrop, public works director of Kaukauna

The citizens advisory committee was set up with a representation with a broad base in backgrounds and geographical location. It includes representatives of the League of Women Voters, industry, The Post-Crescent, The Institute and other groups

Polluting interests "control a majority of the citizen members of the regional water resources advisory board of the state Department of Natural Resources, the petition alleged, repeating a Bubolz allegation of last year.

"One of the horrendous pollution problems on the Fox River and Little Lake Butte des Morts is the daily bypassing of millions of gallons of raw sewage," the petition continued.

"This has destroyed approximately 30 miles of Green Bay and is a threat to Lake Michigan. There is little doubt but what control of the sewerage commission by individuals representing corporations having pollution interests to protect had much to do with the present inadequacies of the sewage treatment operation. Adequate and proper charges for the use of sewage treatment facilities by industrial concerns remains unresolved," the petition went on

The legislature daily receives bundles of petitions on public problems and pending legislation. It has no immediate effect under the rules. Normally petitions are received routinely and noted in the journal, and kept in the files of appropriate committees.

Rogers said today that he had shown the complaints submitted by Bubolz to Rep. Lewis Mittness, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Natural Resources, and that Mittness had shown considerable interest.

Boy Scout Parents Learn of Activities At Special Program

KAUKAUNA — Parents of boys in Scout Troop 31 learned of the organization of the group, programs and activities at a parents' night program handled by Scout leaders and committeemen recently.

Scoutmaster Roger Hietpas told parents that the ability of a Scout to advance in scouting depends in a great deal on the interest shown by parents in the boy's activities. Activity Chairman Jerry Long showed slides of Scout camping and hiking programs at Gardner Dam.

Plans were announced for a winter camp for troop members at Gardner Dam on April 2 through 4 and a summer program the week of July 25. Plans also were made for an April paper drive to help raise funds to meet troop expenses.

Tax-Exempt Riverbank Plan Set Back

Shoreline Stabilizing Idea Denounced by Legislative Group

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A tax exemption plan painstakingly designed by the joint Legislative Council to encourage private landowners to take measures to stabilize the banks of the Wolf River and similar streams to prevent their erosion has suffered a setback.

The legislature's joint standing committee for the review of tax exemption legislation has denounced it as "not desirable public policy" and has asked that it be rejected.

Stream bank erosion has long troubled Wolf River and Lake Poygan shoreland owners who know that they could take steps to prevent such damage, but that it is costly. They have asked for the exemption of such improvements from property tax liability as a concession from the state.

The idea was endorsed by a special interim committee which took field trips to examine the erosion problems on the river. The council also has asked for federal Department of Agriculture support in the form of aids for landowners who take such steps to control erosion, but there has been no favorable response so far.

Recently the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which uses tax funds, decided to make stream bank improvements on state-owned land on Lake Poygan, in part as an encouragement to private landowners to do likewise.

Such improvements typically would take the form of shoreline rip-rapping to protect banks against wave and ice action. Such work will improve navigation and encourage sports fishery and waterfowl, DNR officials said.

But the tax exemption watchdog group told the legislature that the proposal as filed would violate the tax uniformity requirement of the state constitution, which demands that all property not taxed must be completely exempt from property taxation.

Fox Cities Students Plan Charity Hike

A march to raise $10,000 for both local and foreign self-help projects and for the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation is planned for May 8 in the Fox Cities.

District coordinators for the march, which will coincide with similar walks in other Wisconsin communities, the nation and 40 countries throughout the world on that same May weekend, are Stan Erickson and Craig Swanson, both seniors at Appleton High School-East.

The 26.8-mile march will begin and end at Goodland Field, according to the parade request filed with the Appleton Police Department. Requests also are being sought from other Valley communities. The march will follow a circuitous route through Appleton, Kimberly, Combined Locks, Kaukauna and Little Chute, taking up only one lane of traffic.

Approximately 1,000 young people from throughout the valley are expected for the march. Each marcher will be sponsored by local merchants and parents who will contribute according to each mile walked.

The money will be split three ways, Erickson said, with 42.5 per cent going toward the local self-help project, Koehnke's Woods. Another 42.5 per cent will go to a foreign project, Koehnke's Woods. Another 42.5 per cent will go to a foreign project — either Operation Boot Strap, a schooling program in Tanzania, or the American Friends' Service Committee, a Quaker group that provides refugee centers and medical help in Vietnam. The final 15 per cent will go to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation to be used for publication of periodicals and curriculum development in the high schools.

Students Propose Abortion Loans

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — A bill that would establish a student abortion loan fund at the University of Rhode Island has been introduced in the two student governing bodies on campus, the student senate and the graduate student association.

Funds for such loans would be taken out of the undergraduate student activities tax, which is paid annually to the school and turned over to the student senate.

The student senate has sole authority to distribute the money collected under the tax.

Loans would be available on request to any female student or wife of a student desiring a legal abortion in New York State or elsewhere.

Tetany in Newborn Baby Doesn't Last

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our infant son, a seemingly healthy, beautiful baby, passed out twice and almost stopped breathing. If I hadn't been in the habit of checking him every 20 minutes or so, I dread to think of the outcome.

At the hospital all I was told was that he had "tetany of the newborn," which involves lack of calcium, to give him a special calcium preparation, and to have his urine tested now and then.

I didn't think it was too serious until I learned through an acquaintance that this disease can be fatal and part of the "crib death" syndrome. Since then my sleep has been affected and I find myself getting up every few minutes to see that he is okay.

Will you explain about this disease? There is nothing I could find in baby books. — Mrs. G.P.

This is not a common disorder but it can be serious. Tetany (meaning muscular spasms) is due to a low calcium content in the baby's blood, resulting in twitchings and convulsions.

Dr. Thosteson

Basically, calcium metabolism is controlled by the parathyroid glands. In early infancy these glands may not have reached full function — hence the baby does not properly utilize the calcium in his food.

This usually occurs (if at all) in the first month, or even in the first week or two.

Treatment is administration of calcium, sometimes given intravenously, sometimes in the baby's formula. After a few weeks of such treatment, when the little tike's glandular apparatus has caught its stride and he is eating more, the symptoms subside.

Convulsions in such tiny babies are, certainly, frightening, but by the time you see this answer, I am sure that things will have adjusted themselves and your mind will be at ease.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a benign tumor in my foot, also called "Morton's toe." My problem is whether to have it out. One doctor says yes, the other says, "Learn to live with it."

It is quite painful at times. I can't walk too much. What is your advice? — Mrs. B.R.

This is pressure on the nerve at approximately the fourth toe, due, as in this case, from a tiny tumor in the nerve. Or the same painful situation can result from a relaxed arch.

Which doctor's advice to follow? Well, I'd try some of the simpler methods first, to see if they make the condition tolerable: padding behind the toes may help; avoid tight shoes, sometimes a metatarsal bar on the sole of the shoe is used.

If such conservative measures don't make you sufficiently comfortable, then surgery on the nerve may be the best answer.

Except in dangerous situations or situations which are bound to get worse, my general attitude is to try conservative treatments first and that's what I'd say in this matter.

Dear Dr. Thoseson: I am 36 and midway in my first pregnancy. What special precautions should an older "new mother" take, and does she face any more difficult complications due to age? — Mrs. R.T.M.

You're not old enough to anticipate any special complications, and I trust won't have any.

There are no special precautions for the "older new mother" except to observe your doctor's advice, which will be the same as for a younger woman.

Difference is that the older ones usually pay more attention to what they are told — and that's good.

Doctor Claims Checkups Do Lead To Better Health

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A doctor says he has amassed the first scientific evidence that periodic health checkups really lead to better health.

Dr. Morris Collen said that for five years he kept track of 100,000 middle-aged men in two groups, those who had periodic medical examinations and those who did not.

Those examined lost fewer work days because of illness, had fewer chronic medical problems and were less likely to retire early because of illness.

Collen, director of medical research methods for Kaiser-Permanente medical services, reported the statistics Monday at the annual meeting of the California Medical Association.

Astronaut Mitchell Visits His Home Town

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — Apollo astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell has paid a visit to the town where he graduated from high school in 1948.

Mitchell spoke to 4,000 persons in the high school stadium and another 4,000 in three assemblies in the high school auditorium Monday. He also cut a ribbon to open a highway the community has named in his honor.

Nixon Joins in Eulogy At Whitney Young Burial

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — President Nixon eulogizes civil rights leader Whitney M Young Jr today at services preceding his burial beside the grave of his mother in a predominantly black neighborhood on Lexington's northwest side

The President's plans to deliver the eulogy at graveside rites in Greenwood Cemetery after a motorcade accompanying Young's body arrives on a 75-mile trip from Louisville, where thousands passed by his casket Tuesday night

The motorcade was routed through Shelbyville, past the former Lincoln Institute where Young was born when his father was president of the school, and Kentucky State College in Frankfort, where Young was educated

Died in Nigeria

Crews worked after dark Tuesday to spruce up the cemetery in preparation for the burial of the executive director of the National Urban League. Young, 49, died Thursday in Lagos, Nigeria, while swimming in the Atlantic.

His body was flown to Louisville Tuesday after thousands attended his funeral at Riverside church in New York.

Young's father, Dr. Whitney M Young Sr., was unable to attend the New York services, and viewed the body before the first visitors were ushered into a Louisville funeral chapel Tuesday

The young and old, local dignitaries and family friends were among the several thousand who later filed past the dark gray casket A line had begun forming outside the funeral chapel almost an hour before the first mourners were admitted.

Thousands paid tribute to Young in the New York interdenominational services.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College in Atlanta, and Dr. Howard Thurman, dean emeritus of the March Chapel at Boston University, praised Young for helping his people through nonviolent means.

Laos Forces In Retreat, Pilots Say

Too Close

"Normally the South Vietnamese don't like us to fire on enemy positions too close to them," said Few. "This time they ordered us to fire Fleschette rockets right on their bunkers. There were North Vietnamese all over that place."

Fleschette rockets are loaded with thousands of tiny nail-like metal particles which spray out on impact

A stream of helicopters brought loads of dead and wounded today to the 1st Infantry Division's hospital at Ham Nghi Newsmen counted 85 wounded, and the pilots said many were "simply left behind."

Two helicopter gunships were shot down at Lolo Tuesday while attempting to evacuate casualties. A third was reported shot down today, but its crew was rescued uninjured

"We had to give it up," said Russell Conley of Pocatello, Idaho. "We were just picking up dead and there was too much incoming fire. The wounded were already running."

Bases Surrounded

The pilots said every South Vietnamese base in Laos is surrounded by a variety of enemy antiaircraft guns.

"We knock one out, they move in two more," said Few.

"The ack-ack seems to be getting worse than it was at the start of the invasion."

Newsmen who tried to go into Laos today were told they couldn't land anywhere because "it's too hot."

Field reports said one South Vietnamese unit that fled from Fire Base Lolo to Landing Zone Brown had 20 troops killed, including the commander and his deputy, and 70 wounded.

The South Vietnamese withdrawal began last Friday when Saigon's troops abandoned Fire Base Sophia, three miles southeast of Sepone, a key enemy transportation hub on Highway 9 about 25 miles from the Vietnamese border

Mission Accomplished

South Vietnamese headquarters in Saigon at first denied that Lolo had been abandoned but 24 hours later acknowledged that its troops had pulled back A spokesman said the infantrymen had accomplished their mission and had made a "tactical move"

Despite the reports from the American pilots, the Vietnamese commander of the Laotian campaign, Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, asserted today: "My forces are continuing to accomplish their mission They're finding many enemy supplies and bodies"

Asked how long his troops would remain in Laos, he replied, "A long time yet" Other South Vietnamese officers said Saturday the force would be out by the end of the month.

Sophia, Lolo and Brown all sat on an east-west ridgeline paralleling the southern side of Highway 9 If Brown also is abandoned, South Vietnam's 1st Infantry Division will be left with only one fire support base in Laos, Delta 1, which is four miles south of Highway 9 and 12 miles from the border.

Highway 9

The South Vietnamese also have a force of marines sweeping south of Highway 9 but closer to the Vietnamese border and a force of paratroopers sweeping north of Highway 9

Meanwhile North Vietnamese gunners pounded the big U S forward support base at Khe Sanh, on the Vietnamese side of the border for the second successive night

Associated Press photographer Carl Robinson reported that about 90 artillery rounds and rockets slammed into the base Tuesday night He said many helicopters were trapped on the airstrip by fog but only a few were damaged The U S Command said some Americans were wounded but none killed

On Monday night, enemy gunners poured nearly 200 rounds into the base, causing light casualties and damage

Miss Churchill Snubs Festival Honoring NATO

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Arabella Churchill, 21-year-old granddaughter of Sir Winston has bowed out as queen of the annual Azalea Festival April 20-25 honoring the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

She says she thinks NATO is not only unnecessary but a threat to peace.

In a letter to festival officials made public Tuesday, Miss Churchill said:

"I realize that when NATO was formed after World War II there probably was a need for such an organization. But now, with the increasing advances in science and technology the situation is growing out of hand.

"The gathering together of such masses of weapons surely negates the possibility of peaceful coexistence."

U.S. Adm. Charles K. Duncan, allied commander in the Atlantic, said he was "surprised and incredulous at such an attitude."

Thomas E. Dewey

Child's Arrival Cure's Woman's Kidney Attack

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Told three months ago she was not pregnant, Mrs. Lee Baker thought she was having a kidney attack when she went to the emergency room of a Grand Forks hospital Sunday. Two hours later she gave birth to her first child, a 4½ pound boy.

"I probably sound like the dumbest person on earth," she said

The 33-year-old woman said she had continual stomach trouble throughout the winter and was treated by a doctor in December. She said she thought she might have an ulcer, but joked tht she might be pregnant.

Married for five years, Lee and Kay Baker had been told their chances to have a baby were slim, and they had considered adopting a child. Baker is a carpet layer, and Mrs. Baker is a social worker at the Medical Rehabilitation Hospital at the University of North Dakota.

Tom Dewey Dies

Charles "Lucky" Luciano Another big name was James J Hines, Tammany district leader accused of being a protector of gangsters

He drew national attention when he ran for governor of New York in 1938, losing to Herbert H. Lehman by only 64,000 votes. A concerted effort was made to get him the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 but it went instead to Wendell Willkie.

Dewey ran for governor again in 1942 and won by an impressive margin Under pressure from supporters he ran for and received the GOP presidential nomination in 1944 but it was an almost impossible fight.

Victory in World War II was becoming certain for the Allies and President Franklin D. Roosevelt easily won a fourth term.

When Dewey again received the GOP bid in 1948 his election seemed a sure thing. Truman was at a low ebb of popularity, and Henry Wallace, running as a Progressive, and Strom Thurmond, as a States Rights Democrat, were considered sure to take important votes that would have gone to Truman.

Opening Polls

Every public opinion poll said Dewey would win and his campaign abandoned an aggressive strategy to avoid giving serious offense to any large group of voters.

When early returns from the East Coast seemed to bear out the predictions, the Chicago Tribune came out in its first edition with the famous headline giving Dewey the victory. Truman took delight later in being photographed with it

Although he immediately said he would never run for public office again, Dewey changed his mind and ran successfully for a third term as governor in 1950.

There was little in Dewey's background to suggest that he would achieve national stature.

Born in Michigan

He was born in Owosso, Mich., on March 24, 1902, the son of a weekly newspaper publisher and a distant relative of Adm. George Dewey, the hero of Manila Bay in the Spanish-American War.

He was a Boy Scout, sang in the Owosso Episcopal church choir and delivered papers and set type in his father's shop

By the time he was 17 he had saved enough money to pay his way through his first year at the University of Michigan.

He led the college glee club for two years, won the Michigan state singing contest and placed third in a national contest. It was that success that led him to study voice in New York.

Law School

But even as he did, he enrolled in Columbia Law School to have an alternative occupation and the wisdom of that move was borne out when he received the verdict on his singing

After leaving public office Dewey continued to play a behind-the-scenes role in GOP politics but made few public appearances. Since 1955 he had been a senior partner of the prestigious law firm of Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer and Wood.

Dewey's wife, who was also a singer before their marriage, died last July. Surviving are two sons, Thomas E. Dewey Jr., of Chicago, and John Dewey of New York, and two grandchildren.

Tricia's Engagement Formally announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending the secret that nearly everyone has known for weeks, President Nixon has announced his daughter Tricia will marry Harvard law student Edward F. Cox in a White House ceremony June 5.

The President and Mrs. Nixon made the formal announcement Tuesday night at a party that was a three-way celebration—the First Lady's 59th birthday, St. Patrick's Day and, of course, the engagement of his 25-year-old daughter.

The announcement ended months of what had become nonsuspense. The President took the leaking of the engagement in good humor. He prefaced the formal announcement by saying everytime he has something important to say it gets out in advance and this was no exception.

But, taking the advice he said was given him by Irish Prime Minister John Lynch, the Tuesday evening guest of honor, Nixon said "It isn't official until I say it is."

So he told the 300 guests

"Mrs. Nixon and I are very honored to announce the engagement of our daughter Tricia to Edward Cox of New York."

Tricia, blonde, beaming and radiant in a low cut white silk dress glittering with tiny pearls, stepped into the spotlighted East Room stage and-in-hand with her tall, handsome blonde fiance to take a bow with their parents.

Tricia, will be the 15th bride married in the White House and the eighth presidential daughter to take her marriage vows in the executive mansion.

Her 24-year-old husband-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cox, a socially prominent couple who live in New York City and on Long Island Cox's family dates back to Robert Livingston, the man who gave the oath of office to George Washington at the first presidential inauguration.

February State Jobless Rate Is 17-Year High

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin's unemployment rate last month climbed to its highest level for any February since the State Employment Service began keeping jobless records 17 years ago

The service reported Tuesday the state had 123,000 persons out of work, representing 6 per cent of the work force The unemployment rate was 4 2 per cent in February, 1970.

The Nixon administration had said the national jobless rate decreased to 5 8 per cent in February from 6 per cent in January.

An analyst for the state service, Thomas Powers, said Wisconsin's jobless pace was influenced by American Motors Corp layoffs involving about 8,400 workers

The February jobless rate in the four-county Milwaukee area last month was 6 1 per cent compared with 3 3 per cent in February a year earlier.

Dentistry Unit at Marquette Aided By Federal Grant

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Department of Health Education and Welfare has awarded $905,645 to Marquette University's School of Dentistry under a federal program for helping schools with financial need

Edward D Simmons a Marquette vice president said Tuesday the funds would be used to increase faculty salaries and renovate facilities

The school also is seeking state support for assistance with operating funds

It asked last year for more than $1 million from the government for the first year of a five year improvement program

Marquette's dental school is the nation's fifth largest, and "it is absolutely imperative that the school operate at its full level," Simmons said.

The Roman Catholic university has asked the state for $3,500 for each Wisconsin resident enrolled in the school.

Social Security and Self-Employed People

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Mr. A., a 69-year-old self-employed real estate dealer, earned more than $8,000 last year — far above the maximum the law permits him to earn and still draw Social Security benefits. Nevertheless he collected close to all the checks to which he was entitled operating a hamburger stand at a summer resort between Memorial Day and Labor Day last year — again, seemingly enough to eliminate all Social Security benefits. Nevertheless, he got a fat portion of his benefits too.

Mr T, retired, cleared $6,000

Mr. F, a retired accountant, earned $4,200: $3,600 preparing income tax returns during January-April, the balance in the form of a monthly retainer of $100 from July through December for doing minor chores for a client. Despite the fact that his earnings were sufficient under the familiar "retirement test" to preclude his benefit payments, Mr. F. also collected most of his checks.

Test For Benefits

Millions of Americans do not realize that the test for payment of benefits under Social Security is not the same for the self-employed older American as it is for the person who works for someone else as an employe — simply because the self-employed person's income is not as closely connected with his work as the employe's.

"The confusion always has been a matter of deep concern to us," said a Social Security spokesman. "Anything that will help people grasp the differences will be valuable." Okay, here goes . .

— Under the general rule, your annual earnings are the measurement of your retirement. If your earnings while still under 72 are $1,680 or less, you are considered completely retired; if you earn over that amount, you give up some or all your benefits for the year.

— In addition, the law says that no matter what your total earnings for a year, you will get a check for any month in which you neither earn wages of more than $140 nor perform substantial services as a self-employed person

(Important note: the limit on what you can earn in any year or any month will be raised under the bill now before Congress — probably to at least $2,000 a year and possibly to as much as $2,400. This, though, will not alter in any way the message of this column.)

— Now comes the distinction If you work for someone else as an employe, the test of your retirement in any given month is the total of your wages, specifically under today's law whether you earn more than $140 for that month. But if you are self-employed, the test is not how much money you earn in the month but how active you are.

— If you spend more than 45 hours a month in a business, your services are considered "substantial" unless you can submit evidence showing that your services were not substantial despite the amount of time you put in.

— If you spend less than 15 hours a month in a business, your services are never considered to be substantial.

— If you spend between 15 and 45 hours a month in a business, your services generally are not substantial, unless you are performing highly valuable services For instance, Mr G retired and put his son-in-law in charge of his $500,000-a-year business. He never sets foot in the office, but Mr. G. makes all final key decisions. Mr. G.'s services are highly valuable to the business and he can't collect benefits

Now to explain the cases Mr A made his entire $8,000 before a stroke in May paralyzed him, he was completely retired from May on and collected benefits Mr T was retired during the time he was not actively involved with his hamburger stand and so he collected benefits for seven months. Mr F didn't work at all in May or June and worked no more than 10 to 35 hours a month from July through December, so he was able to collect benefits for eight months

If you have any doubts about whether you or a close relative are handling yourself so you can collect your maximum of retirement benefits, put your facts together with care, take them to the nearest Social Security office and ask for guidance.

Everyone Doing His Own Thing

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It's become quite a fad for young folks to drop out of society and "return to the land." Everyone is very sympathetic to the people who reject the society they live in, but the big question is: How many people can a country afford to have drop out?

If everyone drops out, this is what could happen in a few years:

Myra Landon and George

Buchwald

Coleman, two students fed up with fighting in a world they never made, decide to leave college and join friends who are working on a wheat-germ farm in Florida. But first they must rent a U-haul trailer to take their belongings. They consult the yellow pages of the phone book, call several companies listed, but get no answer.

So they get in George's battered car and drive to one of the U-haul lots. The office is padlocked. A bearded fellow sitting there whittling says, "Ain't nobody there. They took off for surfing in Hawaii 'bout six months ago. Said they'd had it."

Myra and George drive to several other trailer companies, but find they are also closed down. By this time their radiator is steaming, and they stop at a gas station. A man comes out and George says, "The car seems to be overheating, and we have to drive to Florida. Could you fix it."

"Don't have anyone to fix it. Last mechanic I had went off to India to find the secret of life."

"But couldn't you do anything?" Myra asks.

"Don't have no spare parts," the man says. "Haven't been able to get any for 14 months. Nobody works in the auto parts factory any more. Everyone left to do his own thing."

"Well, could you at least give us some water for the car?"

"Don't have no water. All the mains are broke, and we can't get anyone to repair them. Water company says it won't get to this area for another five months. I'll sell you a gallon of gas if you want. Have to ration it."

"A gallon of gas!" George says. "We're trying to get to Florida."

"I'd like to oblige but we're on strict rationing since all the oil workers decided to quit and go on welfare."

"Why do you stay in business?" Myra asks.

"Got two kids living in the bottom of the Grand Canyon and I have to send them money every month or else they'd starve to death."

Myra and George start to get hungry. They walk over to a coffee shop which is locked. So is a hamburger stand and a pizza parlor. So they find a supermarket. They walk in and all the shelves are bare.

An old man sitting by the cash register says, "You folks looking for something?"

Myra says, "A loaf of bread?"

The man laughs. "I haven't seen a loaf of bread in months. The last bakery in the state shut down in July. All the employes took off for a rock festival in Mexico City and never came back. Got some pickles there if you want them. That's about the only food left. As soon as I sell them I'm going on Social Security."

"But we haven't eaten since yesterday."

"I appreciate the problem. But we just can't get any food. You would think with all the young people going back to the farms that there would be a surplus. But they just say they want to grow enough for themselves, and not make any profit for a capitalistic society."

Myra says, "It's not fair. I think the government should pass a law allowing only a certain number of people to drop out every year."

The old man says, "I couldn't agree with you more. It sures takes the fun out of dropping out when everybody decides to do it at the same time."

Lindsay Backers Support Switch

NEW YORK (AP) — The Daily News says a majority of its readers who responded to a poll think Mayor John V. Lindsay should quit the Republican party and become a Democrat—but not for the purpose of seeking the presidency.

Of more than 23,000 readers who replied 54 per cent favored a party switch by the mayor, who was elected to his second term on a Liberal-independent ticket after losing in the GOP primary. However, 68 per cent said they did not think he should run for president.

The News said far more Democrats than Republicans thought the mayor was presidential timber.

Changes Sought In UW Curriculum

MADISON (AP) — Major changes in the University of Wisconsin's College of Letters and Science curriculum were recommended by a special student-faculty committee Monday.

The proposals from a three-month study include one to allow students to complete undergraduate work in less than four years.

Another objective would permit most students seeking a bachelor's degree to complete language and math requirements in high school.

A public hearing has been scheduled March 24.

City, Village Libraries Underpaid For Outside Services, Committee Finds

City and village libraries in Outagamie County are not adequately paid for services they provide outside their communities, according to information compiled by a special county library study committee

County assistance to those libraries, which is assessed against communities without libraries, is less than 50 per cent the cost of the services provided, the study indicated

At the same time, the study indicates that on a per capita basis, the Kaukauna library is providing the highest level of service in the county

The special study committee, headed by Supv Kenneth Gibson and composed of four other supervisors from different sections of the county and library officials, are studying the feasibility and need of either a county consolidated library system or a federated library system

Under a consolidated system the county would completely operate and fund all libraries while a federated system would involve a combination of county and local control

The committee agreed, with some reservations, to move ahead with the "ideal" approach of a consolidated library system, such as was created last year in Brown County

A model budget and organization of a consolidated system will be set up for discussion by the committee on April 1

If agreement is reached within the committee, a series of hearings is planned involving local library boards, local public officials and the general public

Supv. Eugene Retzlaff, Hortonville, questioned whether the smaller communities with libraries would be receptive to a consolidated system He said he thought they might be afraid of losing services.

Rural Service

Supv Joseph Kasparek, who represents rural areas between Seymour and Black Creek, agreed He said he would have to see how much service the tax dollar would purchase before making up his mind

At the present time, the county apportions $24,500 between the various libraries as reimbursement for services provided to areas without libraries

According to the study, 19 per cent of the Appleton library's circulation is outside the city but it receives only 8 per cent of its operating budget from the county.

Figures for other libraries are Kaukauna, 16 per cent circulation outside the city, 6 per cent county reimbursement, Kimberly, 25 per cent circulation outside the village, 10 per cent county reimbursement, Seymour, 35 per cent circulation outside the city, 16 per cent county reimbursement, and New London, 14 per cent circulation outside the city in Outagamie County, 7 per cent county reimbursement

Per Capita Cost

In terms of per capita cost, Kaukauna spends $5.73 on library services Figures for other communities are Appleton, $2.56, Kimberly, $2 20; Seymour, $4 25, Hortonville, $2 67, New London, $3 41, and Black Creek, 38 cents

The county pays 59 cents per capita for residents in areas without their own libraries

The "ideal" spending level, according to the American Library Association, is $6 per capita However, Gordon Bebeau, Appleton librarian, said the figure "doesn't mean the same thing" in all sizes of communities

The larger the community, he indicated, the smaller the per capita amount needed for adequate library service

The total budgets for all libraries in the county is $278,000 for 1971, including the county contribution. It was noted this amount is less than the City of Oshkosh alone spends on library services.

Green Bay Man Enters Pair of Innocent Pleas

Charge of Homicide By Intoxicated User Of Automobile

A Green Bay man Monday was bound over after a preliminary hearing on a charge of homicide by the intoxicated user of an automobile.

The felony count and one of driving after revocation were lodged against John Poquette, 22, by Outagamie County Dist Atty. James Long. The charges had been recommended by a coroner's jury after an inquest.

Poquette pleaded innocent to both counts Tuesday before Outagamie County Judge Nick F Schaefer, who set a jury trial for April 26.

Poquette was involved in a traffic accident early Feb. 21 that claimed the life of Donald C. La Count, 17, route 2, West De Pere.

County police said the accident, which occurred a mile south of Oneida on County Trunk E, took place while La Count was turning into his driveway. Poquette, attempting to pass, struck the La Count car broadside, they said. Both vehicles had been traveling north.

Similar Testimony

Testimony taken Monday from nine state's witnesses was essentially the same as that of the inquest. Coroner Bernard H. Kemps had called the inquest when traffic officers received conflicting accounts of accident circumstances.

Two county traffic officers, Richard Rohm and James Brown, testified during the hearing that they believed Poquette was under the influence of an intoxicant at the scene. Poquette acted confused and kept repeating himself, they said, and his speech was slurred.

They testified their investigation at the scene was hampered when Poquette produced the driver's license of a passenger, Reginald Elm, 23, route 2, West De Pere.

Rohm said Poquette was not given a breathalyzer test for legal proof of intoxication because police were "short handed" at the scene. This was challenged by the defense attorney, who cited Rohm's testimony under direct examination that there had been, besides he and Brown, two other county officers at the scene at one point.

No Skid Marks

The officers testified there were no skid marks prior to the point of impact.

Two teen-age girls who had been passengers in the car testified they thought Poquette was under the influence the same night. One girl said she became concerned because, at one point, Poquette was speeding. Later, she said, he became abusive to her at a tavern.

Testimony revealed that Poquette had been drinking at five taverns with Elm since 3 p.m the previous day, and that the last stop was made only minutes before the crash

Elm, earlier this month, pleaded no contest to a charge of illegal use of a driver's license and was fined $100 and costs

The charge of driving after revocation against Poquette is a misdemeanor and will be treated separately

Sentencing Set For Youth Held In Burglary Case

Sentencing was set March 30 or Tuesday for a 20-year-old Kaukauna youth convicted of aiding and abetting a burglary for which two Appleton youths were previously found guilty

Jon E Boxgrover 308 E Seventh St pleaded guilty Outagamie County Judge Nick F Schaefer directed a presentence investigation Boxgrover is being held in the county jail without bond

Boxgrover's oral and written statements voluntarily given to Appleton detectives Monday admitted he stood watch outside while Steven Strebe 18 and Scott Stroud 20 both 218 E Winnebago St broke into Kay's Restaurant 343 W Wisconsin Ave Jan 9

Detectives said $363 12 was missing from the cash register after the burglary

Strebe was placed on three years probation March 2 for that burglary and eight other felonies Stroud was sentenced to three years in the State Reformatory in mid-February, for the restaurant burglary and six other felonies

Claim Elderly 'Gouged'

Probate Reform Urged

MADISON (AP)—Probate reform is an absolute necessity, especially for the poor and elderly, a parade of supporters of probate bills before the Assembly told the chamber's Judiciary Committee Tuesday.

"If the present members of the legislature will not see to it that there is adequate reform, I'm sure they will be replaced by more responsive representatives," said Robert Durkin, vice president of the Milwaukee County Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

"The people in my district are very concerned They say: 'You just have to do something.'" Rep. Joanne Duren, D-Cazenovia, told the committee.

An 80-year-old woman complained in a two-page letter that attorneys in the legislature "don't want to kill off their Santa Claus," Miss Duren said.

The remark was indicative of hostility toward the legal profession hovering just below the surface of supporters' argument for probate reform.

"If they had a chance, they would run off with their grandma's rocking chair," Rep. William A. Johnson, D-Milwaukee, said of unscrupulous probate lawyers.

"It is absolutely essential that we make some corrections in the probate law," said Ed Schroeder of Milwaukee, representing the Allied Council of Senior Citizens of Wisconsin.

Rather than excessive fees of attorneys being responsible for probate woes of the elderly, "maybe these laws shouldn't be there," David Lears, a West Allis attorney, said.

The committee heard numerous tales of elderly persons of limited means confronted with attorney fees they could ill afford for the relatively simple termination of joint tenancy.

"The real culprit in this whole area is the tax collector—the government.' Rep. Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, told the committee.

"If we could allow the easy passage of property between husband and wife, we would avoid much of the problem," he insisted.

One of the bills before the committee would provide for termination of joint tenancy by filing documents with a county register of deeds. It passed the Senate, but died in the Assembly at adjournment last session.

It is expected to have little difficulty becoming law this session.

Legislators say opposition to the bill has come from the state Revenue Department, which fears loss of taxes.

But such losses would be minimal, said attorneys who supported the proposal.

The only thing wrong with the joint tenancy proposals is that "they do not go far enough," John B. Hayden, a Milwaukee attorney, told the panel.

Other probate measures introduced in the Assembly would create regional offices staffed with court service officers to provide probate services in place of private attorneys, and permit summary assignment of estates under $60,000.

They are expected to have rougher sledding through the Judiciary Committee than the joint tenancy measures.

William Eich Named to PSC

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Patrick Lucey Tuesday announced the appointment of Asst Atty. Gen. William F. Eich of Madison to the Public Service Commission

Eich, former deputy attorney general under Bronson La Follette, succeeds Republican Chester J. Harrison of Wisconsin Dells, whose term has expired

The term is for six years.

The three-member commission is responsible for regulating utilities, railroads and common motor carriers.

Eich is a 1960 graduate of Beloit college and a 1963 graduate of the University of Wisconsin Law School.

"It is important," Lucey said, "that our environment be protested in every area and having Bill Eich on the Public Service Commission will help us to accomplish this."

National Guard Not Budgeting for Strife

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Events during the current fiscal year have encouraged the Wisconsin National Guard to the extent they have proposed a decrease in their biennial operating budget over the last biennium

Adjutant Gen James Lison, head of the state Department of Military Affairs, told the legislature's joint finance committee Tuesday the guard is "optimistic" about an apparent reversal of recent years' level of both civil disorder and campus unrest.

"We have not projected emergency duty to the level of the past because of the experience this fiscal year. So far this year the guard has not been used, and we're eight months into the fiscal year," Lison said

As a result of the apparent calm, the guard has requested only $128,600 for each year of the biennium for emergency duty That amount Lison explained would be adequate to fund the use of National Guard personnel as backup staff for the State Highway Patrol on major summer weekend holidays

Since 1967, Lison told the committee, nearly $1 million has been spent on the five occasions the National Guard was called up. The guard served during the Milwaukee disorder, a riot at Lake Geneva and three times on the University of Wisconsin's Madison campus In the 1969-1970 biennium ending last June nearly $635,000 was spent on emergency duty

Lison admitted the programmed expenditure was "at best a guess," but he maintained his optimistic attitude as he reviewed the department's budget proposal that calls for a reduction of $720,000 in state general purpose revenues, below the amount spent in the last biennium.

As part of Gov Patrick Lucey's recommendations on the department's budget, the National Guard will be expected to study its organization with an eye to consolidating some of its programs to reduce the number of operating armories that should result in further savings when the merger of some of the 68 facilities takes effect

There was little comment on the budget outside a concern among legislators for the low level of funds provided for emergency duty. They feared that the need to call up the guard would result in a significant increase over the projected expenditures

Rep. Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, asked Lison what steps are being taken to improve the recruting of black men into the National Guard.

Lison reported that the state's record "has not been good, but it is improving." He said that last year there were only 15 black men in the guard but there are now 21, out of a total strength of 11,000 personnel. "I think we are beginning to show some results but we've got a long ways to go."

Ceiling on Budget Gets Senate Okay

MADISON (AP)—On a party-line vote, Senate Republicans Tuesday pushed through a resolution to put some kind of ceiling on Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's budget.

The resolution, offered by Sen. James Swan, R-Elkhorn, declares that the legislature and the governor should decide how much revenue is available before spending proposals are considered.

Swan noted that Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California had instituted such a budgetary program and that California could "now sell their bonds at a much better rate than other states."

Democrats, led by minority leader Fred Risser of Madison, accused Republicans of attempting to curb Lucey's spending programs by determining revenues before the needs of the state.

Lucey's $1.9 billion budget calls for $177 million in new taxes.

Risser noted that Democrats had offered an identical resolution two years ago under GOP Gov. Warren P. Knowles and that the Republican legislators had opposed it "down the line."

The resolution advanced to the Democratic controlled Assembly were it faced almost certain death.

Appleton Youth Gets Probation For 3 Charges

A 17-year-old Appleton youth was put on a year's probation Tuesday to the State Department of Health and Social Services for two counts of disorderly conduct and a battery charge.

Gregory Stafford, 714 W. Commercial St., previously pleaded guilty to the charges after being waived from the Juvenile Court. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer withheld a jail term.

Authorities brought the first disorderly count Dec. 4, 1970, after Stafford refused to let a girl attend class at Appleton High School-West, by detaining her near lockers in the school.

The second disorderly count was lodged Feb. 6, when Stafford damaged an auto carrying the girl near a West College Avenue restaurant.

Stafford was charged with battery for biting and slapping the girl near her home last Nov. 1

Stafford had been confined to the county jail without bond over the weekend after pleading to the charges Friday. Schaefer directed Stafford to pay court costs

Acquistion Protested

Developers Grabbing County Forest Land, Resource Group Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Natural resource protection groups are preparing to resist what they maintain is a drive by commercial land developers to raid the extensive county forest holdings of Wisconsin that resulted from a partnership of the counties and the state treasury through the "forest crop" law during the last four decades.

The Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council, an alliance of local environmental concern organizations and leading individuals in the resource protection field, has denounced what it says are several propositions for the release of county forest acreages from the county-state compacts.

Promoters of high density recreational real estate have proposed development projects within what are now county forest systems in Burnett and Bayfield counties that illustrate the trend, says the Council.

It named N. E. Isaacson Associates, Inc., one of the most active of the Wisconsin recreational land developers, and Port Industries of Nayzata, Minn.

"Local officials are pressured into approving such projects with promises of an expanded tax base, more job opportunities, and the salvation of the general economy of the area," the organization complains, asserting that "the highest and best use of these public lands is for forestry, wildlife, watershed protection, and public recreation."

The Council asked the State Department of Natural Resources, which contracts with the counties for the development of the county forests and assists in financing their management, to deny all such propositions for the release of lands from the state-county compact for private real estate development.

About 30 counties now have more than two million acres of such lands of growing timber.

They are dedicated to forest use under 50-year contracts with the state. The DNR can permit the withdrawal of such lands, upon the reimbursement of the state for its aids granted. Two years ago, following a dispute with Juneau County about a proposed withdrawal of a sizeable chunk of acreage for commercial agriculture, the legislature set up an arbitration procedure that is used in the event of a dispute between the state agency and the county board about the propriety of the withdrawal of any tract.

Former County Supervisor Dies

Raymond Schreiter Was Father of 2 Board Members

Raymond J. Schreiter Sr., formerly a tavern operator and a member of the Outagamie County Board, died about 4 a.m. today at St. Elizabeth Hospital following a 4½ month illness. A memorial fund has been established.

Schreiter, whose daughter, Mrs. Barbara Steger, and son, John R., are now county board supervisors, was a lifelong Appleton resident. He was 76.

He owned and operated the Schreiter Tavern, now the Coach Lamp Inn, until 1951 when he retired. His son, Robert F. Schreiter, now operates the tavern.

The senior Schreiter was on the county board from 1952 to 1956 and was a member of the courts and administration of justice committee during 1952-54 and the public welfare committee during 1954-56. He represented the old 18th Ward — now the Sixth Ward.

Schreiter, of 620 W. Eighth St., is survived by his widow, Ethel; three daughters; seven sons; one brother; 49 grandchildren, and 19 great-grandchildren.

A concelebrated funeral mass will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Joseph Catholic Church with his son, the Rev. Daniel A. Schreiter, O. F. M. Cap., celebrant. Interment will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Ellenbecker - Anderson Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Thursday.

Madison Man Sentenced for Misconduct

A young Madison man was sentenced Tuesday to the Outagamie County jail for an amended charge of disorderly conduct.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer imposed a 90-day term on Jon Zwickey, 30, who held his mother for six hours in her Appleton apartment against her will Nov. 20.

Schaefer gave Zwickey credit for 77 days spent in custody since his arrest Dec. 31, 1970. Sixty of those days were at Central State Hospital where Schaefer committed him for an examination in mid-January.

An original charge of false imprisonment, a felony, was lodged against Zwickey by his mother, the complainant.

In the complaint, Mrs. June Zwickey, 217 Green Bay Road, said early the 20th, her son entered her apartment without her permission, and began accusing her of a conspiracy against him.

According to the complaint, the episode lasted six hours, while Zwickey damaged furniture and other household goods, including a bedroom chandelier smashed with a fireplace poker.

Dist. Atty. James Long earlier amended the original complaint to disorderly conduct after conferring with Mrs. Zwickey. Zwickey pleaded guilty to the reduced charge.

Utility Asks PSC to Approve Rate Increase

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Natural Gas Co., which serves about 130,000 customers, asked the Public Service Commission Tuesday to approve a $4.7 million annual rate increase.

The boost is the second asked by the utility in less than two years. In September, 1969, the company was granted a $3.5 million rate increase.

The firm cited increased taxes, construction costs, wages and the need for more capital in Tuesday's application.

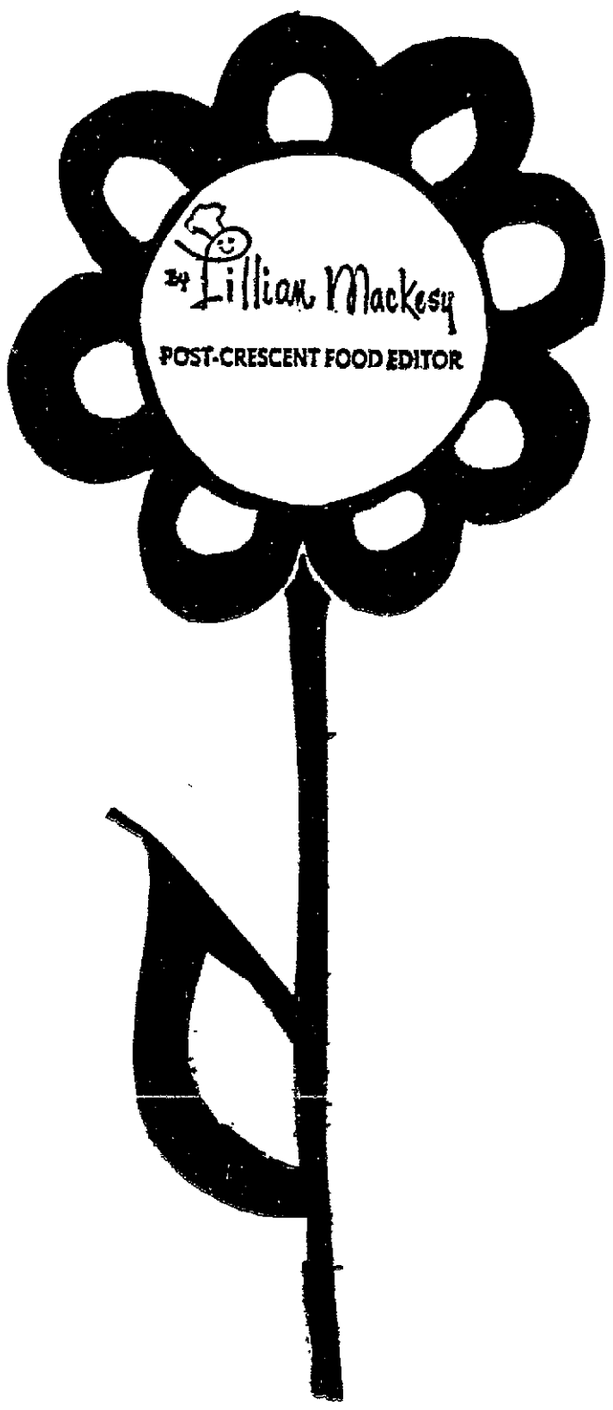
Spring Is The Time to gather friends together for a luscious buffet that may be centered around a big juicy roast such as the one above left. It's served with a Beef Burgundy Sauce. At the upper right is the springtime Asparagus Rarebit and at far right the easily made Spaghetti Spring Special that can star at brunch, lunch or supper.

Welcome . . .

Welcome to a Beautiful Spring!



Spring arrives at 12:38 a.m. Sunday, right on target and we all hope, I'm sure, it won't be in the middle of a Mid-March snowstorm. Since the hour is so close to midnight on the weekend, maybe the season's first party is in order. We welcome in the New Year, why not Spring after this bitter winter?

There are signs of the vernal equinox (Spring) already in the freshets running free and gurgling under snow patches. Birds are returning to backyard feeders and some are fresh from the South. The bluejays are getting sassy and the redheaded woodpecker drums his morning staccato in an aging oak. A walk along the river shows the promise of spring with tree buds beginning to swell and the ground cover coming to life. The balmy days may seem far away, but with Sunday's even 12 hours of darkness and 12 hours of daylight the days start getting longer and the season's on its way.

That's why today's recipes belong to springtime, just in case there's a party afoot, this weekend or later. It seems the time to salute the new season with brand new recipes.

Take the buffet roast, designed to serve several people. Deliciously sauced with an elegant Beef Burgundy sauce, it has, believe it or not, a can of beef gravy as its basic starter. Add roast drippings to the prepared, canned gravy, then a bit of red wine, sliced celery and a zip of oregano. Buffet go-alongs can be such easy foods as parslied onions, buttered asparagus, tossed greens and a pound cake drizzled with rhubarb sauce, either freshly made or from the pantry.

It's legendary that rhubarb and asparagus are early

Miss America Goes Irish

Top of the mornin' to you — and a happy St. Patrick's Day, whether you're Irish or not!

Holidays are terrific because they're days for celebration, for being nice to people and for being clever and creative. Valentine's Day, the Fourth of July and St. Patrick's Day are colorful holidays that are just plain fun.

On my travels as Miss America, I find some of the most interesting things. And lately it's St. Pat I've been hearin' about. (Does that sound like an Irish brogue to you?) It's a bit confusing because even the Irish disagree on their history. Some things are fact and others are legends.

Where did he come from? I've heard it was Italy and I've heard Germany but many of my Irish friends tell me that he came from Wales — for sure! He was a Christian while the Irish were pagans and of course he was responsible for converting them to Christianity soon after his arrival on the Emerald Isle in 432.

According to Irish legend, St. Patrick, who was a shepherd by trade, had a dream that the Irish people were calling to him, that they needed him to chase the snakes from Ireland. So go to Ireland he did — and from that day on, nary a snake could be found.

Another interesting fact about the good and gentle shepherd is that he lived to be 120 years old! He left Ireland for a little while to travel to Rome where he became a bishop. Naturally he returned to his beloved Erin where he lived out his days — with no snakes.

And today? Today we send cards and have parties and remember St. Patrick.

Parades are held and I was surprised to hear that in Chicako, they "turn" the Chicago River green for the day. If I were home in Denton, Tex., I might have a party and I think I'd make my cards and invitations myself. This year I'll give you my thoughts — and maybe next year I'll be home for my party and ready for a few new ideas.

Of course, your cards and invitations should be green — either bright green of avocado, one of my favorite colors. I like to use porous point pens which come in two shades of green as well as in ten other vivid colors including orange! Be a little devilish and use the orange along with green on your St. Patrick's Day cards. The nice part is that it writes fine lines or bold, depending upon the pressure you exert on the point.

Write verses on some cards with important words underscored for emphasis. If you can't compose your own, borrow the lines from a famous writer or poet. I think George Bernard Shaw would be fun to borrow from since he was Irish. On other cards, draw pictures or cartoons — don't be afraid. Make the cards funny or sentimental or anything you like.

Party invitations can be a joint project with a friend. Invite your gang to a March 17 celebration in honor of St. Pat. And even I can draw a snake — on the way out of Ireland! See what I mean? Use your imagination and be as creative as you dare. The party's bound to be fun, especially if you make up party games that just say Irish.

In case you've wondered, I'm not Irish but I know the Irish won't mind if I'm a St. Patrick's Day party-giver, party-goer and card-sender. In other words, I'm just helping them celebrate their day.

So, as I said, "Top of the mornin to you and happy St. Patrick's Day to all — to the Irish, those who wish they were Irish and everyone else."

Auxiliary Luncheon for Gold Star Mothers April 1

The Gold Star Mothers' luncheon of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 38, has been scheduled at 1 p.m. April 1 at the clubhouse, it was announced when the group met Monday evening with Legionnaires for a birthday celebration. Reservations for the luncheon may be made with Mrs. Roger Rusch through March 29.

Also on the club's agenda is a dinner meeting of Past Presidents Parley at 6:30 p.m. April 14. Items will be collected to be used as prizes at local rest homes.

The Auxiliary approved the sponsorship of an Appleton student to the Legion's Badger Boys State at Ripon which will be in June.

Speaker during the meeting was Casey Jones, alternate national committee man and past Department Commander of the American Legion. He showed slides of the Grand Army Home at King where he is coordinator of volunteer service. In this capacity, Mr. Jones recruits, trains and assigns duties to volunteer workers. He acknowledged the service of Auxiliary members and invited interested service clubs to visit King and to assist with activities for the 700 residents. The Legion's King Day will be June 20 at the home.

Under the direction of Mrs. Evan Pegel and Mrs. Robert Klitzke, Auxiliary members entertained with a program reminiscent of World War II USO Clubs.

Crack Raises Erma's Ire

BY ERMA BOMBECK

As a native Ohioan, I couldn't help but eavesdrop on a conversation, in a restaurant here recently. A customer said to the waitress, "Did I hear you say you're from Michigan?"

The waitress nodded happily.

"Me too," said the diner. "I've been in Ohio for the past seven years. How did you get here?"

The waitress blew a bubble the size of a gall bladder, snapped it and said, "I was a G.I. bride."

"What kind of crack is that?" I whispered to my husband.

"Cheer up," he grinned, "She could have been a POW."

"Is that any way to talk about your state?" I charged. "You're forgetting Ohio has produced seven United States presidents: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding."

And you're forgetting," he said, "Ohio has produced seven United States humorists: Thurber, Hope, Diller, Conway, Winters and the Wright Brothers."

His point was made. In traveling about the country, I have noted people can laugh at their kids, their domestic quarrels, their golf scores and their operation, but a light remark about their home state is like a declaration of war. (Once at a luncheon, I saw a Pennsylvania man bite a fork in half when someone remarked, "The second prize was two weeks in Philadelphia.")

Take any given group. Put them in a circle and within minutes they will malign all 50 states for one dumb reason or another. I have seen Florida put down for having chill temperatures during a $70 a day room in Miami . . . Georgia criticized because the baby threw up on the luggage while passing through Atlanta at 5 p.m. . . . Nebraska for having a gas station restroom without a key . . . and New Mexico for a crummy hotel room that was too depressing to commit suicide in.

Happily, there is one city that takes it for us all. New York. It's polluted, crowded, strike and crime ridden, under-serviced and overcharged. Yet, there are more comedians making a living at New York's expense than there are people producing automobiles. Why? Because they laugh at themselves first.

As my husband was telling me the other day, "Did you hear about the New York waitress from Michigan who was asked how she came to New York and she said, "I was a G.I. bride?"

Now, that's funny.

The Ailing House

Bleach Cleans Cracks

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have some fairly old (50-100 years) dinner plates. Several of them were stained when tea worked in and settled between the fine cracks. What will remove this? — Baltimore.

A: Leave them in a pan for several days, covered in a moderate solution of regular household bleach. Repeat if necessary.

Q: When we went away for the winter, we always left our furnace on. But lately it has been giving trouble by going out. We are wondering if it would harm the house if we turned off the heat and drained the water. Ventilation would be through a slightly opened basement window and the attic louvers. — West Allis, Wis.

A: Worth a try, friend. After all, with the money you'll save on fuel, you'll easily be able to pay for fixing any cracked plaster or washing mildew. Be sure all water is drained.

Q: Is there a finish for oak kitchen cabinets which won't discolor? — Norfolk.

A: All wood, even when finished with highest quality, clearest varnish, eventually darkens with age. So I suggest staining the cabinets slightly lighter than you'd like. After a while it will get to the shade you like better.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

WED., MAR. 17 THE ACES

Slams are the most exciting of bridge hands. The element of time assumes great importance, and an unfortunate choice of a lead can easily mean disaster.

Observe how Mervin Key of Houston, holding South's cards, executed a rare play to score a no-trump slam after the opponents failed to lead the suit in which they held two top tricks:

All vulnerable

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	6 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of spades.

North's two-diamond bid was a specialized form of the Stayman convention, which forced to game. When South could show no biddable major suit and could not raise diamonds, North placed the final contract at six no-trump.

If West had led a heart, there would be no story to tell. However, if he had led a heart on this hand and on this bidding, maybe there would have been a story after all — one concerning the properties of East and West.

After West's lead of the spade three, declarer's chances remained alive, but the bad diamond distribution limited him to 11 top tricks, one short of the slam.

Declarer won the lead in dummy with the spade king, cashed the club king, and crossed to his hand with a low spade. On the run of his good clubs, declarer wisely gave up his chances to make all 13 tricks and discarded one of dummy's low diamonds to keep the heart jack in dummy. After the run of the clubs, the position was:

NORTH 3/17

When declarer led the spade jack to dummy's ace, West was forced to blank his heart king, since a diamond discard would be fatal. The ace of diamonds and a diamond to dummy's queen dropped East's jack and placed Key at the crossroads. If diamonds were evenly divided, he could make 12 tricks by continuing the suit.

However, Key read the position accurately and, instead of playing for diamonds to divide evenly, led dummy's jack of hearts to demolish the defense. If East won the ace, he would have been forced to concede the last two hearts to declarer. If West won the king, he would have been forced to concede the last two diamonds to dummy.

What was the name of Key's unusual and rare play? It is called The Van Winkle. Maybe he'll get another one to score a slam after he sleeps on this one for 20 years.

Parents and Children

Big Posters May Stimulate Child's Interest in History

The magic buttons that can turn on your child to reading, making, doing and discovering are all around you. All you need do is to press them, whenever you come across them. Not every such button will make the lights go on in every child's mind. But if you discover . . . and press . . . a lot of them, the law of averages is with you, and one day your child may glow with enthusiasm and unexpected curiosity. It's really as simple as that.

Certainly no child has evern waxed enthusiastic over memorizing lists of names and places, the birth and death dates of historic personalities, the output of Pennsylvania coalfields in the year 1903, or the names of Indian tribes on Long Island in colonial days. If anything, such teaching and learning turns your child off; it bores him and kills his potential interests. How would you like to sit, day after day, memorizing all this nonsense? Yet this is how many schools still teach history to our children.

A sense of history is most important for your child. It extends his sense of time from an infantile absorption with the now to yesterday, to last year, to a century and longer ago, and into the future . . . his future. This is essential if your child is expected to stick to his education and later to career goals that lie far ahead of him. A sense of history and a sense of time stimulate your child's literacy, his eagerness to read and to find out about causes and effects in the flow of events. This is how children become educable and educated.

I have just received a catalogue from a publisher of inexpensive reproductions of historic Americana, posters, documents and booklets. I am something of a history buff and so I was fascinated. I am going to buy a stack of the posters to decorate my children's room. there's a "Jesse James" poster, a full length portrait, horse and reward notice of the time, reproduced faithfully from the original (75 cents). An eighteen-seventies river steamboat poster advertises a trip to the gold fields of the West (50 cents). An 1851 poster offers a reward for "slave kidnappers" (25 cents). Pony Express posters, run-away slave posters, Civil War recruitment posters, posters of presidential campaigns for the first women's candidate for this office (1881), a reproduction of the banquet menu for President Lincoln's Inauguration, a 1709 proposal to launch a space satellite (20 cents) . . . these and about one thousand other document reproductions of historic subjects are offered in this catalogue in all shapes and sizes, some illustrated, others using old type faces; some in color, others in black and white.

This is the kind of stimulation your child needs and can use to want to learn more about our history, to delve deeper into every conceivable subject, to get the feel of what things were like or worked in the past, how they work today and how they are likely to turn out in the future.

For your free catalogue of this interesting list of reproductions, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, Arnold Arnold, in care of The Post-Crescent. Please mark the outside of your envelope Posters.

Your Problems

Hardest Thing for Him Is to Do Nothing

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you print this letter it could save countless people from prolonged illness and perhaps even death. I am a nurse who has worked for two physicians and I've seen plenty. Five minutes ago a woman walked out of here in a huff — shouting, "I'll never come back again." Why? Because the doctor refused to give her a shot of penicillin. We have kooks who demand it for everything from a sore throat to bursitis, sprained ankles, headaches — just name it and we've seen it.

What these people don't understand is this: Penicillin will not cure a common cold. Furthermore, if they load up on penicillin they may develop an immunity to it and when a crisis hits and penicillin could mean the difference between life and death, it won't work.

Please, Ann, tell your readers not to pressure their doctors into giving them penicillin. If the doctor says "no" take his word for it. He knows best. — C.S. an R.N. from Richmond, Va.

Dear C.S.: I hope my readers will heed your warning. Sometimes the hardest thing for a doctor to do is nothing — and in some instances, nothing is the best thing to do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so ashamed I could die. Please don't bawl me out. Tell me what to do.

I became involved with a married man. I was sure he loved me and that somehow everything would be all right. Seven weeks ago I discovered I was pregnant. When I told him, he said it was incredible that a girl could be so dumb in this day and age. He offered no help — only advice. Now he refuses to accept my telephone calls at his office. His secretary says he is out of town.

My girl friend says I should

go to his wife. She says that since the laws have changed and abortions are legal in some states, a married man is no longer responsible if he gets a single girl in trouble. I don't want an abortion. I couldn't live with the guilt. All I want is support for my fatherless child. Advise me, please. — Too Late Smart

Dear T.L.S.: There's no such thing as a fatherless child. Every child has a father and he is obliged to support the child even if he's not married to the mother. If you cannot afford a lawyer call Legal Aid. Your girl friend has been giving you bum advice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My parents were divorced five years ago. I was 10 years old at the time. I live with my father. The problem is that I love my mother's folks very much but they don't get along with Dad. It would not be exaggerating to say they hate each other. Whenever three of them get together there is an argument. Dad usually tries to get me to side with him. If I don't he is mad. The worst part of all this is that after a fight Dad tells me I can't go to my grandparents' house. (They live a few blocks from here.) I really do love them and I think this is unfair. Is there something I could say to get him to understand? — Louisville Shakes

Dear L.S.: Probably not. In a highly charged emotional situation such as you describe, your father is not likely to respond to reason. It's too bad when the children of divorce are used as a club, but it's a favorite ploy. Your best bet is to obey your father's wishes and hope he comes to realize what he is doing to you.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request.

College Students Believe in Institution of Marriage

BY HAZEL McGRATH

MADISON — The institution of marriage will be around for a long time to come, judging by the reactions of a group of students interviewed at random recently on the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin.

Just one of the young men, Warren, cast a strong vote against marriage: "No; never!" It turned out he had tried it at 21, discovered an immense incompatibility with his wife, was divorced amicably after two years.

On the whole, the young men disclosed a stronger wish to delay marriage than the women.

For example, Frank, 23, a graduate student in journalism:

Not Uppermost

"Marriage is certainly not uppermost in my mind now. I want to do a lot of traveling. There are so many people I'll never see, and the world is so big. I don't want to be tied down yet. Besides, I'm bugged by the idea that if I marry now, will I find someone better later? The girl I marry eventually will be a composite of many I've known. Everyone needs someone to lean on from time to time."

At the opposite pole is Gay, 18, and a mathematics major, and very positive in her views.

"Marriage is definitely for me. I plan on a career, too, and I'd like a career relating to my husband's so we can work together. I want one child of my own, will maybe adopt more. I'll let my kids develop in their own way, not force my interests on them nor live through them."

Jimmy, 19, is a sophomore in electrical engineering who spent four years in a seminary before he began to doubt his vocation for the priesthood.

"I'll get married some day, for I like the idea of starting a home which will give me responsibility in life and promote the exchange of moral support and conjugal love. It's good if a wife has a career, if she can take time off for children. Maybe we can work out a system so she stays with the children part of the day and I the other part, and we can both have careers."

Karla, a 21-year-old senior in sociology, believes all girls should start careers before marriage, and never be identified just as wives.

Senior Panic

"Girls in the university sometimes get 'senior panic' because they're afraid to go out into the world and get jobs. I think there should be more courses in high schools to convince girls they are individuals who must do something on their own. Some couples should probably live together before marriage, for in dating they see only the best side and are disillusioned with day-to-day living after marriage. I plan to have two children only."

Dan is 22, a senior in economics and a varsity athlete.

"I've been going with my girl for two years. We'll probably marry in about a year. We'll have two, maybe three, children, but not right away. I'll bring up my kids like my parents did me, for I approve of their way. I won't object if my wife has a career, but I'll expect her to stay home with the children when they're small."

Molly is a recent graduate, 23.

"Yes, I'd like to get married in a couple of years. Right now, my ideal, intellectually, is two children, but I'd love to have more for I think it draws a marriage closer. But we must keep the population under control and I think it's a greater sin to have more than two than it is to practice birth control. I won't want a full - time career, maybe a part-time job so I won't get bogged down mentally."

Springtime Foods For Celebrating

harbingers of Spring, so make use of them to keep the mood That's where the Asparagus Ham Rarebit comes in and fresh asparagus may make the dish, or for the thrifty gal, the frozen variety may fit the budget better.

Now that canned foods seem such bargains these days, consider the canned spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese. It's a quick dish useful for many varieties of main dishes In this case it's used to prepare a quick casserole The Aloha Platter with its accompanying pineapple and fruit shakes is Hawaiian food that shows its undertones of Chinese, Japanese, Filipino and American cookery. The recipe is from the West Coast where taste and flavor always are important. Its owner explains that the crab and the shrimp represent the fruit of the sea, the cocoanut and pineapple the fruit of the land, but the addition of the horseradish to this unusual crabmeat salad is pure Yankee ingenuity.

Happy Spring!

SPRING ROAST WITH BURGUNDY SAUCE

- 4-pound eye of the round roast
- ¼ cup sliced celery
- ¼ teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy
- 2 tablespoons Burgundy or other dry red wine

Place meat, fat-side up, in roasting pan. Roast at 325 degrees for one hour 40 minutes or until desired doneness (medium about 25 minutes per pound or 160 degrees on meat thermometer).

Remove meat from pan; spoon off excess fat, saving drippings. On top of range, in roasting pan, cook celery with oregano in drippings until tender. Add gravy and Burgundy. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Thin to desired consistency with water. Serve with meat. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

ASPARAGUS HAM RAREBIT

- 1 large bunch asparagus
- 2 envelopes (1¼ ounces each) cheese sauce mix
- Milk
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 3 English muffins
- Sliced ham
- Butter

Cut asparagus into 5-inch spears, wash thoroughly. Thinly slice any remaining tender parts of the stalks for future use Place spears in boiling salted water and cook about 10 minutes or until desired tenderness. Drain and add a little butter, keep warm.

Prepare cheese sauce according to directions on envelope, stirring in the Tabasco and Worcestershire with the milk

Meanwhile, split English muffins, butter and toast lightly under broiler Top each muffin with ham slice and broil a few seconds longer.

To serve: Arrange muffins on platter. Place three asparagus spears on each muffin and the rest in the center. Spoon a little cheese sauce over the asparagus and pass remaining sauce at the table Recipe makes six servings.

SPAGHETTI SPRING SPECIAL

- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 medium clove garlic, minced
- ¼ teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cans (15¼ ounces each) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese
- 2 cans (7 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 pkg. (9 ounces) Italian style green beans, cooked and drained
- Shredded Mozzarella cheese

In skillet, cook onion with garlic and basil in butter until tender. Add spaghetti, tuna, and beans. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with cheese. Recipe makes four to six servings.

NOTE: Substitute 1 can (26½ ounces) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese for 2 cans (15¼ ounces each), if desired

ALOHA PLATTER

- 1½ pounds crabmeat, flaked
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 avocado, seeded and sliced
- ½ cup celery, thinly sliced
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- ¼ cup bottled lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons horseradish
- Lettuce

- 1 pineapple, cut lengthwise
- 1 pound shrimp, cleaned and cooked
- Coconut, toasted

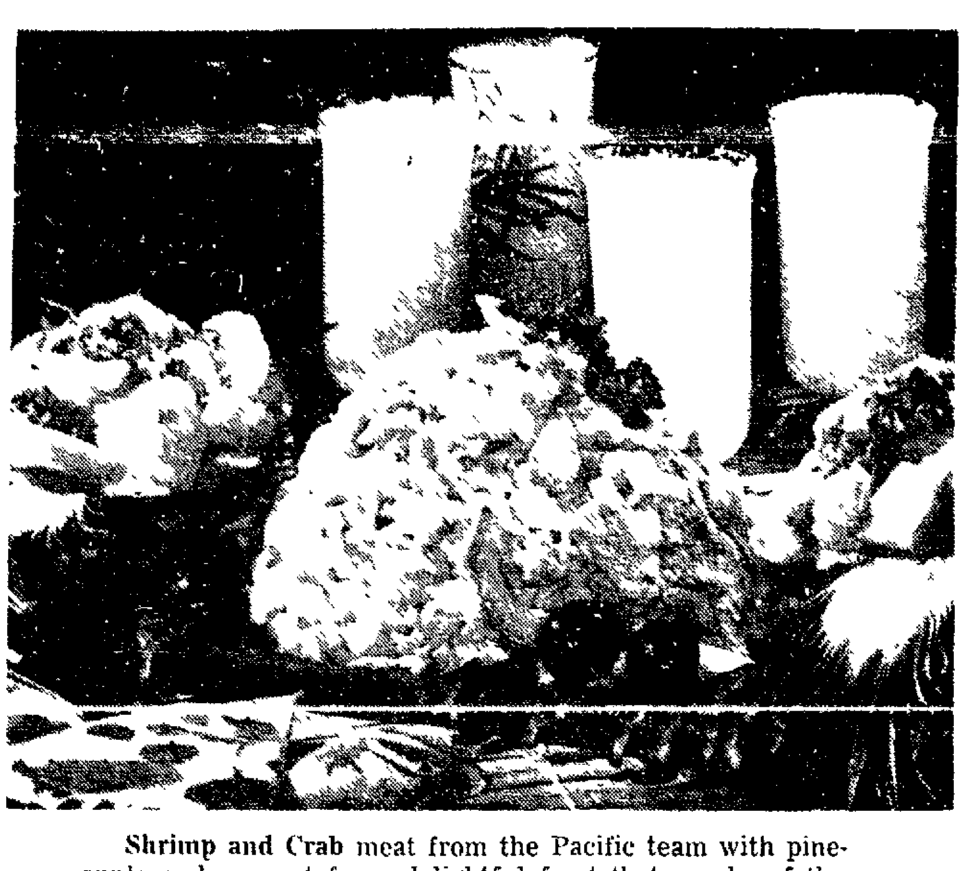
Combine crabmeat, eggs, avocado and celery. Blend together mayonnaise, chili sauce, lemon juice and horseradish. Pour over crabmeat; toss gently. Spoon into mound shape in center of lettuce on serving platter

Remove fruit from pineapple, cut into chunks. Arrange shrimp and pineapple in two pineapple shells. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Place each shell at end of tray of mounded crabmeat. Recipe makes four to six servings.

ISLAND FRUIT SHAKE

- 2 cups pineapple juice, chilled
- 2 cups pineapple chunks
- ¾ cup bottled lime juice
- 5 ice cubes

Place all ingredients in blender container; whip until frothy. Serve immediately. Recipe makes four to six servings.



Shrimp and Crab meat from the Pacific team with pineapple and coconut for a delightful feast that speaks of the Island and Honolulu. Served with the Aloha Platter are glasses of thick, juicy fruit shake with its appealing pineapple base and traditional flavor of lime juice.

Smart Shopper's Recipe for Week

H... a delightful salad slaw that should be in every homemaker's recipe file.

It is delicious, it's easily prepared and all the ingredients are readily available As a bonus feature, the recipe lends itself to variation What can be better than that for a week-in, week-out standby"

The recipe combines bite-sized chunks of plentiful oranges with also plentiful shredded cabbage. A small amount of chopped onion, creamy salad dressing, a touch of lemon juice, salt and sugar for heightening the flavor adds just the proper touch to the slaw

For flavor variation, try adding turnips, about two raw ones peeled and chopped for a six-serving slaw. Another idea is the addition of chopped green pepper, about a half pepper is enough, two tablespoons of chopped pimento is a good addition, either by itself or with the turnip Now that peanuts are among the March plentifuls, add a half-cup salted peanuts, chopped coarsely to give a crunchy texture.

ORANGE SLAW

- 3 medium oranges, or 4 small oranges
- 1 small head cabbage
- ¼ small onion, chopped
- ¾ cup salad dressing
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt

Peel oranges; cut into bite-sized pieces Shred cabbage, using long blade on grater or very sharp knife Chop onion finely. Place these ingredients in large serving bowl.

Mix together salad dressing, lemon juice, sugar and salt; blend well, then pour over slaw and mix together lightly. Cover bowl and refrigerate at least 30 minutes before serving

Prepared in the morning, this slaw has blended its flavors by supper time Note: The dressing part of the recipe can be used for other salads or seafoods with a bit of touch-up Add chili sauce for a shrimp dip; add ground pickle relish for a fish tartar-like sauce; add a touch of cream and a favorite herb seasoning or a touch of garlic or celery salt for use on torn-up lettuce

Homemakers to Hear Mrs. Tangen

KAUKAUNA — Mrs. Eric Tangen, a native of Norway and teacher at Fox Valley Technical Institute, will display original Norwegian handcrafted items and will speak about her country at a Homemakers Club meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Vocational School.

Mrs. Ronald Siebers will serve as program chairman and Mrs. David Hartjes Jr. will have charge of the social hour.

Lynn Ninedorf

Chilton Girl Named DAR Good Citizen

CHILTON — Miss Lynn Ninedorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ninedorf, route 4, has been selected by the Chilton High School faculty as the local DAR good citizen of the year.

During the past two years Miss Ninedorf has been a co-editor of Tiger Tales, a school news column published weekly in the Times Journal. During her junior year, Miss Ninedorf served as Chilton's delegate to Badger Girls State on the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin.

Penance—a Longtime Burden to Catholics

KAUKAUNA — The sacrament of penance has long been a burden to Catholics, said the Rev. Roy Klister, Sacred Heart Seminary Instructor, in his address to the Holy Cross Home-School Association recently.

"Through the years the emphasis has been on what we did wrong, how we sinned, rather than on God and His forgiveness," said the speaker. Previously one examined conscience minutely, but the new way is to make penance a more personal worship experience, continued Rev. Klister

"A man must try to tell his confessor about himself, his weaknesses. We have need of God's forgiveness and He should be viewed as a merciful being," said the speaker. Speaking of a bad confessional experience, especially for children, the priest noted, "Sin, by definition, is the complete and total rejection of God Therefore, it is almost impossible for a child to commit sin" He gave this as a reason for children being allowed to make a confession in later years than previously

He reminded parents of their obligation to teach their children essential religious responses and of their primary responsibility to train children

"It is impossible to teach children about forgiveness, trust and love unless they have been exposed to it in different home situations Parents form the child's conscience at home He must learn to value himself, others and God to become a true Christian," said the clergyman.

He explained how a child, when receiving first Communion, is joining the community of the Church and emphasis should be on the importance of meeting Christ with his family rather than on gifts received or special clothing worn.

Concluding he noted, "It does not take a genius to recognize the correct answers It does take a genius to recognize the correct questions."

Refreshments were served by fourth grade mothers under the direction of Mrs Richard Van Schyndel and Mrs. Leonard Mauel.

Green Power

The Irish, naturally, like to say that on St. Patrick's Day everyone is an Irishman or wishes he were. But, oddly enough, considering some of the lack of welcome many of the Irish first found in the United States, it is just about turning out that way.

President Nixon reflects this view point. Mrs. Nixon, whose maiden name was Ryan, is undisputably Irish and even celebrates her birthday on St. Paddy's Day, although she was actually born on another. Her nickname, too, is from the Irish saint and this year President Nixon is hosting a party for her which will include some Irish folk singers and the Prime Minister of the Irish Republic.

But the President's own claims to an Irish ancestry are not so clear and there is the horrible suspicion that they were resurrected, so to speak, because of the reception John Kennedy, who defeated Mr. Nixon at the polls some years ago, was tendered when he visited his ancestral home.

When so many of the Irish, hungry and poor, arrived in the United States and Canada, fleeing from the several potato famines and both the emotional and practical rejection of any real aid by England, they were not open-heartedly welcomed. Particularly the Eastern blue bloods considered them dirty, drunken, illiterate and Catholic. "No Irish Need Apply" and "Irish Not Served Here" were common signs in Boston. The fears of the Irish ranged all the way from the dangers of lice to that of the Papacy.

It does seem unusual that the President of the United States should make an effort to prove his Irish forebears instead of those from some other European, Asiatic or African nation. It just may be that those Little People have more green power than has been recognized in the pragmatic cynical world of today.

The Teen Drop-In Center

A lot of people have been hoping and asking for a drop-in center for area youth for a long time. And many people have worked hard toward providing one. Now that objective is achieved.

Certainly the people who combined efforts to make the Drop-In Center a reality are to be commended. We wish them, and the center, well.

We hope that our teens will make use of this new facility. And we must confess to a mild skepticism, or at least to a "wait and see" attitude. The proof of the pudding will be in the eating.

The best facility in the world, with the finest program, and all good intentions, will prove ineffective if young people stay away, there is evidence at hand that the mere provision of an attractive physical place, complete with equipment, and adults sincerely willing to help, will not of itself achieve its purpose.

The Teen Drop-In Center is therefore considerably more than a place where youth may get together. It represents a challenge of considerable proportion to Appleton's younger generation.

Ex-Ambassador Yost Speaks Out

The replacement of Charles Yost as our Ambassador to the United Nations was not done particularly smoothly. Daniel Moynihan had been offered the position by President Nixon but when word of the offer leaked out before Mr. Yost was told he was being replaced, Mr. Moynihan declined the post. And yet the clumsy approach may have been just what President Nixon intended. He has shown little mercy toward those in his Administration who differ publicly with his views and perhaps his heavy hand is understandable.

Mr. Yost, a veteran of forty years in the United States diplomatic service, has recently been commenting upon his point of view regarding American foreign policies. About 1965, he says, we began making serious mistakes in Vietnam when "we began to pour in very large numbers of troops and spend the huge amount of resources that we have. I just thought it was disproportionate to our other interests at home and abroad. Our interests in preserving the status quo there were not unfortunately what would justify that amount of expenditure of lives and treasure."

Since Mr. Nixon was generally politically quiet during those years of President Johnson's buildup in Vietnam, he could be expected to be able to live with Mr. Yost's opinions. But Mr. Yost did not stop there. "I approved of the President's winding down the presence, but I think it should be wound down a good deal faster." Mr. Yost has also pointed to the disparity between demanding the return of all American prisoners of war before a settlement is reached, currently the official American position. Instead he feels that the United States should announce a terminal date for the withdrawal of all American troops dependent only upon the North Vietnamese withdrawal from Laos and Cambodia and the release of all American prisoners of war.

A big difference between Yost's stand and that of President Nixon is what should happen in South Vietnam. Yost would not require the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from that area but instead leave their containment up to the South Vietnamese. Since we went into the fracas in the first place to defend the South Vietnamese from the North Vietnamese — or at least that was the official line — it is going to be difficult to accept Mr. Yost's proposal. And yet, in the long run, that is exactly what President Nixon means by his continued withdrawal of American troops and the Vietnamization program. Currently the hard line, even being expressed by Secretary of State William Rogers, seems to indicate an American backing of the Saigon regime somewhat out of proportion either to its strength or its dedication to our ideas of liberty but this may be merely a way to ease the pain as far as our own stated aims over the years are concerned.

Mr. Yost has joined the ranks of those appointed to important positions by President Nixon during his early months of negotiation rather than confrontation, his efforts to include a wide spectrum of opinion within the official family, and in general to feel how things would go. When doubts as to his policies were expressed publicly or privately, Walter Hickel, Robert Finch, Charles Yost, Daniel Moynihan and a number of lesser lights disappeared from the roster with hardly as much as a nod of the head from the President. Mr. Yost is probably not the last one to leave under such circumstances.

Wisconsin Report

Taxpayer Resistance Was Major Factor in Shaping Lucey Budget

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A reader wonders about the validity of the dispatches several months ago that repeatedly headlined the prospect the incoming Lucey administration would confront the most difficult financing crisis in modern times and that the demands for expenditure rises would exceed prospective revenues for its first budget period by half a billion dollars or more.

Were they exaggerated, in view of the fact that the Democratic governor has now proposed a two-year budget that requires only about $180 million in new taxes, he demands?

The answer is no.

But an explanation requires some detail. The first factor is that the governor is a skilled politician. He was not averse to the dramatization of the crisis that appeared to face him. He, in fact encouraged it — as when he invited proposals about how to save money and got some political mileage out of suggestions that he said came from school children and others. (Whatever happened to those meritorious ideas he chose to publicize at the time?)

Budgets Are Inflated

Every politician who carries no moisture behind his ears knows that budget requests are always swollen, not necessarily because of the cynical conviction of the appellants that if they ask for more than they need they are the more likely to get what they want, but because the department head is the classical isolationist. He is concerned about very little except his own program, responsibility, and aspiration. Every governor, of whatever persuasion, drastically cuts the budgets submitted to him.

More important in defining the transformation of the Lucey fiscal problem from one of crisis dimensions to one that appears moderate in comparison with those that confronted his recent predecessors is that the governor has the legal right to do the guessing about costs and revenues.

The scope of the deficit projected for Lucey in the early dispatches following his election were based on calculations of revenue from existing taxes made by the officers of the preceding Republican administration. Lucey's men raised those projections of yield substantially — which had the result of reducing the deficit, at least on paper, and there is no ready way to contradict them.

Estimates Are Cautious

Historical practice in revenue estimating has been cautious with the realization that an error is most grievous and most embarrassing to the party in power when it is on the low side. On the high side it is quickly forgiven by the reigning governor, who then basks in the appearance of running a taut ship.

As a corollary, the incumbent administration has the right and the power to make the calcualations of the yield of new revenue laws proposed. It is a reasonable supposition that optimism employed on revising the existing tax productivity carried into the estimates of yield of new taxes asked — in spite of the uncertainties evident in the economy.

Finally, Gov. Lucey has shown more fiscal caution than anyone could have predicted for a Democratic governor, either by the test of his party's habitual stance or upon the record of his campaign speeches and platform.

Increase Ratio Lower

The Lucey budget will be about $2 billion — probably somewhat higher — when the record is in. That is an all-time high. But in inflationary times gross comparisons are useless. The important fact is that he is on the record as asking for a lower ratio of increase in spending than his Republican predecessor.

He has talked repeatedly about taxpayer resistance. Here is the truly meaningful element of the new Democratic administration's fiscal stance. When a liberal regime seems to be more cautious on spending than the conservative governor it replaced, something important is brewing. Habitual attitudes must be adjusted — always assuming that the legislature ratified the "austerity" posture and that the governor is not persuaded to change his mind.

Revenue Sharing II

How About U.S. Leasing Its Taxing Services to States?

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Having scaled down the brokerage function of the federal government by relieving it of the responsibility for taking money from the richer states in order to return money to the richer states, what can it usefully do? Two things, one of which I alluded to in the first of this two-part series. Namely, to act as the agent through which money passes hands from the richer to the poorer states, as the philanthropic or redistributionist impulse moves the Congress.

A suggested formula might be based on the distance of any given state from the national median. Thus, for instance, Mississippi, where per capita income is $2,218, presumably needs more help than Montana, where per capita income is $3,130, close to the national median of $3,406. Congress might reasonably decide to funnel $100 per capita to the poorer states, and take it from there.

Lease Its Facilities

The second thing the federal government could usefully do is to lease its tax-gathering facilities to the individual states. I do not see any substantial argument, based in theory or in practice, against such cooperation. Thus, on day X in the future, the resident of New York, having filled out his federal tax return, would go on to consult the table for New York; which would give him the exact sum of money he would need to add to his federal return in order to discharge his state obligation. Exit, with the single deed, all the state internal revenue agencies that occupy themselves with income taxes. The federal government, on receipt of the grand total, would put aside the indicated sum for the credit of the individual state, less a service charge.

Now ideally, the federal government would get out of the business of graduating the tax. As Professor Friedman has demonstrated, it could do so with no pain at all to itself, and with great benefit to the body politic.

A very few reforms would be needed. Those Mr. Friedman has advocated are: 1) eliminate all deductions, 2) double dependency allowances; and lo, you could raise as much money as the government now raises from personal income taxes, by having a set rate of 20 per cent. You could even throw in a $1500 negative income tax floor, by increasing the flat rate to only 23 per cent. The figures are suggestive of how relatively little is the money that is taken from the rich. They are simply not numerous enough to constitute a significant tax factor.

Aware of Perpetrator

The states could then devise income taxes of their own choosing, setting the rates according to their fancy: and, dutifully, the tax would be collected by the single internal revenue agent, and remitted to the states. But the taxpayer would always be aware who it is that is taking his money. That nexus, so greatly stressed by Wilbur Mills, is indispensable to enlightened self-government. Under Mr. Nixon's plan, the Congress of the United States ordains the tax, then remits a part of it to the state, whose legislators then assemble in order to discuss merely the matter of how the money should be spent: not whether it should have been raised in the first instance.

To separate the one function from the other is the device of those who wish to conceal from the taxpayer what are the economic realities. In his book "The Affluent Society," Professor Galbraith, always on the prowl for means of substituting himself for the marketplace, suggested automatic increases, pegged to inflation and cost of living, for schools, and such, to spare the legislators the occasional agony of having to levy more taxes, or letting the schools run down.

Better the agony, I say: and surely all taxpayers would say as much, and would hope that Congress will address this opportunity to engage in revenue-sharing, by adopting genuine, radical, reform.

Potomac Fever —

Symington says Bill Rogers is a victim of McCarthyism: Not Joe, Charlie.

John Pastore says he'll report out a bill on campaign spending reform — unless somebody comes up with some cash for the Demos.

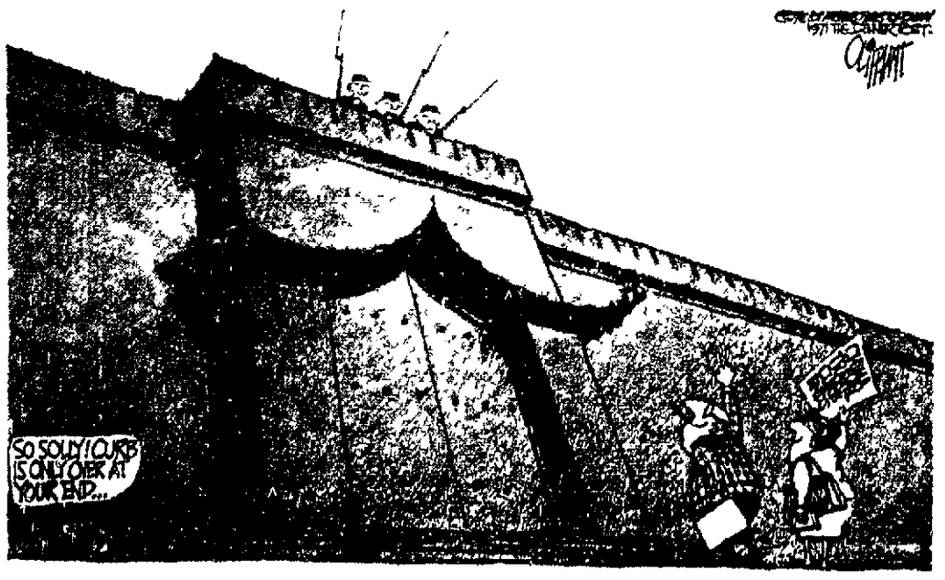
The senate will have to do something about the filibuster soon: It's almost time for the Easter recess.

Sam Yorty says he might enter the New Hampshire primary as a hawk, but Ed Muskie says Watts the difference?

If William Casey doesn't make it as SEC boss, maybe he can go into business with G. Harrold Carswell.

The RAF has a special maintenance program for Prince Charles' jet. The heir force takes care of its own.

Martha Mitchell had some doctor trouble in Houston: She thought he was a headache and he thought she was a pill.



Strictly Personal

Ambiguities in Life Turn People Off

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What absolutely drives us crazy more than anything else is our inability to stand the ambiguous. The ambiguous is anything that has several meanings, or seems to contradict itself, or appeals to us on one level, and repels us on another.

Much of what we call "intolerance" is our instinctive reaction to ambiguity. We want things to be clear, to be black or white, to be consistent and swiftly categorized. There is almost an animal need in us for such certainty.

I was thinking of this while reading a new book, "The Death of the Family," by David Cooper, a British psychotherapist. It is probably the most irritating book I have read in years — and each time I am on the verge of chucking it away, I run across a line or a paragraph that seems exactly true and right and deeply insightful.

Cooper is an infuriating writer and thinker, and his book is not worth reading in toto. He is angry, bitter, dogmatic, and crudely educated outside his own field. Yet, at the same time, he has something to say about interpersonal relations, about possessiveness and family structure, that (as I believe most of them are), they force a re-examination of our values about family life.

But what I am mainly interested in here is not his book, but our reactions to it. It will not be widely-read or well-received, regardless of its merits, because its quality of ambiguity will quickly turn most people off. And this is where we go wrong.

Most of us are searching for a "unified" answer to human problems. We are looking for solutions that are smooth and round and self-contained. This is why it is so easy to adopt one doctrinaire position or another — conservatism, or communism, or fideism or relativism — and view the whole world from that vantage-point. It may be wrong, but it is comfortable and it gives the illusion of consistency.

We will not be grown up as a species, however, until we are able to bear the dreadful burden of ambiguity — until we are able to accept contradictions, to select what seems useful and reject what seems nonsense, in any dogma or doctrine or theory of life.

This does not mean we have to be "pragmatic" and choose whatever seems to work, for pragmatism is often more ineffectual than idealism; but it does mean that we must be willing to give up system-thinking and replace it with genuine problem-solving. To cling to Marxism when it is obsolete is no more "revolutionary" than to cling to classical capitalism when it is obsolete; but the next war may very well be between two fossilized ideologies grappling in their mutual death-throes.

Looking Backward

Rumors All Correct, Except

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for March 16, 1871.

The statement concerning H. L. Blood, of the Levake House, that he is having a new bus made for his hotel is all right if the following corrections are considered:

1—The bus is not to be finished the first of May, necessarily.

2—H. L. Blood had nothing to do with the plan.

3—The bus is not being built for the Lavake House.

Our friends, Frederick Blood and William Johnson, have contracted with Mr. Olds, of Neenah, for a new bus to be finished about the last of May.

They propose to run it for both hotels and for the benefit of citizens generally.

Tring Wasn't as Old as It Thought

TRING, England (AP) — This town isn't quite as old as it figured, Hertfordshire officials whooped up a big celebration for this year on the supposition that Tring was founded in 571.

After a look through the books, blushing officials decided they may have been a few centuries off and called off the festivities until they can figure out a new year.

Can Appleton West achieve a rare "double" in the state basketball tournament?

Will the third time prove the charm for Neenah Shattuck?

These questions take top priority for the basketball fraternity of which almost everyone is a member at tournament time as the Fox Cities' titans prepare to enter the 3-day WIAA glamor event in the University of Wisconsin Fieldhouse, in Madison.

West's Terrors seek to retain the coveted crown they won last year in the same setting. Only three schools have successfully defended their state titles in the last 34 years. . . They are Milwaukee Lincoln twice (1961-2 and 1966-7) and Shawano (1956-7). Beloit (1932-3-4) is the only school ever to win three in a row.

Neenah's Rockets, who have suffered heart-breaking losses (80-79, in two overtimes, to Beloit and 58-57 to AHS-W), in the last two state title games, will try to go all the way this time. Neenah is only the third team in WIAA history to lose in the finals two successive times and is the only one ever to lose the pair by the slimmest of all margins.

Three in Row

History is on the side of the Rockets, the only undefeated team in the elite field of eight. Three straight perfect-record teams (AHS-W, Beloit and Manitowoc) have won the big title, and unbeatens have come through in six of the last nine years. Prior to this streak, unbeaten champions were rare . . . in fact, there was a 21-year gap between perfect records (1941-1962).

If Appleton West (19-4) hopes to repeat, it will have to break a 10-year pattern. Not since 1969, when Wausau (17-9) won the title, has a state champion lost four or more games, overall.

Neenah (23-0), striving for its first state title in 41 years, opens its bid — and the 11-game tournament — against Milwaukee Boys Tech (19-4) in a 1:30 p.m. game.

AHS-W meets Milwaukee Rufus King (22-1) in the first day's closing attraction, at about 8:45 p.m.

Between these two maxi-interest games, Janesville Parker (16-7) duels Reedsburg (19-5) at 3:15 p.m., and Cumberland (22-2) takes on Wausau East (18-5) at 7 p.m.

The Rockets face either Janesville or Reedsburg Friday afternoon. If they win, they'll play the 3:15 game . . . if NHS loses Thursday, it plays the 1:30 contest Friday.

The Terrors encounter either

Bucks Down Suns

PHOENIX (AP) — Lew Alcindor cut loose with 48 points Tuesday night to help Milwaukee snap its three-game National Basketball Association losing streak.

The Bucks, division champions who have shown signs of coasting until playoffs get underway, lost to Chicago, New York and the Phoenix Suns before Alcindor oiled Tuesday's 119-111 defeat of the Suns.

The Bucks scored 12 points without interruption in the final quarter to dislodge Phoenix from an 88-81 lead.

The Suns came back to within two points, and were down only 110-108 with 1:24 remaining when Alcindor's hook shot and a pair of free throws virtually doomed Phoenix' hopes of gaining a seat in the Midwest Division playoffs.

Coliseum Record

Alcindor's score total, boosted by 17 field goals, was a record for Veterans Coliseum. Jon McGlocklin added 23 points and Bob Boozer had 17.

McGlocklin spurred the Bucks into the lead from a 97-97 tie. The Suns pulled to within 107-106. Then Milwaukee's Greg Smith contributed a trio of points.

Connie Hawkins, who inspired the Suns to clobber the Bucks in Madison, Wis., Sunday, had 28 points for Phoenix as did Dick Van Arsdale.

The Bucks, who need two more victories to tie the NBA record of 68 victories for a season campaign, play Thursday at Seattle and Friday at San Diego.

4 Power-Packed, Rated Teams Ready For NCAA Mid-East Regional Tourney

By ED SHEARER

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Dean Meminger of Marquette and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky head the cast of individual stars in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's power-packed Mideast Regional basketball tournament which begins Thursday night.

Each of the four teams competing for a berth in next week's NCAA finals at Houston's Astrodome was ranked among the nation's top ten teams in the final Associated Press poll.

Face Buckeyes

Meminger, an excellent playmaker, averaged 21 points per game in leading the Warriors, ranked second in the nation, through an undefeated regular season and a 62-47 triumph over Miami of Ohio in the Mideast first round last week.

The Marquette-Ohio State game in the NCAA basketball tournament will be telecast live at 6 p.m. Thursday by Channel 2. TV 2 will also carry the Kentucky-Western Kentucky game (on tape at 10:30 p.m. Thursday).

Marquette, 27-0 this year and winner of 39 straight, faces Big Ten champion Ohio State in the regional opener at 6:05 p.m. CST. Southeastern Conference champ Kentucky battles Western Kentucky in the second game at 8:05 p.m., in the first meeting ever between the two Kentucky schools rich in basketball tradition.

Western is ranked No. 7, Kentucky eighth and Ohio State 10th.

Western earned its berth last Saturday by rallying from an 18-point deficit to eliminate last year's national runner-up, Jacksonville, 74-72. McDaniels, a 7-footer who averaged 29.2 points in regular season, scored two vital tip-ins on missed free throws late in the game against the Dolphins.

All four teams were scheduled for 90-minute workouts this afternoon at the 10,400-seat University of Georgia Coliseum.

McDaniels is the only senior among four centers ranging in height from 6-foot-11 to 7-foot-2. The tallest is Kentucky's Tom Payne, the school's first black varsity basketball player, and the shortest is Jim Chones of Marquette.

Payne and Chones are sophomores, as is Ohio State's 7-footer, Luke Witte.

Winningest Coach

Coach Adolph Rupp, the nation's winningest coach with an 853-181 record, is sending his Kentucky team into the NCAA tournament for a record 19th time. The Wildcats have won four NCAA championships and finished second once.

Al McGuire, the colorful Marquette coach, owns a 252-117 career mark and his winning streak of 39 has been bettered only six times in major college history.

State has won seven Big Ten titles in 13 years under Fred Taylor (235-92), whose Buckeyes won Midwest titles in 1960, 1961, 1962 and 1968, beating Kentucky in the finals the last three times.

Johnny Oldham of Western has a 261-123 record and has won four Ohio Valley Conference crowns in seven years.

Niekro Sharp as Braves Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The big-name pitchers are rapidly getting in shape for the start of the baseball season. Phil Niekro hurled five good innings Tuesday. Mike Cuellar went seven . . and Choji Murata went nine.

Choji Murata pitches for Japan's Lotte Orions and he stifled the California Angels 7-2 on seven hits, including Tony Conigliaro's first home run. Murata walked four and fanned eight.

Niekro, whose knuckleball didn't knuckle down to business last year, yielded only one hit during his stint as the Atlanta Braves whipped the Minnesota Twins 5-2.

Baltimore's Cuellar, off a lackadaisical winter campaign, was in world championship form, blanking the Los Angeles Dodgers for seven innings in a 3-0 Oriole victory. Tom Dukes finished up and Frank Robinson belted a mammoth home run.

Japan's other touring team, the Tokyo Giants, lost to Pittsburgh 6-2 when the Pirates scored four times in the eighth inning. Gene Clines had four hits for the Bucs.

Rookie Bill Bonham and veteran Bill Hands combined for a one-hitter—a single by Rafael Robles in the fifth—and the Chicago Cubs edged the San Diego Padres 2-1 on Jose Ortiz' ninth-inning RBI triple.

The Chicago White Sox and Huston Astros also got strong pitching. Tom Bradley and two rookies stopped the New York Yankees 8-0 on four hits as the clubs began a two-game visit to Venezuela. It was New York's eighth consecutive setback.

Sore-armed Don Wilson worked five scoreless innings and Houston downed Philadelphia 4-1.

Cleveland outlasted Oakland 10-7 in another game featuring the experimental three-ball walk. There was a total of 23 walks.

Mets Trounced

The Detroit Tigers trounced the New York Mets 10-4 behind a six-run outburst in the fifth, capped by Mickey Stanley's grand slam. Jose Cardenal's grand slam was one of three St. Louis homers—Ted Simmons and Joe Torre hit the others—in the Cardinals' 10-7 triumph over Cincinnati.

Washington got home runs from Mike Epstein and Frank Howard, the first for each, and shaded Boston 5-4 with a run in the ninth. San Francisco nipped Milwaukee 6-5 on George Foster's 10th-inning sacrifice fly.

The Montreal Expos stole the go-ahead run in the top of the ninth when Jim Fairey and Garry Sutherland pulled a double steal and downed Kansas City 6-4.

Brewers Lose in 10

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)— George Foster's sacrifice fly scored Joe Rosario in the 10th inning Tuesday to give the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The Giants trailed the Brewers 5-4 at the end of eight innings, but came back to tie the score in the ninth on a hit batter, a single and Jim Goodson's sacrifice fly.

Don McMahon, who had blanked the Brewers in the last two innings, was the winning pitcher, while Larry Bernarth, who came on in the 10th for Milwaukee, was tagged with the loss.

Dave May had two hits and three runs batted in in the unsuccessful Brewer attack.

dell Cherry, signed the pact before 11,000 spectators in Louisville's massive Freedom Hall Tuesday night.

The signing ceremony carried live on television, came between games of an ABA doubleheader, with Gilmore slowly walking the length of the court to the accompaniment of a standing ovation before inking the contract

Storen said the contract was the richest ever given an ABA player, but refused to reveal its dollar value

A report by The Louisville Times Tuesday set the amount of the contract at "in excess of $2 million, and Gilmore's college coach Tom Wasdin said in Florida that he had heard similar figures

Gilmore's signing gave the ABA a running start in its recruiting battle with the NBA, and is expected to inspire other college seniors to hike their salary demands

Impressive Statistics

Gilmore carries impressive credentials into his pro career He averaged 26 5 points and 22 2 rebounds per game in leading the Dolphins to the finals of the NCAA championships during his junior year

This season he led the nation in rebounding with 23 2 per game while scoring at a 22 3-point clip

His greatest contributions came on defense, where he averaged 10 3 blocked shots per game In one game against East Carolina, he blocked 17 shots

Cumberland or Wausau Friday night Whether they play the early or late game depends on Thursday's result

Neenah, the only surviving member of the "Big 10" in AP ratings (the Rockets were No 1 all season), ranks as favorite of the upper bracket Milwaukee King (its sole regular-season loss was in overtime) looms as the team to beat in the lower bracket

The Ron Emerson-coached Rockets and the Dick Emanuel-led Terrors take spectacular 2 year records into the big show Neenah owns a 2-season mark of 47-2, while West is 45-4

Both teams have posted 667 records in state competition under their current coaches The Terrors have won eight of 12 in Madison, while the Rockets are 4 2

In four previous Madison appearances, under Emanuel's direction, Terror teams have won three openers and lost one (a 1-point decision to Monroe in 1965) In two earlier Madison appearances, under Emerson, the Rockets won the opener each time

West and Neenah have send several state-meet "old pros" (not in a monetary sense but in terms of proven ability under pressure) into action Thursday. West's Rich Reitzner, for example, was the meet's top scorer and an all-tournament choice last year He and Wausau East's Bob Steif are the only returnees from the all-star unit

The Terrors' Tim Moriarty was his team's second leading scorer, and he tied for eighth among all tourney rebounders in 1970 despite being below par physically as a result of a penicillin reaction West's Rick Luebben, a reserve last year, played in the climactic minutes of the title game against Neenah

Third in Rebounding

All the 1970 Neenah starters are gone, via graduation, but Rick Matson and Bill Schultz saw considerable action at Madison Matson, in fact, was third on his team in tourney rebounding and fourth in Rocket scoring

Neenah, an ideally-balanced entourage of shooters, rebounders and defenders, enters the tourney with the second best defensive mark (52 7 points per game yield) and third highest scoring average (73 3) The Rockets are relentless battlers under the boards (with Matson and Schultz the twin pacemakers) and possess a strong "inside" game.

At one time, outside shooting was considered a possible weakness. . .but in the last month or so, Ed Hawley and John Pierce have given defenses plenty to think about with good long-range efforts.

Starting for the Rockets will be seniors Matson (17.7 average), Schultz (16.8) and Pierce (7 9) and juniors Hawley (9 8) and Jim Crist (8 8).

Milwaukee Tech, which takes a 9-win streak into the game, ranks as the second best offensive club in the field, with an average of 80 3. Tech, however, is second from the bottom defensively, with a 66 3 pace

King ranks tops in the field on offense (81.9) but is sixth defensively (62.1).

The Terrors rank last offensively (65.5 points per game, compared to seventh-ranking Cumberland's 65 67) but is third defensively (53.2). West's, whose pre-state defensive average is a shade better than that of last year's team (53.6), led the 1970 state tourney on defense and also was tops in field goal accuracy (49.6 per cent).

West's varied defensive alignments will be put to a stern test by the Generals speed and shooting ability.

The Terrors' strong rebounding corps will also face one of its toughest assignments against the tall Milwaukeeans West will rely on 6-5 Tim Moriarty, the Fox Valley Association's rebounding king, and Ike Chestnut, a 6-2½ leaper — as well as 6-3 Luebben and 6-4 sophomore Carl Joosten, who alternate at one of the frontcourt spots

Reitzner, the team's floor general and outside shooting specialist, and the steady Dwight Mueller hold down the West backcourt Reitzner and Moriarty are averaging 17 8 and 17 7, respectively, for the 23 games to date Chestnut owns a 13 0 average

King and West have played two common foes: Kimberly and Milwaukee Marshall AHS-W won two out of three from Kimberly (losing, 67-50, and winning, 49-47 and 70-58) while King took a 59-53 verdict. West stopped Marshall, 62-47, while King beat the same team twice (77-61 and 91-66).

King takes a 17-game win streak into the game while West has won seven straight and 14 of its last 15

All State Tourney Games to Telecast

All 11 games of the WIAA state high school basketball tournament will be telecast live by Channel 11. Four games will be carried Thursday, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Beavers to Start Four Underclassmen

BY BOB GREEN

MADISON (AP) — "We've beaten everybody we've played so far, so we're going to play the rest of them"

The statement was made by Cumberland Coach Elmer Beran, whose team meets Wausau East in the 7 p m game of the WIAA state basketball tournament Thursday

Beran is in his 35th year as coach of the Cumberland Beavers and brings a team to the field-of-eight for the first time since 1965

"We have a young team, only one senior starter, three juniors and a sophomore," he said "We have 10 underclassmen out of our 12 players so we're still quite young"

Despite that youthfulness, Beran led the Beavers to a 22-2 season their only losses to Chetek by two points early in the season and to Eau Claire Regis around Christmas Asked how many in a row his team has won since the Regis loss, Beran said he wasn't sure but "it's a nice number"

Lone Senior

The only senior starter is 6-foot-4 Jerry Elmberg, a forward

He's joined by Steve King, a 6-5 center, guards Mark Nelson 6-2, and Sam Donatelle, 5-10, and forward Brad Curtis, 6-0

Curtis is the sophomore newcomer, while the other four are starting for the second straight year

Among the top reserves are 5-6 Ron Ruppel, 5-7 Bill Whelan, 6-0 Duane Dosch, 6-1 John Mathwig and 6-0 Roger Thompson, another sophomore

"We're a little bit taller than the 1965 team was But the 1965 team was basically seniors," said Beran. "You can't beat that experience"

Wausau East has a new name and a new coach, but it's the same team that has been in the state tournament field for the last two years.

Key to Attack

With a new school in town, the Lumberjacks added the word "East" to their school name. The new coach is Roger Davis, who has built his team around Bob Steif, a 6-5 senior.

"Our backbone is Steif of course," Davis said. "That's the thing that has been carrying us all season Now we're getting some guard to play to go along with it."

Steif was an unanimous all-Big Rivers Conference selection for the second straight year He also was named to the league's second team as a sophomore

A member of The Associated Press' all-state third team a year ago, Steif this season won both the scoring and rebounding crowns in the Big Rivers Conference He has a soft scoring touch around the pivot, and gets a lot of points under the basket with his leaping ability and perfect timing.

Along with Steif, Coach Davis has 6-5 Jim Martell, 6-2 Tom Leck, 5-11 Jerry Tomczak and 6-2 Dan Yelich.

The top reserves are Gary Davis, 6-2, and Jim Giese, 6-3, both forwards, and Carl Eggebrecht, a 5-10 guard

About Same Size

"We're comparable in size to the team that went to the state tournament last year," Davis said. "We move the ball to both sides more than they did last year, attacking from all sides. They probably had better depth than we have"

Yelich was called the key to the Lumberjacks' play, however The senior guard missed 10 games early in the season with a knee injury.

"He has really added a lot to our club," Davis said. "We have matured a lot under him"

The co-champion with Eau Claire Memorial in the Big Rivers Conference, Wausau East is a hard team to figure.

"We're not tall and we're not short," Davis said. "We have average speed. We don't run, but we can run."

Both coaches picked Neenah to win the title. As usual, they were asked not to include their own team.

"They have the experience of being there," Davis said of the Neenah Rockets, "and I'm sure they want it very badly."

Beran, however, put Appleton West on an equal level, noting that West won by a single point in the final seconds last year.

"I think you'd have to go with Appleton or Neenah without any question," the veteran Cumberland coach. "It's pretty hard to beat the champion."

Maloney, a junior, placed third in the still rings. West's Greg Hanson was 10th in the same event.

Big Rally Tips Holy Cross

St. John's Tourney Crown First in School's History

Little Chute St. John's newly-won championship in the Catholic Boys Grade School Tournament held at the Appleton St. Mary School gym is the first in the school's history.

St. John rallied in the second half, overcoming a huge lead built up by Kaukauna Holy Cross to win the championship by one point, 41-40.

Dave Hermsen scored the winning basket for St. John, with 12 seconds remaining. Hermsen also was the top scorer for the victors with 18 points, on eight field goals and two free throws. Jerry Schumacher was next in line with 13 points.

St. John trailed by 21 points, 31-10, at halftime. Holy Cross scored a basket to start the second half to push the lead to 23 points, and then the Dutchmen began their rally. Holy Cross managed just two baskets and three free throws to rest of the way while St. John cut the lead to seven points at the end of the third period and pulled the game out in the final stanza.

An effective pressing defense by St. John turned the tide in the last half.

In the battle for third place honors, St. John, Menasha, scored a 55-53 victory over Kimberly Holy Name. In the consolation game, St. Pius, Appleton, topped St. Bernadette, 45-38.

Three Irish on All-Olympian

Co-champion Freedom dominated the Olympian Coaches All Conference Basketball Team by placing three players on the first unit.

Joe Van DenBerg, Tony Brockman and Bob Garvey, of the Irish, all made the top five along with Valders' Ken Larson and Reedsville's Scott Schultz. All are seniors except Larson, who is a sophomore.

Five teams were represented on the second team as Ray Berres, Mishicot; Mike Novak, Hilbert; Jeff Barnard, Reedsville; Jim Letterman, Denmark, and Lou Busch, Valders, were selected.

Top Scorer

Included in the honorable mention were Brillion's Jeff Brandes and Hervey Smith, Mishicot's Brian and Bruce Benthein, Valders' Jim Pivonka, Freedom's Gary Hooyman, Denmark's Dan Karbon, and Wrightstown's Tom Vanden Heuvel.

Van DenBerg (6-2) was the league's top scorer with 307 points and a 21.9 average. He also rated second in the circuit with his total of 179 rebounds.

Brockman, also 6-2, was the leading rebounder among Olympian players with 190 retrieves. His point total of 194 and 13.8 average ranked him ninth in the league.

Power, Lakers Fail in New York

Bulls All But Clinch Playoff Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The lights dimmed in New York and got brighter for Atlanta and Chicago.

While New York tolerated another power failure—this one confined to the game between Los Angeles and the Knicks at Madison Square Garden—Atlanta's Hawks and Chicago's Bulls brightened their chances for National Basketball Association playoff berths.

The Knicks demolished the Lakers 115-82, Atlanta overhauled Philadelphia 130-125 and Chicago outran Baltimore 113-99 Tuesday night.

In other NBA action Cleveland upset San Francisco 108-103, Cincinnati held off Buffalo 113-102 and Milwaukee belted Phoenix 119-111.

In the American Basketball Association Indiana pounded Pittsburgh 130-119, Kentucky bombed New York 122-104 and Memphis mauled Denver 127-118.

On The Blink

The Knicks were leading 71-58 late in the third period when most of the lights—along with the scoreboard, clocks and public address system—went on the blink.

"Let's hide the ball off the court," Los Angeles center Wilt Chamberlain joked as the fourth quarter began with New Yorkng 80-63. "Then they won't be able to find it either."

It might not have been a bad idea. Moments later the Knicks reeled off 11 straight points to finish off the Lakers. Walt Frazier topped New York with 22 points. Willie McCarter had 19 for the losers.

Atlanta, runner-up in the Central Division, retained its 1½-game edge over Cincinnati in its playoff race. The Hawks trailed Philadelphia by 18 points but Lou Hudson and Pete Maravich combined for 30 fourth-quarter points to turn the tide. Hudson finished with 43.

The Bulls all but wrapped up the Midwest Division's second-place position. Tom Boerwinkle's 26 points and Jerry Sloan's 24 enabled Chicago to pull away from Baltimore and open a four-game margin over third-place Phoenix with four to play.

Boston Whips Detroit

Johnny Bucyk, of Bruins, Gets 50th Goal of Campaign

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Bucyk, overshadowed this season by the scoring pyrotechnics of his Boston teammates Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr, has carved his own little niche in the National Hockey League record book

Bucyk became the fifth man in NHL history to crack the 50-goal plateau Tuesday when he scored twice in Boston's 11-4 rout of Detroit

In other games St Louis trimmed Montreal 6-2, Minnesota routed Los Angeles 7-2 and Chicago whipped Vancouver 7-4

A crowd of 15,547—largest in Detroit hockey history, packed the Olympia to see the record shattering Bruins in operation and the East Division leaders put on another awesome offensive show

Two Goals Each

Bucyk, Rick Smith and Wayne Carleton had two goals each and Esposito increased his own record with his 62nd goal of the year as Boston upped its team scoring record to 356 goals—53 more than the old record And they still have seven regular season games to play

Until 1961, Montreal's Maurice Richard had been the only man in history to hit 50 goals Then Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal and Chicago's Bobby Hull both reached the mark

Hull has had 50 or more goals four times and set the old mark of 58 goals two years ago. Then Esposito shattered that mark this season and Bucyk joined him in the select circle

Bucyk's feat, of course, made the Bruins the first team in history to have a pair of 50-goal men in the same season

Not as spectacular but still impressive to St Louis fans was their team's victory over Montreal It marked the first time ever that the Blues had beaten the Canadiens at St Louis

Bill Goldsworthy powered Minnesota past Los Angeles with three goals as the North Stars broke loose for five goals in a seven-minute span of the opening period

Bobby Hull scored once and assisted on four other goals in triggering Chicago's conquest of Vancouver Hull's goal was his 41st of the season and the five points made his point total 90

Chico Maki scored twice for the West Division winners and Dennis Hull, Keith Magnuson Lou Angotti and Bryan Campbell added a goal apiece Rosaire Paiement tallied twice for the Canucks and Dale Tallon and Bobby Schmautz rounded out the Vancouver scoring

Hawkins May Jump Back to ABA Condors

Phoenix Center Made Verbal Pact To Move, AP Says

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Connie Hawkins, like the prodigal son, may be returning home

The Hawk, who jumped from the Pittsburgh franchise of the American Basketball Association last season to the Phoenix Suns of the NBA, has a verbal agreement with the Pittsburgh Condors to sign a contract at the end of this season, the Associated Press learned Tuesday

The 28-year-old Hawkins was named the ABA's most valuable player when he was with Pittsburgh in 1967-68, the year the club won the ABA championship

He moved to the NBA last year after settling a suit with the league

An authoritative source said the agreement with the 6-foot-8 Hawkins was made by a Condors official in a Detroit motel recently when the Suns played there

Hawkins, however is denying that he has had any negotiations with the club

Marquette Dental School Subsidy Plan to be Aired

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature is heading for a decision on another push for state tax subsidies for the training of health care professionals that may be a turning point in the health science professions in Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin assembly will take up Thursday as a special order of business an unprecedented proposal of Marquette University and the dental profession of Wisconsin to subsidize the training of future dentists by contracting with the Marquette dentist training faculty for the education of dental students.

Because the legislature two years ago agreed to state support of medical student training on the Marquette campus, the outlook for the companion bill have appeared bright.

But the unexpected demand of some legislators for the separation of the Marquette dental school form the sectarian university and its establishment as an independent corporation as a condition for the use of state money to support it has altered the outlook considerably, according to legislative leaders in close touch with the Democratic and Republican caucuses of the house.

The university and its alumni groups in presenting the original bill recognized the possibility of legal challenge and wrote the proposal in such a way as to prepare a test case of its validity before the State Supreme Court. Although it outlined a plan for state subsidy of $3,500 a year for Wisconsin students who are accepted for dental training, it asked for the nominal sum of $3,500 as a means of putting the issue before the magistrates on the question of constitutionality.

Two years earlier Marquette won state support for medical school tuition, but only after the court ruled that such financing would be a valid act for the state if the former Marquette school of medicine was divorced from the parent institution. That change was made and the Wisconsin College of Medicine is now functioning as an independent corporation.

Legislators have been informed that alumni disaffection with that result led to the presentation of the dental subsidy plan this year without a requirement for the divesting by Marquette of its dental college. The school and its influential alumni will oppose that condition, which means that the result of the legislature's voting is uncertain.

Marquette has reported a "severe crisis" in its dental training program which threatens the adequacy of dental health care in the state because it provides the only dental training school within the state. The plan presented to the lawmakers provides for a state contract with the school for the training of acceptable Wisconsin students, with the state paying $3,500 a year for each. The university says that it now costs $9,000 a year to provide for dental students.

Backers of the relief bill assert also that more than 80 per cent of all Wisconsin dentists now practicing were trained at Marquette, and that the problem of professional personnel supply is worsening. There are now 261 fewer dentists in practice in the state than were licensed a decade ago.

The Marquette school admittedly is suffering from a lack of equipment replacement of a cost and variety that modern professional training demands, and which it is unable to provide out of its existing resources. The alternative to a state assistance program, the legislature is being told, would be the establishment of a dental school at the University of Wisconsin at a minimum capital cost of $25 million, with high operating funds, and a seven to eight year lag to complete construction of facilities.

Research Panel 'Unimpressed' With Sanguine

Committee Named By Lucey Says Data Difficult to Get

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A research committee reported Tuesday to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey it isn't much impressed with the Navy's eavily criticized radio project in northern Wisconsin.

The governor's Committee to Study Project Sanguine said it had difficulty getting information about the communications program. The committee's chairman said the panel determined the Defense Depart- big enough to finance 1,000 Sanguine-type projects.

The Navy has been battling congressmen and conservationists over plans to bury miles of antenna across northern Wisconsin with which to communicate with military facilities throughout the world, particularly submerged Polaris submarines.

Endanger Wildlife

Critics have said electrical currents in the antenna would endanger wildlife if not humans. The Navy is now asking Congress for $2 million for studies of burying the cables in tunnels thousands of feet below the surface.

Robert Bock, chairman of the study committee, told Lucey the panel has "very grave reservations that this is the way to communicate at all."

Bock, a University of Wisconsin dean, said his committee learned Sanguine could cost "well under $1 billion," or that costs could rise to $3 billion for the "most secure system."

The panel figures it would take two or three minutes with the proposed radio grid to faithfully get a 10-word message through to a submerged submarine, Bock said.

Alternate Plans

The Navy, he said, has seven alternate plans for the grid, all geared to the northern Wisconsin bedrock which the Navy has said would be ideal for radio transmission purposes.

The Wisconsin legislature has adopted a resolution, supporting construction of Sanguine if the Navy can provide assurances there would be no electrical danger to inhabitants or disruption of the environment.

The Navy is making tests which it says should prove that currents in the antenna won't interfere with domestic radio, television or telephone communications.

Accidental Pollution Target of Bill

MADISON (AP) — A bill to toughen Wisconsin's anti-pollution law cleared the Wisconsin Assembly Tuesday on a 93-6 vote, and was forwarded to the Senate.

The bill would make even accidental discharges of pollutants into state rivers and lakes a violation of the law. If enacted, it also would make each day the pollution occurs a separate violation.

During floor debate last week, Rep. James Azim, R-Muscoda, complained that language of the measure could be construed to severely penalize an unwitting polluter who was not even aware of his violation of law.

Backers of the measure contended, however, that making each day a separate violation is aimed at industrial polluters, who could otherwise more profitably pay a fine than clean up their waste discharges.

The Assembly refused to kill another measure, which would direct the Highway Commission to reroute Wisconsin 27 in Chippewa County.

Rep. John W. Slaby, D-Phillips, called the bill a "matter of safety versus economics," and urged the Assembly to kill the measure rather than pass it "at the cost of human beings' lives."

The bill was referred to the joint finance committee.

FVTI Plans New Course For September

Program Arranged to Train Technicians For Paper Industry

A new two-year associate of arts degree program in Pulp and Paper Technology was approved Monday by the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 board. It will begin in September.

Applications are being accepted for the program which will be offered at the Oshkosh school until the Fox Valley Technical Institute is completed.

The purpose of the program is to prepare students for employment as technicians in the paper industry. The program will provide a broad background in laboratory techniques and manufacturing processes related to the pulp and paper industry.

Job opportunities for graduates of the program include working on a research team as a development technician, service and sales technician, process analyst, process control technician, quality control and process instrumentation technician.

The pulp and paper industry is one of the 10 largest industries in the U.S., with a heavy concentration in the Fox Valley.

"The industry is sound; it generates about $1 of every $100 in the national income and promises to double within the next three decades." Dominic Bordini, head of research and planning, explained.

He was instrumental in conducting a recent survey which showed a need of more than 100 pulp and paper technicians in the next three years in the Valley alone.

Required abilities include a facility with mathematics, proficiency in the application of the basic concepts and laws of physics and chemistry.

Offered in the course will be studies on the materials and processes commonly used in the industry, and extensive studies of the apparatus, equipment, procedures and techniques that are used.

The curriculum approved by the state board and the pulp and paper advisory committee includes these plus the recommendation to high school students that they take three years of English, at least a year of algebra and one of science.

The two-year course had been allocated to the Appleton Vocational, Technical School prior to area organization. The VTE-12 had not picked up the option until now, and upon the request for an answer by the State Vocational, Technical Board and the Coordinating Council on Higher Education, decided to exercise the option, beginning with the fall term.

"We felt that as the heart of the paper industry, we should offer it here," explained William Sirek, FVTI director.

Two New Units of Lutheran Pioneers received their charters at the annual district meeting of the group Sunday at the Country Aire in Appleton. Over 125 people attended the meeting. National Commander Bruce Thompson, right, Burlington, presents the charters to, (from left) Wilmer Hanneman and William Meyer, Train 262, Zion Church, Readfield, and LaWellyn Tesch and Leslie Hedtke, Train 257, Bethlehem Church, Hortonville. Vocational School Slates Classes

KAUKAUNA — Eight general adult classes have been scheduled for the spring term at the Vocational School together with specialized courses for specific personnel. Registration will begin March 22.

Deadline to register for general classes is April 8 and for the special courses, April 1. These include a course for food service worker in hospitals and nursing homes and a class for school lunch personnel including managers, cooks, assistants and helpers.

General courses scheduled include: family and company meals taught by Mrs. Robert Karl; clothing 1 taught by Mrs. Daivd Kilgas; fashions in lingerie, Mrs. Leo Driessen,; sewing with knits, Mrs. William Mittelstaedt; two knitting classes with Mr. James Bambery and Mrs. Robert Swalby; Milton Schmitt and adventures in antiques, Mrs. Otis Rice.

The school food service course will be handled by Mrs. Bonnie Marousek, R. D., holder of a degree in dietetics and member of the American Dietetic Association, with classes to be held Monday and Thursday evenings April 12 through May 20.

The course for foood service workers in hospitals and nursing homes will be held at Kaukauna Community Hospital with Mrs. Ellen Haynes foods and nutrition instructor and Miss Helen Petersen, R. D., consulting dietician.

This will be a 12-week course with students meeting on consecutive Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. with a certificate to be awarded upon satisfactory completion of the course.

Measles Immunization Clinic Set for Kimberly Youngsters

KIMBERLY — Fourth through sixth graders and kindergarten age children will receive Rubella, German measles, immunization at 1 p.m. March 23 at Janssen School and at 2:15 p.m. at West Side School.

Preschool children may have the shots from 6 to 7:30 p.m. the same day at the Village Hall. Last April, kindergarten children and first and second graders received this immunization. Thus with those scheduled to receive it this year, all children of the community should be immunized against German measles.

Since children from ages one through 12 are mainly responsible for spreading the disease which may cause serious defects in unborn children during a mother's pregnancy, health officials encourage parents to take advantage of this opportunity. It is offered by the state Department of Health.

Parental consent slips are being sent home with students and are to be returned prior to the immunization date. Children who have had the disease, those who are allergic to chicken or duck eggs or feathers, those who have a temperature of 100 or more on the day of the clinic and those who have received a live virus vaccine within a month of the clinic should not receive the immunization.

Children who have a serious allergic problem or those under medical treatment whose resistance has been lowered by therapy should consult a doctor prior to registering for the clinic.

Old Law Spoils Plans For Dance Marathon

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Plans for a campus dance marathon have been shot down.

Some Catawba College students planned a charity fund-raising dance marathon this weekend, but school officials said they were reluctant to run afoul of a 1935 state law against such dancing and "similar endurance contests."

LU Program For Elementary Teachers OK'd

State Certification Approved for New Education Courses

Lawrence University's program for training teachers for elementary grades has been approved by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, according to James S. Marks, assistant professor of education at Lawrence.

Beginning in June, Lawrence graduates who have completed the university's program in elementary education will be eligible for certification to teach at the elementary level in Wisconsin, Marks said.

Lawrence extended its teacher certification program to include elementary education at the beginning of the current academic year. Previously, the university's program in education certified teachers only at the junior high and high school levels.

Summer Sessions

The Lawrence elementary education program initially certified teachers for grade one through eight in 38 states. For other states, where more professional work is required, including Wisconsin, students had to do work in off-campus summer sessions before receiving certification to teach on the elementary level.

With the appointment of Marks to the education department faculty last fall, and the development of an elementary education program, Lawrence students, according to state criteria, now can meet their professional requirements for certification within the university's program.

Under the teacher education program at Lawrence, Marks said, students wishing to enter the teaching profession must meet the same requirements for both a major and a degree as those who do not prepare to teach. Work in teacher education is taken in addition to the courses required by the academic major.

The program, therefore, provides teachers for the elementary grades who have both a strong major and a solid liberal arts background, features which are becoming increasingly important at both the instructional and administrative levels of elementary education.

Law Enforcement Conference Dates Set

MADISON — Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren has announced that his 1971 Law Enforcement Conference for Wisconsin law enforcement personnel will be held June 2 and 3 at the Park Motor Inn at Madison.

The main theme of the conference this year will deal with "Successful Case Preparation. . . Investigation Through Prosecution." The conference will explain how a case is successfully prosecuted, from field investigation to the trial.

The conference is being held in cooperation with the Wisconsin District Attorneys Association, the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police Association and the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association.

Newlyweds Will Take Long Trip—Some Day

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The best man provided the bridegroom with handcuffs Monday after Hector Lopez married Miss Marlene Yohnk in a civil ceremony in Milwaukee County Court.

Lopez, 30, serving a seven-year term in Waupun State Prison, was granted the ceremony after he and his bride said they didn't want to wait until his release.

The best man, deputy sheriff Stan Wojtasiak, led Lopez off in handcuffs after the ceremony as Judge George Burns Jr. told him: "When you get out, take a nice wedding trip."

Women Hear Talk on Special Police Group

"Our ultimate objective is to reduce crime, so you women won't have to lock your doors in the middle of the day," the Genevieve Paulson Circle of King's Daughters was told Monday night by the organizer of Appleton Business and Professional People and Police.

It was the first public presentation concerning the new police assistance plan being developed by Dr. Neil Brahe, a former Appleton dentist who now is an instructor-lecturer on matters dealing chiefly with the dental profession.

Brahe said public response to his proposal has been good. A number of persons, including doctors, a pharmacist and several business and civic leaders, have expressed an interest in serving both on the board of directors and in specialized assistance areas in the organization. Directors are expected to be named soon, Brahe explained.

Brahe, remarking that he has long had an interest in law enforcement, told the women his interest was stimulated when he saw a police and the community display several months ago at the Oklahoma City, Okla., airport.

He said Appleton Business and Professional People and Police will help develop a liason between law enforcement and the community, will assist police in enforcement situations and will serve as a public relations and training arm of the Appleton Police Department.

Emphasizing that the organization will differ considerably from an auxiliary police unit in that it encompasses a broader form of law enforcement assistance, Brahe said that he envisions, among other things, establishment of a "mini-crime laboratory" staffed part-time by volunteers having knowledge in the areas of photography, medicine and chemistry.

The organization also will help obtain financing for enforcement needs of the police. "The police department in Appleton needs equipment it doesn't have a prayer of getting under the budget," Brahe told the women.

He said the organization also could supply instructors for police training programs. Some of the people who have expressed an interest in becoming part of the unit already are involved in training policemen, Brahe said.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff who, along with other members of his department has worked with Brahe in laying the groundwork for the organization, said that working volunteers would be given much the same training as is presently given police recruits.

After presentations by Brahe and Wolff Monday night, the women toured the police station where they had held their regular meeting.

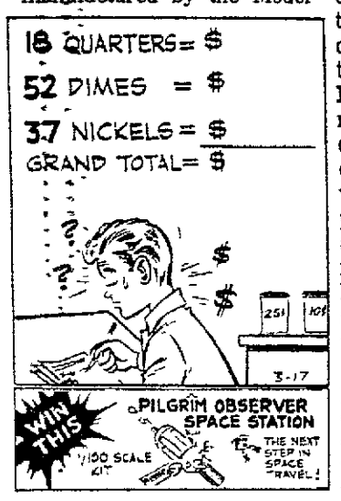
Count Coins Correctly To Win Space Station

BY CAPPY DICK

How much money has Dave saved? You can get the answer by adding the value of the coins listed in the picture.

If you do this correctly and send in a contest entry that is neat and original, you may become the winner of a kit to build a model Pilgrim Observer Space Station. This kit, manufactured by the Model Products Corporation, contains everything needed to build a miniature of the next giant step in interplanetary space exploration. The completed Pilgrim model has 14 movable parts, including three swing-out sections, a movable Apollo module and a movable space taxi. There are accommodations for 12 occupants and their supplies, a hydroponic farm section, a see-through nose cone and other great features. The lift-off length is 12 inches and the cruising length is 17 inches



Five Pilgrim Observer Space Station kits will be awarded as the national grand prize in today's contest. To qualify for a chance to compete for one of these exciting awards you must first win a local prize. In today's contest this is a comical eraser called an Itty Bitty, useful at home or at school. Five Itty Bitty erasers will be awarded for the five neatest and most original correct contest entries from boys and girls of the Fox Cities area. These winning entries will compete with other local-prize-winning-entries from all other cities where this column is published when the judges select the five neatest and most original of all. The Pilgrim Observer kits will be awarded to the boys or girls who sent those five.

The puzzle is easy to solve if you multiply and add correctly. When you have done so, clip the picture out, paste it on a sheet of paper and print the total of Dave's savings beneath it, along with your name, age, address and Zip Code number. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Space Station Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none returned.

Guess Which? Miracle Man Or Charlatan?

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Men at Law focuses on the killing of a man who was either medical miracle man or charlatan, depending on who you're talking to. William Windom plays this chap, who uses "acupuncture" on his patients, but who is murdered shortly after a scene with Jessica Walter, playing a strong-willed heiress who wants to get her grandfather out of the clinic. Naturally she is the top suspect in the killing and our guys, once again, have to find others who might also have been interested in killing Windom.

6:30-7 Channels 11-9 — The Courtship of Eddie's Father has a cute tale in which little Brandon Cruz decides he needs a baby brother and, with his father's advancing old age, it will soon be too late. So he decides to trade for a baby with a family which has several members.

6:30-8 Channel 5 — The Men From Shiloh features Stewart Granger in a show that devotes a good deal of time to him and the killer wolf he is tracking. After he is wounded by the animal, he is found by Julie Harris and her son. Clint Howard (formerly of Gentle Ben), and nursed back to health. This involves him with Arthur O'Connell, Pernell Roberts and, of course, that wolf who is still stalking him.

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — The Smith Family has its best episode to date with Henry Fonda taking a desk job to ease his wife's worries and because, after he has been injured capturing a couple of bandits, his doctor has told him it takes longer to heal at his age.

8-9 Channel 5 — Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme host "Suburbia U.S.A." on Kraft Music Hall. Sid Caesar, Barbara Feldon and Anne Meara guest on the show which focuses on Steve and Eydie's experiences in settling into a suburban neighborhood.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Somebody is attacking attractive young women on the university grounds in Medical Center and indeed there is evidence that the attacker is a surly young doctor (Gary Lockwood), who arrives with a scratched face just after the latest rape. (R)

9-11 Channel 5 — Four-In-One begins repeats by rotating the four series. Leading off is McCloud, which has survived into next season. This was the first episode (after a World Premiere movie), with Dennis Weaver as the New Mexico lawman who is nobody's rube, J.D. Cannon as the chief of detectives and Terry Carter as a sergeant. Here our hero is given the New York equivalent of getting out of town by sundown, because he killed someone in an ambush meant for him.

TV MOVIES

Real Alfred Hitchcock Early-to-Bed, Quiet

Professional Image of Mystery Film Director-Producer Different Story

By PETER MUCCINI

LONDON (AP) — His movies to the contrary, life with Alfred Hitchcock is quiet and peaceful.

That's the word from his wife Alma.

"We go to bed at 10 o'clock most nights," she says. "That's why we are still fit and healthy."

Looking two decades younger than her 71 years, Mrs. Hitchcock is accompanying her husband, also 71, as he scouts out locations for "Frenzy," the next film he will direct. It concerns a multiple murder based on a suave sadist who mutilated and murdered two women in Britain during the late 1940s.

Quiet, Tidy

In a film studio Hitchcock is a master of spine-chilling suspense and horror liberally laced with impish humor, but "there is nothing macabre about him at home," Mrs. Hitchcock says.

"He is very quiet and neat and tidy," she reports. "He spends much of his time reading."

The quiet of their life back home in Bel Air, Calif., is broken only by dinner parties.

"We have a very modest home," said Mrs. Hitchcock. "When we have guests who are our special friends, like Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, we always eat in the kitchen. The stuffy ones we entertain in the dining room, which is not so nice."

The Hitchcocks married in 1926. As Alma Reville she worked as a film editor and assistant director. She helped Alfred in all his films up to "The Paradine Case."

"I've given it up now and you can describe me as a housewife and cook," she said. But even now her husband asks her opinion on certain film matters.

Horror does not worry her.

"There is a demand for it and it serves a purpose," she said. "My husband tends to treat it as a joke and this releases much of the tension."

Hitchcock still has a tremendous sense of humor, she said, but he no longer goes in for elaborate practical jokes as he did in younger days.

"I remember one we did in London many years ago," she said. "We invited all our friends to a blue dinner. Everything had been dyed blue — the bread rolls, the meat, the vegetables, the soup and the drinks."

Glad You Asked That

BY HY GARDNER

Q: About the new comedy album, "Spiro T. Agnew Is a Riot" — Is it true radio stations are afraid to play it because they fear retaliation? — Mullen R., Seattle.

A: No. I doubt if the Vice President would hit the roof because of a spoof. After all, Agnew became a household word by laughing at himself. I suspect the real reason this Stanley Myron Handelman-Rich Little-Vincent Price platter isn't widely aired is because only a handful of stations program comedy albums these days.

Q: Whatever happened to Carroll Baker — once touted as "the next Marilyn Monroe"? Has she retired? — Duke S., Richmond, Va.

A: "I retire every night," "Baby Doll" cooed in her Rome home. "But I've never been busier or happier since I had the good sense to move to Italy. Maybe it's true that Latins are lousy lovers. I must say they're not as wonderful as they'd like to make you think. But they sure bolster a gal's ego." When Miss Baker posed in the nude for Playboy a few years ago — and appeared similarly unattired in "The Carpetbaggers," she predicted movie nudity would be commonplace one day. After two unsuccessful marriages, the former Garment Center fur model dates plenty of paisanos — but none seriously. After learning all about the life of Jean Harlow before filming the story, Carroll decided that unless you can combine fame with fun you're selling yourself short.

Q: Is it true that people who are deaf, dumb, and blind are not included in the U.S. census count? — Hoagy McP., Oklahoma City.

A: This was a fact at one time but no longer. Until the census of 1830, the deaf, dumb, and blind were considered nonpersons and were not included in any head count.

Q: I hear that Florida's Disney World will be the biggest amusement park in history. And my wife and kids have been after me to write away for hotel accommodations. Are there any available yet? — T. S. Lamon, St. Louis.

A: With opening day still far away, only one of five hotels has even been given a name — the Temporarily Hotel. (Which, I trust, is just a temporary name.)

"IF YOU SEE NOTHING ELSE THIS YEAR, YOU MUST SEE FIVE EASY PIECES!"
This film will not, I think, ever fade from memory. Consummately played by Jack Nicholson, one of the few truly gifted movie actors!"

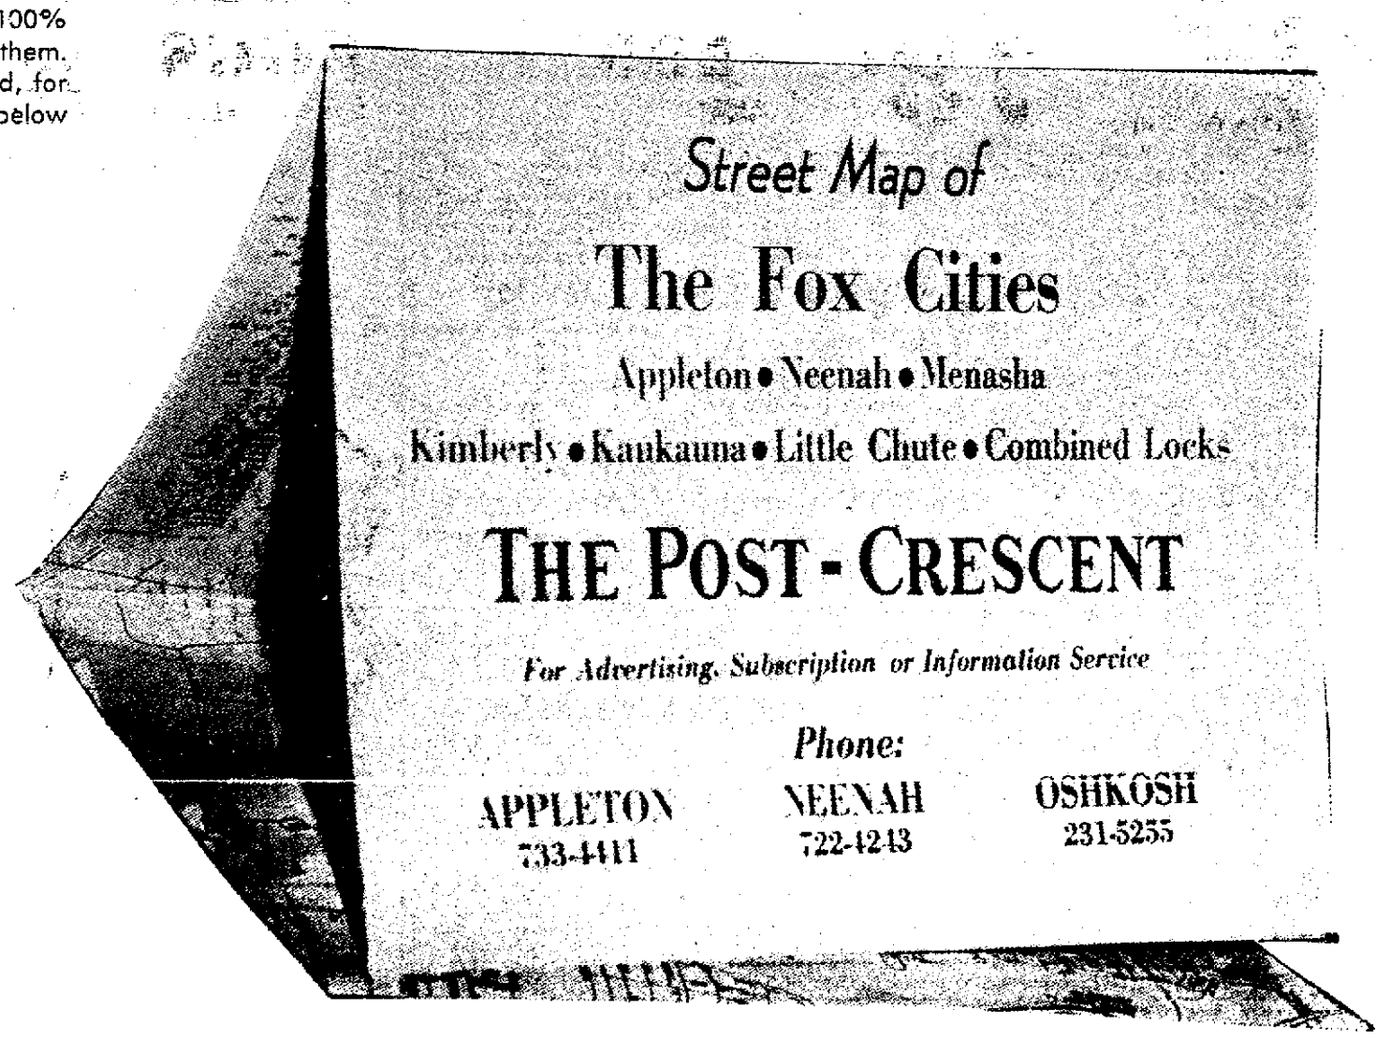
- Present and Proposed Freeways
- New Interchanges • New Streets
- New Scale-in Feet
- New Colors • Actual size 34"x24½"

A great number of changes have taken place since the last Post-Crescent Fox Cities maps were prepared in 1966. Many new streets, freeway extensions and interchanges have been installed. Town areas have grown, city areas extended. These changes are all reflected in the new, 1970 Fox Cities maps just now available. While it is almost impossible for city planners and engineers, from whom most of the information is obtained, to be 100% accurate, the 1970 maps are as complete as it is possible to make them. Stop by the Post-Crescent offices in Appleton, Neenah or Oshkosh and, for just one dollar, get your new map. You may use the handy order form below for mailing purposes if you desire.

Available Folded or Unfolded



Following several requests for a more convenient carrying size, the new, 1970 Fox Cities maps are now available folded to an approximate 8½"x6" size. However, unfolded maps are still available for those who desire to mount them.

Nixon Disturbed by Metropolitan Mayors

Refuses to Confer Because They Failed To Back His Revenue Sharing Program

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's stubborn refusal to huddle with big city mayors reflects not only intense dislike for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York but White House resentment that the mayors have not pulled their weight fighting for revenue-sharing.

Mr. Nixon has been miffed that the mayors failed to aggressively lobby congress to pass revenue-sharing but did noisily attack his freeze of urban funds. Accordingly, the President has ignored five written requests from Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia, president of the U. S. Conference of Mayors, to meet with its 17-member legislative action committee.

Besides, there is innate White House suspicion that the committee is dominated by Democrats and that its chairman, Lindsay, might use the White House steps to attack the President. A potential Democratic candidate for president, Lindsay has replaced Charles Goodell as Republican enemy No. 1 at the White House.

Tate first wrote Mr. Nixon Dec. 29, asking that he confer Jan. 21 with the committee on how to convert reluctant Democratic congressmen to Mr. Nixon's general revenue-sharing. Also scheduled for discussion was the mayors' objection to special revenue-sharing (consolidating separate categories of grants).

With major cities represented on the committee (14 of the 17 are Democrats), the mayors could be a major presidential ally. Yet, Tate's Dec. 29 letter went unanswered until Jan. 11. Then Hugh Sloan, a young assistant to Appointments Secretary Dwight Chapin, replied that, because of work on the State of the Union, Jan. 21 was impossible and another date would be found.

Silence followed. On Jan. 21, Tate wrote again. No reply. On Feb. 11, Tate wrote a third time. Two weeks later, on Feb. 25, another young Chapin aide, David Parker, replied that they were "working out" a date. Since then, Tate has written twice more. Finally, last Wednesday he telephoned White House aides—all to no avail.

Cities' Bombshell

Led by Republican Rep. William Scherle of Iowa, congress is just learning the grim fact that, with present funding levels, President Nixon's special revenue-sharing plan for urban development will substantially cut money for several large cities in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1972.

Scherle discovered that Council Bluffs in his district would drop from $1,500,000 to $714,000 in the second year of special revenue-sharing (if it passes congress). Council Bluffs is no isolated case.

Secret data hidden in the Housing and Urban Development Department show that Boston, New Haven, Des Moines, Denver, and others will take cuts under the extremely complicated formula folding present urban development money into one package. Contingency funds will make up the difference the first year (beginning July 1, 1971) but not the second.

A footnote: The drop for Des Moines may shock another Iowa Republican, Rep. John Kyl, who is on a team of Republican "travelling salesmen" plugging revenue-sharing. Kyl has been put into a new district containing Des Moines, almost certainly pitting him against popular Democratic Rep. Neal Smith in the 1972 election. Salesman Kyl may find it hard to explain the cut in federal funding for the biggest city in his new district.

Nixon's China

Despite published speculation that President Nixon's use of the phrase "Peoples' Republic of China in his State of the World address marked a turning point in Washington-Peking relations, the fact is that Mr. Nixon's first unnoticed reference to Communist China's official name came at a White House dinner party toast last Oct. 26.

Guest of honor was President Nicolae Ceausecu of Rumania, Mr. Nixon's closest Communist friend, Mr. Nixon said Ceausescu held a "rather unique" position in the world as head of a government with "good relations" with the United States, the Soviet Union, and "the Peoples' Republic of China." He decided long ago the time had come to try normalizing relations with the country that contains one-fourth of humanity.

A footnote: The President tells political intimates he hopes Red China will open its doors to American tourists. He adds, half-humorously, he would like to go himself.

All-Volunteer Army Postponed

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has turned thumbs down on an all-volunteer army but approved President Nixon's proposal to keep the draft for use only in emergencies

"We killed the volunteer army, extended the draft for two years and did away with student deferments," said Chairman F. Edward Heber. D-La.. after a closed committee session Tuesday.

"In other words, we gave the administration everything they asked for"

Abolish Draft

Legislation sponsored by 87 House members would have abolished the draft, replacing it with an all-volunteer military by boosting pay and other attractions $3.1 billion next year. This was rejected by the committee 28 to 7.

Nixon's proposal is to keep the draft intact but try to attract so many volunteers, starting with a $1.5-billion pay-benefit boost next year, that no drafting will be necessary by June 30, 1973.

The Armed Services Committee is expected to fatten Nixon's proposal, possibly close to the $3.1 billion in the rejected bill, at its next meeting Thursday.

Hebert's proposal to grant conscientious-objector status to young men in return for three years of national nonmilitary service also is to be considered then.

Student Deferments

Nixon's request for the same authority to abolish student draft deferments without going to Congress that he already has used to halt work and fatherhood deferments was approved by the committee 31 to 1.

Such action would leave virtually no deferments except in hardship cases.

It approved 32 to 4 Nixon's proposal to extend the draft two years beyond its June 30 expiration and rejected 29 to 4 a four-year extension.

All votes are tentative pending final approval of a 1971 draft bill, expected Thursday, but appear too one-sided to be reversed

Whole Package

The President accepted only part of his Gates Commission recommendations last year for replacing the draft with a volunteer Army while the 87 House members wanted the whole package.

The Nixon proposal includes a 50-per-cent starting pay boost—to $201 90 a month from the present $134 40 for recruits—and a $3 000 bonus for men enlisting for combat

The Gates Commission, named for former Secretary of the Army Thomas S. Gates, recommended a starting pay boost of more than 100 per cent—$301.50 for recruits—and an average 50-per-cent boost over a two-year enlistment.

Other attractions—such as greater use of civilians for KP and other nonmilitary duties, improved housing, educational opportunities—are similar in both volunteer Army proposals.

Thomas Dewey, Two-Time Presidential Hopeful, Dies

MIAMI BEACH, Fla (AP) — Some gentle advice from his singing teacher turned Thomas E. Dewey from pursuit of a career on the concert stage to a life of law and Republican politics that included two bids for the presidency

Dewey, who served three terms as governor of New York, died of a heart attack in his hotel room Tuesday as he was preparing to fly to Washington for a White House party. He was 68

President Nixon praised Dewey as "a great patriot, a distinguished statesman and a fine human being" and said of the party, "The occasion is diminished beyond words for both Mrs Nixon and me by his death."

Arrangements Pending

Funeral arrangements were scheduled to be held Friday in New York City at St. James Episcopal church The body was to be flown to New York late today, with public viewing scheduled for Thursday. Details of burial plans were incomplete.

A spokesman for the late governor's relatives said the family has requested no flowers be sent, but that contributions might be made to either the New York Heart Association or Roosevelt Hospital

Dewey was an aspiring young baritone just out of college in 1923 when he went to New York to study with the famous singing coach, Percy Rector Stephens

Stephens eventually advised Dewey that he sang "too intelligently" to expect outstnding success Music critic Deems Taylor put it a bit more critically when he observed Dewey's singing lacked feeling

The lack of flair or flamboyance they found in his singing was seen by some of Dewey's Republican critics in later years as the reason for his failure to win the White House.

Lost to Truman

"We should have known he couldn't win—a a souffle never rises twice," commented the tart - tongued Alice Roosevelt Longworth after Dewey's upset defeat by President Harry S Truman in 1948.

But Dewey began his public career as one of the toughest racket-busting prosecutors of his time. His rise started with his appointment as a special prosecutor in 1935 to conduct the Rackets Investigation in New York County.

He was elected district attorney of the county two years later. He obtained convictions against 72 of 73 defendants, shattering a powerful web of racketeers.

Best known among them was

Raising Social Security May Be Powerful Economy Spur

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has handed the Nixon administration a powerful catalyst to ignite the nation's economy. boosting Social Security benefits for 26 million Americans who usually spend instead of save.

The 10-per-cent across-the-board increase in benefits, retroactive to Jan. 1, will pump $3.6 billion into the pocketbooks of persons on limited incomes, a group that traditionally parts with its money in a hurry.

The increases were tied to a bill raising the national debt limit a record $35 billion to $430 billion.

As President Nixon prepared to sign the measure today, the nation's economy was in a sluggish state, failing to respond to the stimulative fiscal and monetary policies he has put into effect.

Will be Felt

The economic thrust of the Social Security bill will be far-reaching. The extra money, as one economic expert put it, "will go to a lot of people who have been forced to scrimp."

It will be June before the Social Security administration includes the new benefits in paychecks. At that time, Nixon's economic advisers will be able to determine if the economy is going in the direction it has laid out.

Nixon had asked Congress to increase Social Security benefits by 6 per cent, a proposal that would have put $2.1 billion into the hands of retired persons this year. the lawmakers opted for the 10-per-cent hike.

The President proposed raising the income base on which taxes are paid from $7,800 to $9,000, an effective tax increase of $2.5 billion.

Burns Advice

Congress, following advice of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns and private economists, postponed the tax increase until next Jan. 1.

The result is an effective $4-billion stimulus to the economy beyond what Nixon proposed in his budget. The stimulus will come principally from higher consumer spending which is down this year.

In 1970, consumer savings exceeded 7 per cent of disposable personal income, extremely high by historical standards. The administration has predicted the savings rate will come down as the economy expands. The Social Security rise could help lead the way.

The administration's economic target of a 9-per-cent increase in output of goods and services this year relies heavily on a sharp expansion in the money supply by the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Money Supply

The board has expressed reluctance to expand the money supply as fast as Nixon wants and has talked instead of new fiscal measures, such as the Social Security rise, to give the economy an additional thrust.

The benefit increase is viewed also as noninflationary because it comes at a time when the economy is not yet operating at its full potential. Unemployment is high and business is poor.

Under the bill, average payments for an individual were increased from $114 a month to $126. For a couple, the increase is from $199 to $219.

The maximum payment for a retiring worker was raised from $193.70 to $213.10. The minimum payment of $64 a month was increased to $70.40.

The boost, added to a 15-per cent increase made in January, goes to those receiving retirement, disability and family-survivor checks

The bill removes the 4¼-per-cent interest ceiling on long-term government bonds for $10 billion of Treasury securities, a limitation the government has long sought to remove

Increases in Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — These aer examples of increase in monthly Social Security payments that would result from the bill Congress sent to the White House Tuesday·

Person	Couple	Person	Couple
$ 64	$ 96	$ 70.40	$105.60
$ 80	$120	$ 88	$132
$100	$150	$110	$165
$125	$187.50	$137 50	$206 25
$150	$225	165	$247,50
$190	$285	$209	$313.50

The increase is 10 per cent across the board; anyone now receiving benefits can expect that much more starting with checks due to be received early in June.

The Senate had voted originally for larger increases in the minimum payments but these were dropped in the final Senate-House compromise.

The increased benefits are retroactive to Jan 1 and the amounts due under this provision will be paid separately by checks which the government hopes to mail out in June.

Taxes would increase a maximum of $62 40 each for the employe and employer under provisions effective in 1972.

Under present law, taxes are paid on up to $7,800 of annual earnings. This base would be raised to $9.000 next year. The current tax rate. 5.2 per cent. would stay the same in 1972.

In addition, starting in 1976, the presently scheduled rates would be raised, moving in steps to 6.05 per cent each for employe and employer in 1987. The presently scheduled top rate in 1987 is 5.9 per cent.

U.S. Expected in U.N. Force for Middle East

By JOHN M HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is counting on Congress to support U.S troop participation in a U N police force to secure a hoped-for Egyptian-Israeli peace settlement.

Secretary of State William P Rogers told a news conference Tuesday he was satisfied that if an agreement acceptable to Israel and Egypt can be worked out "our Senate and our House of Representatives would support it."

Rogers also said hopeful conditions now exist for peace even though negotiations are at an impasse at the moment He warned of danger to the world should the peace efforts fail

Peaceful Settlement

"We think," he said, "that if a peaceful settlement is not worked out in the foreseeable future that there is a very dangerous situation that will develop and possibly lead to world war III"

He argued therefore, the use of big power troops, including Americans, to guarantee any agreement would be a substantial contribution to world peace.

Officials say a peace-keeping force offering new security for Israel and protecting against the possibility of a major war would have strong appeal in Congress

That any such proposal would face serious challenge in the Senate, however, was indicated by the initial reactions of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and George D Aiken, R-Vt., all members of the Foreign Relations Committee

Less Involvement

Symington said "the less we are involved there the better." And Aiken said a peace-keeping force would be better left to the smaller nations with the United States and the Soviet Union left out"

Mansfield made much the same point

Rogers said the impasse in the negotiations under U N mediator Gunnar Jarring results from Egypt's insistence on the complete Israeli withdrawal from territory captured in 1967 and Israel's demand for holding positions it considers vital to its security

Holding strategic territory has proved more important to its safety than past guarantees, Israel insist. Foreign Minister Abba Eban explained this position in New York Tuesday night when he said the 1967 war "offered a case history in the collapse" of such guaranties.

Israel, he said, will not trust its future to "vague or fragile solutions."

Nevertheless, Rogers is expected to tell Eban in talks here Friday U.S. participation in an international guarantee of a peace settlement will provide the security Israel needs.

International Force

One part this guarantee would be the stationing of an international force, including U.S troops, at Sharm el-Sheikh, a strategic point dominating Israel's oil supply route to the port of Elat.

Rogers also stressed that a part of the peace agreement should provide for demilitarization of the Sinai Peninsula.

In addition, Rogers said, "We would continue to give support to Israel in terms of economic assistance and other assistance . . that, of course, would be a very important factor in Israel's attitude toward its security. And we would be prepared to continue to play a supportive role to Israel"

Rogers virtually ruled out any kind of new security treaty for the Middle East

'It Looks Like a Rout'

Laos Forces in Retreat Pilots Report

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

HAM NGHI, Vietnam (AP) — Repeated North Vietnamese onslaughts are driving the South Vietnamese out of their bases in Laos and back toward their border with heavy losses, American helicopter pilots reported today.

"They can talk about helicopter mobility all they want, but from where I'm flying there's only one way to describe it—retreat, and a bad one," said WO Fred Few of Chattanooga Tenn

Another called it a rout

In the past five days the South Vietnamese have abandoned two of their four firebases south of east west Highway 9 retreated 15 miles and now are about 14 miles from the Vietnamese border, the pilots said

A third base, Landing Zone Brown, appears doomed.

"Sure, they've knocked out quite a few enemy supplies and maybe even cut the Ho Chi Minh trail in one or two places, said one pilot, but they haven't stopped the enemy from moving men or supplies, and they're taking a hell of a lot of casualties"

Pursuit Ordered

Radio Hanoi said the Communist command in Laos has ordered all its troops to "pursue trap and annihilate the U.S. and Saigon puppet troops."

"The enemy is defeated," the Pathet Lao order said "Now he is trying to retreat Destroy him

One ragged column of survivors reached landing zone Brown, the westernmost position still in South Vietnamese hands, only to find it under constant bombardment by enemy mortars, rockets and artillery The column had retreated from Fire Base Lolo, five miles to the west, which a large North Vietnamese force took Monday night.

Returned to Base

South Vietnanese officers in the field said the Saigon troops pulled out of Brown Tuesday night and between 100 and 150 North Vietnamese troops moved in U S air strikes were called in on the hill after the South Vietnamese left. They returned to the base this morning and found the bodies of 80 North Vietnamese soldiers, the officers said. Some of the South Vietnameses' own ammunition was blown up by the air strikes.

American pilots said Brown.

Doctors Optimistic About Surviving Quints

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors say they are optimistic about the survival chances of four baby girls, born 10 weeks premature to Pearl Kaplan, 25, and her 28-year-old husband

The infants, weighing 1½ to 2 pounds, were listed in "guarded" condition after their birth early Tuesday A fifth child, a boy, was stillborn

Paul Kaplan, the father and an insurance salesman, said his wife "is just ecstatic. This is the greatest thing that could possibly happen."

Doctors at Valley Presbyterian Hospital in suburban Van Nuys where the babies were born, said one of the infants had breathing problems but all were "in excellent condition" for their size.

Mrs Kaplan had been taking a fertility drug called Humegon, manufactured in Holland, her obstetrician, Dr. Hubert Rubentstein, told newsmen. He said the drug often resulted in multiple births and the Kaplans had been told this.

"We felt it was a matter of having no children or going this way," Kaplan said.

Dr Rubenstein said Mrs. Kaplan had been admitted to the hospital about a month ago.

Doctors said the infants were placed in isolettes—sterilized units with carefully regulated temperature—under constant observation and were being fed a glucose solution intravenously.

Kaplan said the babies, who must remain in the hospital until they weigh five pounds, have been named Danielle, Kevyn, Dawn and Marci

Noiseless Bomblets Help Snoop on Enemy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A recording device called a noiseless button bomblet is what's needed when you want to do some first-class snooping right in the midst of the enemy, an Army official says

An array of bomblets" were displayed for military and civilian intelligence operatives Sunday at the 6th Army Presidio

The gadgets weigh about an ounce and look like pieces of garbage

Lt Col Gilbert Hickenbottom, explaining some of the electronic devices, said American intelligence has been deployed against the North Vietnamese for more than three years

One of the bomblets, he explained starts transmitting beeps if it is moved as little as 1-32 of an inch

Infiltrating the enemy by air drop, the bomblets transmit on FM radio frequencies which are picked up and relayed to headquarters Artillery then can be ordered in "within 15 minutes," he said

Another item, Hickenbottom said, is the "passive infrared device" Its signal sending can be triggered only by the heat emanating from human beings' 98 6-degree body temperature.

The bomblet will start beeping when a human comes within 100 feet of it, he said.

Doctor for Bear Creek, Shiocton, Black Creek?

Senate OKs Community Medical Plan

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The communities of Bear Creek, Shiocton and Black Creek may be able to attract a doctor to serve all three areas on a part-time basis if a bill passed by the Senate Tuesday clears the Assembly

The bill introduced by Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek would permit cities, villages and towns to borrow either $50,000 from the state school trust fund or an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of the community's equalized evaluation to construct a doctor's office, clinic or hospital in order to attract doctors to practice there. The motion was approved by a vote of 23 to 7.

Lorge said that a doctor — whom he would not name — who lives in the area of the three Outagamie County communities has offered to serve the communities if facilities were provided. His service would be on a part-time basis, Lorge said

The senator said that neither Bear Creek nor Shiocton has bn usd in th pst nd would medical facilities, but that Black Creek has space that has been used in the past and would not need the bill's authority. But, apparently the doctor's offer hinges on all three communities' participation.

Measure Opposed

It appeared that the proposal might be sidelined when Sen. Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee, moved for indefinite postponement. He and Sen. Walter John Chilsen, R-Wausau, opposed the measure on the ground that it would hold out "false hope to small communities," in Chilsen's words, that they can attract and retain medical services

The two senators have served on a medical education study committee and claim that many communities that have built medical centers to attract doctors have found them empty in a few years.

"There are other methods and more viable solutions," Chilsen said Parys said they would have a bill that would propose an alternative solution later in the session.

But Lorge charged that their bill probably would require expenditures of state funds and the late arrival of the bill will doom it to failure because Gov. Patrick Lucey has warned legislators that he will not sign a bill without a funding proposal attached.

Parys said it would be a mistake to permit the taxpayers to go into debt to build medical facilities that will join others in Wittenburg and Rib Lake that are now empty.

Sen. Reuben La Fave, R-Oconto, cited a community-built medical facility in the city of Florence that is operating and providing service, particularly to tourists and summer residents.

"It may be your child, when you come up north on vacation, who needs a doctor," La Fave warned the urban senators. If it were not for the Florence office, he said, area persons would have to travel 100 miles for immediate help. He said the doctor there has been credited with saving some lives and the sight of a child that would have been lost if help were not available there.

Lorge said that one-third of the state is without service of a doctor. These persons are, he said, primarily old and living in communities where there is no doctor, no public transportation to the nearest doctor and no means of personal travel. They need, he said, a weekly shot or periodic check-up, and in some instances the elderly are being compelled to move to the cities, away from their friends, simply because of the lack of medical services

In a related bill which Lorge introduced into the Senate March 5, a new medical school would be created in Wisconsin, possibly at Green Bay, and the Medical College of Wisconsin, formerly the Marquette Medical School, would be expanded.

The bill provides for a 5-cent cigarette tax to finance the proposals, which include numerous other provisions to expand medical education in Wisconsin, including the student loan fund.

Lorge has said that he considers the shortage of medical doctors in Wisconsin as one of the most critical problems.

"With the exception of our large cities, our smaller cities of 10,000 population or under are the areas where the greatest shortage of doctors exists," he said

The bills' provisions include developing pilot programs to improve and extend health services; developing programs of continued education for physicians and allied health professionals; and creating a medical services council to assess the state's medical needs and to recommend programs to utilize fully the skills and services of nurses and paramedical personnel in areas suffering from a shortage of physicians

During Street Repairs

Chamber Begins Plans for Shoppers

NEW LONDON — With plans under way for the resurfacing of main street and installation of new curb and gutter and sidewalk, the Chamber of Commerce Improvement Committee has begun taking steps to accommodate both shoppers and businessmen.

Involved in the work will be the S. Pearl and N Water streets downtown area

Among items discussed by the committee was a campaign to educate the public on how to get to the various business places through the back doors. Additional lighting in some of the city parking areas behind the businesses was suggested as an asset during the construction period.

The group plans to meet with Director of Public Works Robert Martin, Tuesday, to update their information on the project.

Also discussed by the committee was the extension of Shiocton Street, but no action was taken.

The Shiocton Street extension was defeated in a council vote last fall. At that time it was felt by most aldermen that the project was advantageous, but that the property owners in the area had not been properly contacted. The extension was a council project at that time

New Farm Program

The public relations committee of the chamber is involved in setting up a new program to replace the farm institute. Following a study of the institute program, the committee reported that it was not achieving enough success for the work involved.

In place of the institute a farm equipment showing is being discussed, along with an evening program for the rural community. The committee will meet with county representatives for a study of the types of programs that could be offered.

The program would be held in the fall on the same day as Farm Market day in New London.

Members Initiated Into Legion Auxiliary

CLINTONVILLE — Past presidents will be in charge of the initiatory ceremonies of new members at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at 8 p m Thursday at the Veterans Memorial Building.

The committee for the evening will be Mrs. William Elliott, chairman, Mrs Len Manser, Mrs. Casmere Mijal and Mrs. Owen Tilleson.

Programs in Waupaca Get $2,000 Boost

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Jaycees tallied $2,000 in their merchandise auction Saturday and local "people programs" will receive the funds this week.

"None of this would have been possible without the generosity of the local firms which contributed merchandise and services valued at an estimated $3,000 and the interest shown by area residents in the bidding," Robert Carline, Jaycee president, said.

"It certainly shows how people will come through when given an opportunity to help," he added.

The money will be used to send two local boys to summer camp at Rawhide, help retire the Waupaca Community Center debt, and the Waupaca Association of Mental Health's scholarship fund, purchase special equipment for the Waupaca Association for Retarded Children and for the Wolf River Mental Health Clinic's program in Waupaca and the Waupaca Drug Education program.

New London Projects

Council Action to be Evident

NEW LONDON — Residents of the city will have the opportunity to watch much of City Council's recent action take shape this summer.

At their Tuesday night meeting, aldermen approved advertising for bids on the downtown reconstruction, the installation of sanitary sewer on Water Street, from N. Pearl to Elm streets; the installation of sanitary sewer in the alley between Wolf River Avenue and S. Water Street, and the city's portion of the Shawano Street (Highway 45-54) urbanization.

The council's timetable calls for a meeting March 30, which will allow the businessmen affected by the reconstruction program an opportunity to meet with an engineer from Donahue and Associates, and plan changes they may have to make in their store approaches.

Bid Opening

Next will be the April 6 opening of bids for the reconstruction and sewer bids, the April 7 awarding of the bids, and a public hearing on April 8 for the assessments on all of the projects.

Gene Mortimer, of Donahue and Associates, consulting engineers, explained the plans to the aldermen.

The reconstruction project includes new curb and gutter, sidewalk and resurfacing of the downtown area of Pearl and N. Water streets. The resurfacing is designed to produce better sidewalks will be designed to eliminate all steps throughout the city, while their variable pitch will produce safer walking for the pedestrian.

Mortimer noted that the level of the road will be established by the depth of pavement, so as to provide a smooth grade and even curb level.

One point that was emphasized is the fact that some intersections will be reworked up to 80 feet from the main project street This work is being done to provide the smooth sidewalk technique with the least amount of change, and also allows some corners to be changed for better traffic flow.

Greatest Change

The intersection of Shawano and N. Water streets will undergo the most change, with a right turn lane being designed from N. Water onto Shawano. The turn will allow trucks an easier flow onto the street.

Mortimer said the field inspector often would make more allowances, as construction begins, to meet existing business entrances.

The specifications for the street work call for work to begin within 10 days of notification of the contractor, and to be completed within 90 days of commencement. The contractor will be assessed $200 per day for every day over the 90-day period and paid $200 additional for every day completed before the 90-day period.

While one street is being worked on the other street will be open. The entire area will be designated local traffic only, and the contractor must provide pedestrian access to all businesses

Sewer Project

The N. Water Street and Alley sanitary sewer projects will be let with the 10-day commencement clause, 30 days completion and a $100 bonus or assessment.

The sewer will be assessed at $6 per front foot on each side of the street, the curb and gutter at 50 per cent of the costs, the sidewalk and driveway entrances at 100 per cent of the costs

The Shawano Street (45-54 intersection) urbanization will be handled by the state, with the city paying $48,260 of the estimated $475,560 costs of the project.

The state plans to let bids on the project March 23. Included will be pavement of the road and installation of curb and gutter from the Green Bay and Western Railroad tracks to north of Henry Street.

Curbs, Gutters

The curb and gutter will go 93 feet west, and 62 feet east on Highway 54. Work is expected to begin May 1 and be completed in the fall. The highway will not be closed, but traffic will travel on a temporary road, built on the west side of the present road.

Ald. Jerome Freiburger noted that with all the road work the city would be faced with many traffic problems during the summer. It also was noted that during this time work would be continuing in the city on the storm sewer separation project.

Waupaca Recreation Plan Gets a 'Terrific' Response

WAUPACA — This city is in its third year of offering recreation programs for people of all ages who have leisure time on their hands.

"Response to the program has been terrific," David Schneider, recreation director, said.

People of all ages, from senior citizens to children in the upper grades, are enrolled in the program. Schneider said that the number of persons using the facilities and programs increased by over 200 in the last year.

Among the programs provided for the senior citizens, a program with a separate director in Waupaca, are socials, potluck suppers, card parties, crafts, ceramics, photography classes, pool games, visitation and phone services for shut-ins, field trips and movies.

A portion of the program is funded through available federal aids. The city operates its senior citizen's program on a budget of about $9,000.

Programs for Adults

Adult activities include softball for both men and women, men's flag football, basketball, volleyball for the men and women and women's exercise programs The programs are established on both leagues and individual bases, depending on the response

The youth program occupies the largest portion of the recreation director's job. Low-cost recreational programs are offered

The program is designed for outside activity in the summer. Baseball, softball, little league, dances and playground activities are offered. Included in the playground program are both arts and crafts and junior activities

The summer program which does not include the swimming program, involves between six and eight coordinators on a part-time basis

Teachers, College Students

The coordinators are usually teachers or college students

The young people's winter program includes dances for students in grades six through 12 and a youth center operation two nights a week.

Tuesday night is high school night at the center, with activities for students in grades nine through 12 Thursday night is open to junior high students, grades six through eight.

The center is open to all students during the hour after school Schneider said the response to this set up has not been too great.

Among the organized activities currently offered are pool and table tennis tournaments. "They are working great," the director said, adding that more tournament competition would be planned. Basketball leagues also are offered in the junior and senior high winter programs.

The recreation director and his part-time assistant also are responsible for flooding and clearing the ice skating rinks in the city. They also maintain the baseball diamonds in the summer.

Wait with Building

Schneider noted that it would be to the advantage of the communities studying the feasibility of a director not to plan a building immediately. "You have to have a program first," he said, pointing out that most communities have all the facilities they need.

"You always can offer something new and the people are very responsive as far as participation goes," Schneider pointed out.

The Waupaca program operates on a $40,000 budget. Schneider noted that some of the programs were slowly showing signs of becoming more self-sustaining.

He added that most communities could save on facility costs by getting maximum use out of their present buildings. "If they would get somebody to put all their facilities together into a program, I don't think they would be sorry," Schneider said.

The success of the Waupaca program points out that a smaller community can provide a comprehensive leisure-time program that will benefit all residents of the community.

Waupaca Adopts Merit Plan for High School

WAUPACA — High school students who qualify will be granted free choice of activities next year at any time when they are not specifically assigned to a class or special assembly as the result of the board of education's action Tuesday to adopt the merit system.

After months of study and a search for practical ways to alleviate the increasing numbers in overcrowded facilities, the board chose the merit system which has worked out well in the New London senior high school

It is predicted that next fall's enrollment will be 675, an additional 40 students

"This will release the library, which has been used as a study hall, for its proper use," Supt Len Brittelli told the board The Department of Public Instruction, which has strongly recommended for several years that the library no longer be used as a study hall now has said that the library cannot be used for this purpose.

Use of Library

"It makes sense not to limit the use of the library in this way and prevent it from fulfilling its function he added At present, we have a highly paid person, the librarian, and a secretary in this room with the study hall teacher and proper use is being denied the students."

The merit system will be put into use on a trial basis and this is the way it will work

This spring students will apply for merit for the first quarter of the 1971-72 school year and must have on file in the main office a permission slip signed by his parent or legal guardian Eighth graders will apply for merit and be evaluated by the teachers

Merit Qualifications

The qualifications for a merit student" are:

- A good attitude toward school and work
- Makes full use of abilities and aptitudes
- A good citizen at school and in the community
- Maintains grades in keeping with his abilities

No definite grade average is set The demand is that a student's grades reflect his learning ability and indicate that he is working up to his capacity

Merit students will be permitted to use unassigned hours as follows

Use of Time

-- Study at home if it is within easy access of the school.
- Go to the school library rather than a study hall
- Study in a vacant classroom
- Study in a study hall if space permits
- Study on the school grounds (weather permitting)
- Visit the public library if time permits
- If his study hall occurs at first period, he may arrive at school for the second hour, if fourth period, he may arrive at school after third hour, fifth period, may arrive for afternoon classes sixth hour, and if seventh period, he may leave after sixth hour
- If the student drives to school, he must obey all regulations spelled out in existing driving regulations.

The merit system will work if the students accept the responsibility, according to Brittelli.

Some Concern

In a discussion preceeding the board's acceptance of the plan Gerald Anderson expressed concern that there would be a significant breakdown under the plan for those students who do not discipline themselves to study or who are not encouraged to study at home

"It is my opinion that 60 per cent of our students go to homes where they are not encouraged to study, and I can foresee real problems for these boys and girls "

Clarence Riddle high school principal, explained "Those students who are having difficulties in their classwork already are being helped in class by their teachers. When they get into the study halls, their homework is already done and with idle time on their hands, other problems arise A student with learning difficulty may be a good citizen in every other respect and if he meets the merit qualifications, there is no advantage to keeping him in study halls."

Abide By Rules

To become a merit student, in addition to proper application and written permission from the parents, a student must abide by rules and regulations expressed and implied and be approved by the faculty One disapproving vote by a faculty member is sufficient to prevent a student from making merit.

These specific regulations on a merit student's activity will be in force

- He may have a maximum of five minutes at the beginning and end of each merit hour for travel to locker and next class or to leave the building.
- He may not be loitering by the student parking lot or any auto

Carry Card

- He must be in possession of and carrying his student merit card at all times
- His conduct must be above reproach at all times
- If his grades deteriorate following admission to the merit listing, he automatically will be removed from the program
- If he is removed from merit, or does not earn merit for any succeeding quarter, he is required to turn in his merit card.
- Any violation of the stated rules and regulations, or any act of misconduct in any situation shall result in suspension from the program for a period appropriate to the violation

Chilton Library May be Expanded

CHILTON — The idea of expanding the present library facilities in to the room now occupied by the Soil Conservation Service was aired at the City Council meeting Tuesday evening.

The library committee consisting of Mrs. Alex Caser, Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Chester Courtice requested that the library's north wall be taken out and extended to include the Soil Conservation room. This added space would serve as a children's area, while freeing the library room for adult use and student reference work.

A library tour was taken by the councilmen, and they agreed additional space is needed. However, Arnold Weller (4th Ward) said first they must consult the industrial commission to see whether the expansion could be done.

Mrs. Charles Smith pointed out that the library was a good cause and that it served the community well She said that in view of the fact the city is going to remodel the first floor of the City Hall, now would be the time to expand the library. She said it would be of no great burden to the taxpayer.

Mrs. Casper noted that since 1960 library books have tripled and that circulation last year was 20,190 books. "Now that we have this county plan, we not only get children but whole families, and they just don't have room to move around." she said.

Councilmen also agreed on extending payment for the township's fire contracts to August instead of May.

A delegation from the Town of Brothertown questioned why the payment had to be made in advance and also proved that the $3,000 was too high. A representative said the township also must pay $2,000 to the Calumet Fire Department which brings their fire protection to a cost of $5,000.

Mayor Thompson explained that it costs the city about $600 monthly to operate the fire radio at the sheriffs department. He said new equipment also is an expense.

Fire Chief Norbert Sturm explained that the Towns of Chilton and Charlstown also pay other municipalities for fire protection besides Chilton. Each township pays $3,000 to Chilton and the city must cover the whole area.

Councilmen authorized the housing authority to apply for funds for surveys for a 55 housing-unit complex for the elderly.

Also passed was a resolution authorizing condemnation of land owned by Joseph Durn through which the interceptor sewer on Water Street must pass. It will serve everything north of the Manitowoc River. The resolution was passed on the condition that negotiations for the land easement is not accepted by Durn.

The option on the Daun property where the incinerator is to be built has been extended, it was reported by the City Attorney William Engler, Jr.

Also reported by the police committee was the repairing of the city squad car which was damaged in an accident Friday evening. Body repairs will cost about $891 plus any additional damage to equipment.

City councilmen also went on record requesting the county board to contribute to the New Hope Center.

1919 Railroad on Ice Recalled

SHERWOOD — The Lake Winnebago ice-out St. Patrick's Day 1919, is a day Arthur Schmidt, Sherwood, won't forget, and a day he believes many Fox Valley oldsters will remember.

Schmidt was part of a section crew for the Milwaukee Road Railroad that had the hurry-up job of dismantling a railroad "on the rocks".

The short-lived tracks on ice, was part of a scheme used by Schrage Ice Company, and California Fruit Company, both of Chicago, to obtain ice from the north shore of Lake Winnebago, in the Lake Park and Waverly Beach area.

Schmidt, a retired railroader recalls that the two companies came here in search of ice, when the mild winter further south, failed to provide enough for their needs. Schmidt helped lay the tracks, "enough for five car lengths", about March 8. He worked at the Schrage operation, located on the Lemmel farm near Lake Park.

"Men worked night and day cutting ice, which they loaded into box cars out on the ice. we put in a switch, and a locomotive switched 'em out and back again when the five were filled", he said.

A makeshift boarding house was erected, and about 80 men, many from the Fox Valley area worked for the Chicago Company. Five stalls 50 feet wide and 200 feet long were made and were filled with the 18 x 24 inch ice blocks.

Cutting plows sliced into the 18 inch thick ice about eight inches, then it was chiseled out Schmidt recalled, demonstrating with his hand just how it was. A channel was cut, steam donkeys were used and the ice was pulled up on elevators, he said.

At the same time, Schmidt remembered the Chicago Fruit Company set up its ice cutting business at the Reitzner Place at Waverly. This firm also had a railroad on the ice "the tracks ran right between two cottages, it was just wide enough for a box car to go through" he laughed, then it went out on the lake.

Everything went along smoothly, as the five cars were filled at each operation, they went down the main line to Menasha, where "ice trains" of about 30 cars, chugged their way to Chicago, at least until March 16 when the weather became very warm.

Saint Patrick's Day, the veteran railroader won't forget. He spent it ripping up the rails and the ice-laden ties, working in water over his boots. "It was one of the most miserable jobs I've ever had". Crews from Green Bay and Greenleaf were sent to assist the Sherwood crew. "The ice just moved out so fast, a lot of the ice cutting equipment was lost".

The ice in the stalls "covered with marsh hay" remained through the summer.

But Saint Patrick's Day, 1919 when Lake Winnebago broke up also brought to an end a novel railroad experiment, and a day to long be remembered by ice men and railroaders.

Women of the Moose Schedule Card Party

CLINTONVILLE — A public card party will be sponsored by the library committee of the Women of the Moose the afternoon of Apr. 21 at the Moose Lodge.

The Moosehaven committee will sponsor a public card party May 2. The plans were discussed last week at the home of Mrs. Grace Cattanach.

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Moose Lodge.

Rural Trailer Home Damaged by Fire

STEPHENSVILLE — Fire of unknown cause swept through a trailer home a mile south of here early today, gutting half the unit and doing an estimated $7,000 damage.

There were no injuries. The occupants and owners of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tate, route 1, Hortonville, were working when the blaze broke out shortly before 1:30 a.m.

Tate, 21, saw flames leaping out a window when he got home from Neenah Foundry at 1:30 a.m. He summoned the Hortonville Fire Department. Tate's wife, Florence, 20, a nurse at Appleton Memorial Hospital, was on duty at the time.

Hortonville Fire Chief Robert Rindt said his men concentrated efforts on saving the other half of the 10 by 55 foot unit. He said one-half the unit was completely burned out. Heat and smoke damage to the remainder of the unit was severe, he said.

Rindt said the blaze apparently started in the combined living-dining room area of the home. A definite cause was not established. Fire fighters remained at the scene, a mile south of here on State 76, until 3:45 a.m.

Rindt said the couple has lived in the home for the past two years. The home, purchased used, stands on the property of Tate's father, Donald, whose barn and garage were flattened last Dec. 1 by a tornado that whipped without warning through Outagamie County.

Hilbert School Board Action

Career Program to Continue

HILBERT — The Cooperative Vocational Guidance Program specializing in careers development will be continued, at a cost of about $1,435, the Board of Education voted Monday night. Brillion, Reedsville and Stockbridge participate in the program, served from the mobile center, a renovated school bus.

Supt. Richard Yenchesky told the board that next year it is hoped students will receive the maximum use from the center, as it is planned that a secretary will double as librarian and will be in the bus at all times. Presently the counselor, who has to spend time with teachers, must leave the vehicle. The secretary's salary was figured into the original pilot program, Yenchesky said.

After discussing the leasing of a 15 passenger van-type school buses, the panel agreed to ask for quotations to purchase one. Currently the district leases an eight passenger vehicle which is too small.

In seeking the opinion of the board, the administration learned that a guidance counselor was favored on a full-time basis with possible teaching duties. The board agreed after reviewing teacher needs that the budget allowed for this addition.

Elementary Principal Eugene Lakso explained the ESEA Title 1 reading program, noting that while last year 120 children were recommended by teachers in the public and parochial schools as needing help, federal funding only allowed for 30 pupils to enroll. Teachers were asked to recommend those in greatest need. Lakso pointed out that money must be used as stated by the government, with a certain percentage going for each phase of the program Ten per cent of it must go for inservice training.

No objection was made to engaging Mrs Richard Yenchesky as director of the summer program Three teachers and one teacher aide also will be engaged.

The proposed Brillion-Hilbert merger was discussed at length with the general opinion that the proposal should be investigated further before the district makes any building plans.

Plans were made to tour the Brillion facilities Tuesday night. The matter will be discussed at a joint board meeting after the tour.

Schools to Try Law Enforcement Class

Pilot programs to familiarize youngsters with law enforcement and hopefully decrease their chances of getting on the wrong side of the law will be instituted next month in three Fox Cities schools

The federally-funded program is being developed for the region's schools through the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), and may be incorporated in numerous schools next school year.

Grafton Ray, in charge of the program, said Tuesday Edison and Jefferson elementary schools in Appleton and Butte Des Morts Junior High at Menasha would incorporate programs after Easter vacation

Ray told the COG technical advisory committee on law enforcement that he would work closely with the instructors in the schools to coordinate curriculums and teaching materials He said that police officers will do most of the teaching

The evaluation after this spring trial will be used to determine the effectiveness of the program and its future use The juvenile education project offers four separate program areas — law and the youth, which is being evaluated, history of law enforcement, courts and corrections, and delinquency causes and cures

Schools will have the option to incorporate part or all of the program Ideally, the program would run from sixth through the ninth grades in the mentioned order, Ray said

The juvenile education project which is funded for three years, now begins its second year, and COG committeemen today approved seeking the second year grant of $13,972. The local share is $4,672

Ray said that judges, attorneys and others would be used in the full program

In other action, the committee approved Oshkosh and Neenah police departments requests for riot control equipment Oshkosh is seeking $1,722 in federal funds for bull horns generator pepper fog and other equipment, while Neenah is seeking $3,187 for tear gas, masks, shields, helmets and other items

The funding ratio is 75 per cent federal, 25 per cent local

Dan Van De Hey, director of the East Central criminal justice planning agency, said that if passed, President Nixon's revenue sharing plan would mean no local contribution in future grants but total state control on where and how the funds would be spent locally It's questionable whether the proposal will pass congress

Duncan is 74 and lives in Houston.

Police found a record of his arrest but were still looking for the gun

Tanker Submarine Designed to Carry Oil Under Ice Cap

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — General Dynamics says it has designed a nuclear - powered submarine to carry oil under the polar ice cap from Alaska and Canada's Arctic islands to world markets.

The 255,000-ton undersea vessel would carry 1.8 million barrels of oil per trip. Its primary route would be under the ice of the Northwest Passage to Greenland or Newfoundland where the oil would be transferred to surface tankers for shipment to East Coast ports in Canada and the United States.

Samuel B. Winram, director of Arctic transportation for General Dynamics, said Tuesday the big submersible oil carrier could be operating within five years.

More Oil

"Subtankers will be the most reliable, economical and flexible means of moving oil from Alaska's North Slope and Canadian Arctic islands to ice-free North Atlantic terminals," he predicted.

Plans call for building the subtanker at General Dynamics' shipbuilding divisions at Groton, Conn., and Quincy, Mass. Winram said no starting date had been set pending further talks with oil industry leaders and the U.S. government.

The $2.7-billion sub could operate the year around, which would minimize oil production cutbacks and the need for storage facilities, Winram told a news conference.

"Extensive cost analyses show that the sustained speed and regular operating schedules of the submarine tankers would more than offset their high initial costs," he said.

"When additional oil reserves are confirmed the subtanker would travel under the Arctic ice pack to Iceland, Norway and other world markets."

The great advantage of the underwater tanker, he said, is its ability to operate at a depth of 400 feet where it would be protected from ice, storms and other hazards that could cause oil spills. The submarine would travel at 17 knots.

General Dynamics proposes an eventual Arctic transportation network of 15 of the vessels.

"The problem in Alaska and the Arctic islands is not finding the oil but getting the oil out without damage to the environment, inexpensively and quickly," Winram said. "We think the subtanker can do the job."

The Carpenters, brother and sister ballad singers, and Paul McCartney, right, picked up Grammy awards Tuesday for outstanding records in 1970.

Simon & Garfunkel's 'Bridge' Named Year's Best Record

By GENE HANDSKAER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Simon and Garfunkel's "Bridge Over Troubled Water," has won six Grammy awards—the recording industry's counterpart of the movies' Oscars and television's Emmys.

The awards, gold-plated miniatures of an old-style horn phonograph, went to the song Tuesday night as the best record, album and song of the year and as the best contemporary song, the best engineered recording and the best-arranged vocal recording.

Th Carpenters, brother and sister ballad singers, were honored in two categories—as best new artists of the year and for best contemporary vocal performance by a duo, group or chorus. The second Grammy was for their recording of "Close to You."

Flip's "Devil"

Flip Wilson's "The Devil Made Me Buy This Dress" was judged the best comedy recording.

The 13th annual Grammy awards of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences honor creative achievement in recording during 1970. The presentation ceremony was televised live nationally for the first time.

Andy Williams was master of ceremonies at the Palladium ballroom.

For Beatles fans, Paul McCartney attended and was pursued by shrieking camera flashers as he ran to his car in the parking lot with his wife Linda after the awards. He told newsmen he had been here three weeks to work on an album.

"Let It Be"

McCarthy had collected the Grammy for himself and Beatles John Lennon and George Harrison as composers of "Let It Be." The song was honored as best original score written for a motion picture or TV special.

Other awards included:

Best contemporary vocal performance, female: Dionne Warwick, "I'll Never Fall in Love Again"; male: Ray Stevens, "Everything is Beautiful."

Best Rhythm and blues vocal performance, female: Aretha Franklin, "Don't Play That Song"; male: B. B. King, "The Thrill is Gone."

Best country vocal performance, female: Lynn Anderson, "Rose Garden"; male: Ray Price, "For the Good Times."

Best country song: "My Woman, My Woman, My Wife" by Marty Robbins.

Best jazz performance, small group or soloist with small group: Bill Evans, "Alone"; large group or soloist with large group: Miles Davis, "Bitches Brew."

Ban on Birth Control Devices Voided in Italy

ROME (AP) — Laws banning the sale of birth control devices or their promotion were declared unconstitutional today by Italy's Supreme Court.

The landmark decision opened the door to unrestricted dissemination of birth control information to married couples and doctors, and the labeling of the birth control pill and other contraceptives as such in pharmacies.

These devices have been sold in Italy all along but under the guise of being for some purpose other than birth control.

Penal Code

The court struck down three provisions of the penal code and public security laws which banned the advertising of or instruction in means of birth control means and the sale of such means, and provided for the confiscation of newspapers and other publications that carried birth control publicity. The penalty was imprisonment of up to a year or a fine of 80,000 lire—now $128.

The laws were written by Mussolini's Fascist regime to increase the population to get more troops for imperialist expansion in Africa.

The high court upheld the laws in 1965, saying that even though their original purpose was improper they were still needed to protect public morals. In reversing itself, the court said the laws violated an article of the constitution giving all Italians "the right to openly manifest their own thought with words, writing and every other means of diffusion."

Europe Wants to Buy U.S. Rockets

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — America can pluck a $1 billion plum for its space program if it is willing to provide rockets to launch European communications satellites.

That's the amount 16 European nations are willing to contribute to the United States' post-Apollo manned space effort if the thorny issues of the communications satellites can be solved.

State Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials are working behind the scenes to obtain approval to launch the payloads from two-thirds of the 77 members of Intelsat—the global commercial communications satellite system.

Under Intelsat regulations, no member nation can launch a communications payload that would be harmful to the international consortium.

Space Conference

The issue was raised at a space shuttle conference Tuesday by Jean Bernard LeGarde of France, liaison officer for the European Space Conference.

He told several hundred scientists and engineers that the United States must give a positive answer by late April or early May when the conference nations are to meet at the ministerial level to consider participation in America's post-Apollo programs.

If the answer is no, LeGarde said, Europe probably will have to forget about sharing with the Americans on any major scale and concentrate on developing its own rocket, the Europa 3, for the communications satellites. He said the estimated cost to have the booster operational by 1978 is $600 million.

"That is money that could go to the post-Apollo programs," LeGarde said. "Over-all, in the next decade we are prepared to contribute $100 million a year, a total of $1 billion."

LeGarde said that during U.S.-European discussions last month President Theo Lefevre of the European Space Conference "came with a mandate from Europe that proved the trend and intention of the Europeans to participate in the post-Apollo programs." The discussions, he said, stumbled over the communications satellite issue.

The United States said it would continue to launch scientific and experimental satellites for the Europeans, as it has done for years. But because of the Intelsat agreement it could not launch communications satellites.

Le Garde said Europe needs about 10 rockets for launchings between 1976 and 1985.

America's major post-Apollo program involves a multiman space station, an airplane-like space shuttle to service the station from earth and a space tug to travel between orbiting stations or between a station and orbiting satellites on repair missions.

Four Verdicts Possible

Jury Deliberates on Calley

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — In a spartan room, six army officers sat today in judgment of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., accused of My Lai murders.

"Think back to the events of 15 and 16 March 1968," the jurors were admonished Tuesday by Judge Reid Kennedy. "You and you alone have the independent responsibility of deciding the ultimate issue as to the guilt or innocence of Lt. Calley."

Thus, after four months of testimony, the fate of My Lai's most publicized figure was entrusted to men who have tasted battle and know the agonies of command.

They must weigh whether Calley is guilty of executing all or any of 102 villagers as charged or whether he is—in the words of his attorney—the "pigeon" of the tragic assault. The lawyer called him "The lowest officer on the totem pole in this whole business."

Available to the court-martial jury are four possible verdicts on each count: premeditated murder carrying a sentence of either life imprisonment or death; unpremeditated murder with life imprisonment the maximum; voluntary manslaughter with a maximum sentence of 10 years; and acquittal.

Four of the six men must concur in any guilty verdict under military law. Then they would retire again to fix a sentence.

"You, gentlemen, are the conscience of the United States Army," said Capt. Aubry Daniel as he wound up his summation for the prosecution. "You are the conscience of the nation in this case."

And, jabbing a finger directly toward the 5-foot-3 Calley, Daniel concluded: "The duty is yours to find the accused guilty as charged."

George Latimer, Calley's courtly, 70-year-old chief defender, said: "I have felt like I was adopting a son—and I would not adopt a murderer."

He pleaded: "To convict one lieutenant for the ills and vices occuring at My Lai will sear the image of the Army for all times. This wasn't a one-man carnage."

With a nod at Calley, sitting at the defense table in rapt attention, Latimer lowered his voice and almost whispered: "I ask you let this boy go free."

Pope Will Carry Symbolic Cross

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will carry the symbolic wooden cross again this year, despite his 73 years, in leading Holy Week observances by the world's Roman Catholics.

The Vatican announced Tuesday the pontiff would carry the cross a short distance in front of the Colosseum on Good Friday, which marks the crucifixion of Christ on Calvary.

A Bundle of Taboos Lurk for Comedians

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a television comic gets tired of hearing:

"Our sponsor's wife just nicked him for a million-buck court settlement. So let's don't have any divorce jokes tonight, Slappy."

"How can he help losing weight" The only time Slappy ever gets a square meal is when someone hits him in the face with a custard pie."

"He's called a stand-up comedian — you know, the kind that makes an audience want to lie down."

"It's a call from the Ed Sullivan office, Slappy They say one of the trained seals on this week's show is sick and they want you for a fill-in—that is, if you can balance a rubber ball on your nose"

"Our sponsor makes macaroni and spaghetti sauce, Slappy. So let's just forget all those funny Italian jokes, okay?"

"When Milton Berle finds a joke too old to use himself, he mails it free to Slappy."

"You really want to know what Bob Hope's got that you don't, Slappy? Well, I'lly tell you two things that Bob Hope's got that you don't have—one is a hunnert million bucks, and the other is steady work."

"The network censor says your script doesn't have any obscenity in it, but on the other hand, it doesn't have any humor in it either, as far as he can find"

"I don't know whether it's fair to blame Slappy for killing vaudeville, but you can probably give him credit for driving the last nail in the coffin and burying it"

"Our sponsor is a top officer in the Friendly Sons of St Patrick Society, Slappy So skip all those Pat and Mike jokes."

"We'd have had a real hit series, maybe, except that during the pilot show the automatic laugh machine broke down and started crying right in the middle of Slappy's funnest scene"

"Maybe your trouble is that you're trying to be too original, Slappy After all, no comedian in history ever got rich telling father-in-law jokes."

"None of the really big charity organizations want you, Slappy, but we've had two calls this month asking if you'll give a free show for some group that calls itself The Concerned Committee to Wipe Out Diseased Tonsils"

"I don't think your problem is simply mental, Slappy It must go even deeper. If your own psychiatrist falls asleep listening to you, how can you expect a live audience to stay awake?"

"Our sponsor is a drug firm, Slappy. So let's not be too merry about doctors tonight, okay?"

"It's your mother on the phone. She says that the only jokes you tell that get any real laughs are those that poke fun at her, so she wants to know how about cutting her in on a piece of the action"

"You'll have to find yourself another agent, Slappy I've done the best I can with you, but 10 per cent of nothing still adds up to nothing"

"I hate to be the last writer on your staff to quit, Slappy, but all the others beat me to it."
